A NEW USE FOR TOBACCO.

Your Pockets Filled With It No Bear Will Bite You.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES. BUTTE (Mont.) Nov. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As a safeguard against angry bears, L. R. Chace, a veteran trapper and hunter of Coolin, Idaho, enthusiastically recommends plugs of chewing tobacco judiciously distributed through the pockets of one's wearing apparel. In support of his idea Mr. Chace relates a remarkable escape from an infuriated cinnamon bear near Coolin. The trapper did not come out of the encounter unscathed and is still nursing a wound. "I was puzzled to know what had caused the bear to let go of my hip, but when I began to examine my wounds I discovered that half a plug of chewing tobacco was ground to a pulp. The tobacco had evidently made him sick so that he was glad to release my thigh. Hereafter when I go into the woods I will have my pockets full of chewin'."

GRANDPA BRYAN HUNTS.

Secretary of State Disperses Diplomats and Obeyes Call of the Wild and Johnny.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES. WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Little John Bryan Leavitt was into the office of the Secretary of State attired in hunting garb and with a little shotgun over his shoulder this morning. Diplomats, officials and secretaries were standing about.

"Grandpa," the little fellow said, "you promised to go duck hunting at 11 o'clock. You're late now. Let's go."

Secretary Bryan looked at his desk, found no dispatches of importance, disposed of his callers and obeyed the call of the hunt. He went down the Potomac River.

Two Other Vacancies on the Board to Be Filled by the President.

Appointments May Have Influence on Future of Rates and Traffic.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Wilson is expected to send to Congress early in the regular session the nominations of three members of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

There are seven members of the commission, so that the action the President will take is certain to have a large influence upon the future policy of the commission, with respect to railroad rate increases.

The vacancies which exist have been caused by the expiration of the term of Judson C. Clements of Alabama, the retirement of Charles A. Frost of Vermont, in order to assume charge of railroad valuation, and the death last night of John H. Marble of California.

It is expected Clements will be reappointed. There are at least 150 applicants for the other vacancies. Among them are Milo Malby and Martin Decker of the New York Public Service Commission, D. O. Ives of Boston, and Gov. E. D. Glenn of North Carolina.

"The death of a friend is always a shock, but in Mr. Marble's case, death came with stunning swiftness. He was just approaching the decade of his greatest capacity. His career had scarcely begun."

"Long familiar with the work of the commission, he had thrown himself heart and soul into his work. He was just coming into his full power. His marked talent, zeal and enthusiasm were dedicated in the highest sense to the public service. The public has lost a servant of rare ability, unimpeachable character, and unflinching devotion to duty and everything good in public and private life."

FEDERAL TROOPS ADVANCE TO RECAPTURE JUAREZ.

Huerta's Army of Six Thousand Reported to Be Only Forty Miles Away.

Two Trains Loaded With Soldiers Loyal to the Government Are Said to Have Been Destroyed—"Loss of Life Must Have Been Enormous," Gen. Villa Glee-fully Proclaims—Battle Expected Today or Tomorrow.

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 22.—[The main body of Gen. Francisco Villa's rebel forces, which left Juarez early today to meet a Federal force, reported to number about 6000 men, which is advancing from Chihuahua to give battle to Villa's rebels, is reported tonight to be about forty miles south of the border, but so far the impending battle between the two armies has not been opened.

At rebel headquarters in Juarez it was reported tonight that a few shots were exchanged by the advance guard of the two armies this afternoon, but both sides retired awaiting the bringing up of the main bodies of troops.

Gen. Francisco Villa is in Juarez tonight. He said that the main battle would not begin until tomorrow or the day following.

Two Federal troop trains, en route from Chihuahua to Juarez, were blown up at Rancheria, sixty-six miles south of Juarez, this afternoon, by dynamite mines placed along the railroad track by the rebels, according to a statement given out tonight by Villa, who returned to Juarez from that place, where his troops are awaiting the Federal approach. He declared there were 1500 Federals on the trains, which were destroyed, and that the loss of life was enormous. The rebels say they captured one of the trains.

Villa returned to Juarez, fearing the Federal advance, sent a flanking column to Guadalupe, a border town east of Juarez, with the intention of sending this force to Juarez to attack the town. Scouting parties were dispatched from Juarez this evening to watch for the approach of the Federal troops, which are reported to have gone to Guadalupe.

Preparations had been made for a big parade in Juarez today in celebration of the victory of the rebels over the Federalists last Saturday, but they were called off when the definite news came of the approach of the Federalists.

Villa said yesterday that he had 7000 men in Juarez. Just how near this figure was correct is known only to Villa and his chief lieutenants. The town was alive with rebel soldiers; every street and every house, it seemed, is full of men. All were being fitted out with shoes and overalls and jumpers. Some were getting hats.

Villa gave it out on his arrival in Juarez that he had destroyed the Mexican Central as he came to Juarez, and that the Federalists could not follow. One of his staff officers declared Friday that the road had only been torn up in places, and that the Federalists could easily repair it.

Villa carried considerable artillery with him today when he left Juarez.

FRENCH FLEE FROM REBELS.

Party, Which Assisted the Federals, Make Their Escape from Mexican Town.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—A party of French and other foreign residents of Santa Rosalia, Mex., fleeing from an anticipated capture of the town by Constitutionalists, reached this city today, headed by Dr. P. Rebus. There were several women in the party, and Dr. Rebus said about 100 French women had been taken aboard foreign merchant ships lying in the harbor on the occasion of the last Constitutional attack, October 25.

At the time of the fight, fifty rurales succeeded in driving back the attacking party after a sharp fight, in which two men were killed, and several wounded. However, the foreign residents felt that this protection was insufficient, said Dr. Rebus, and practically all were planning to leave shortly.

WARNS OIL COMPANIES.

Consul Miller of Tampico Tells Them Not to Pay Mexican War Taxes.

BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES. VERA CRUZ, Nov. 22.—Consul Clarence A. Miller of Tampico reports in a wireless dispatch from the United States battleship Nebraska that he has sent a special messenger to Gen. Candido Aguilar, the rebel commander, with a letter from Capt. Speer R. Wood, the commander of the Nebraska, giving a warning against the destruction of foreign property. He also advised the oil companies that they must remain neutral and must not pay war taxes.

REINFORCEMENTS.

MORE AMERICAN TROOPS SENT TO MEXICAN BORDER.

One or Two Infantry Regiments Will Go to Ft. Bliss, Near El Paso, in Order to Leave the Cavalry Available for Active Patrol Duty Along the International Line to Enforce Neutrality Laws.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Reinforcement of the American troops on the Mexican frontier was a development today relating to the Mexican problem, but this movement of troops was said to be not at all alarming by official statements issued in explanation.

It was said at the War Department that one or two infantry regiments are to be ordered to Fort Bliss, near El Paso, for the purpose of freeing one of the cavalry regiments, now stationed at that fort for active duty along the international line in the execution of the neutrality laws. The choice will fall upon the Sixteenth Infantry now at the Presidio, San Francisco, or the Twentieth Infantry, stationed at Ft. Douglas, near Salt Lake City.

To serve as a garrison and defend the city of El Paso from any possible attack from the south of the line, or to police the city in case of rioting, it was said that the infantry organization would be as serviceable as the mounted soldiers. On the other hand, not being as mobile, the infantry could scarcely fill the place of cavalry on the border patrol.

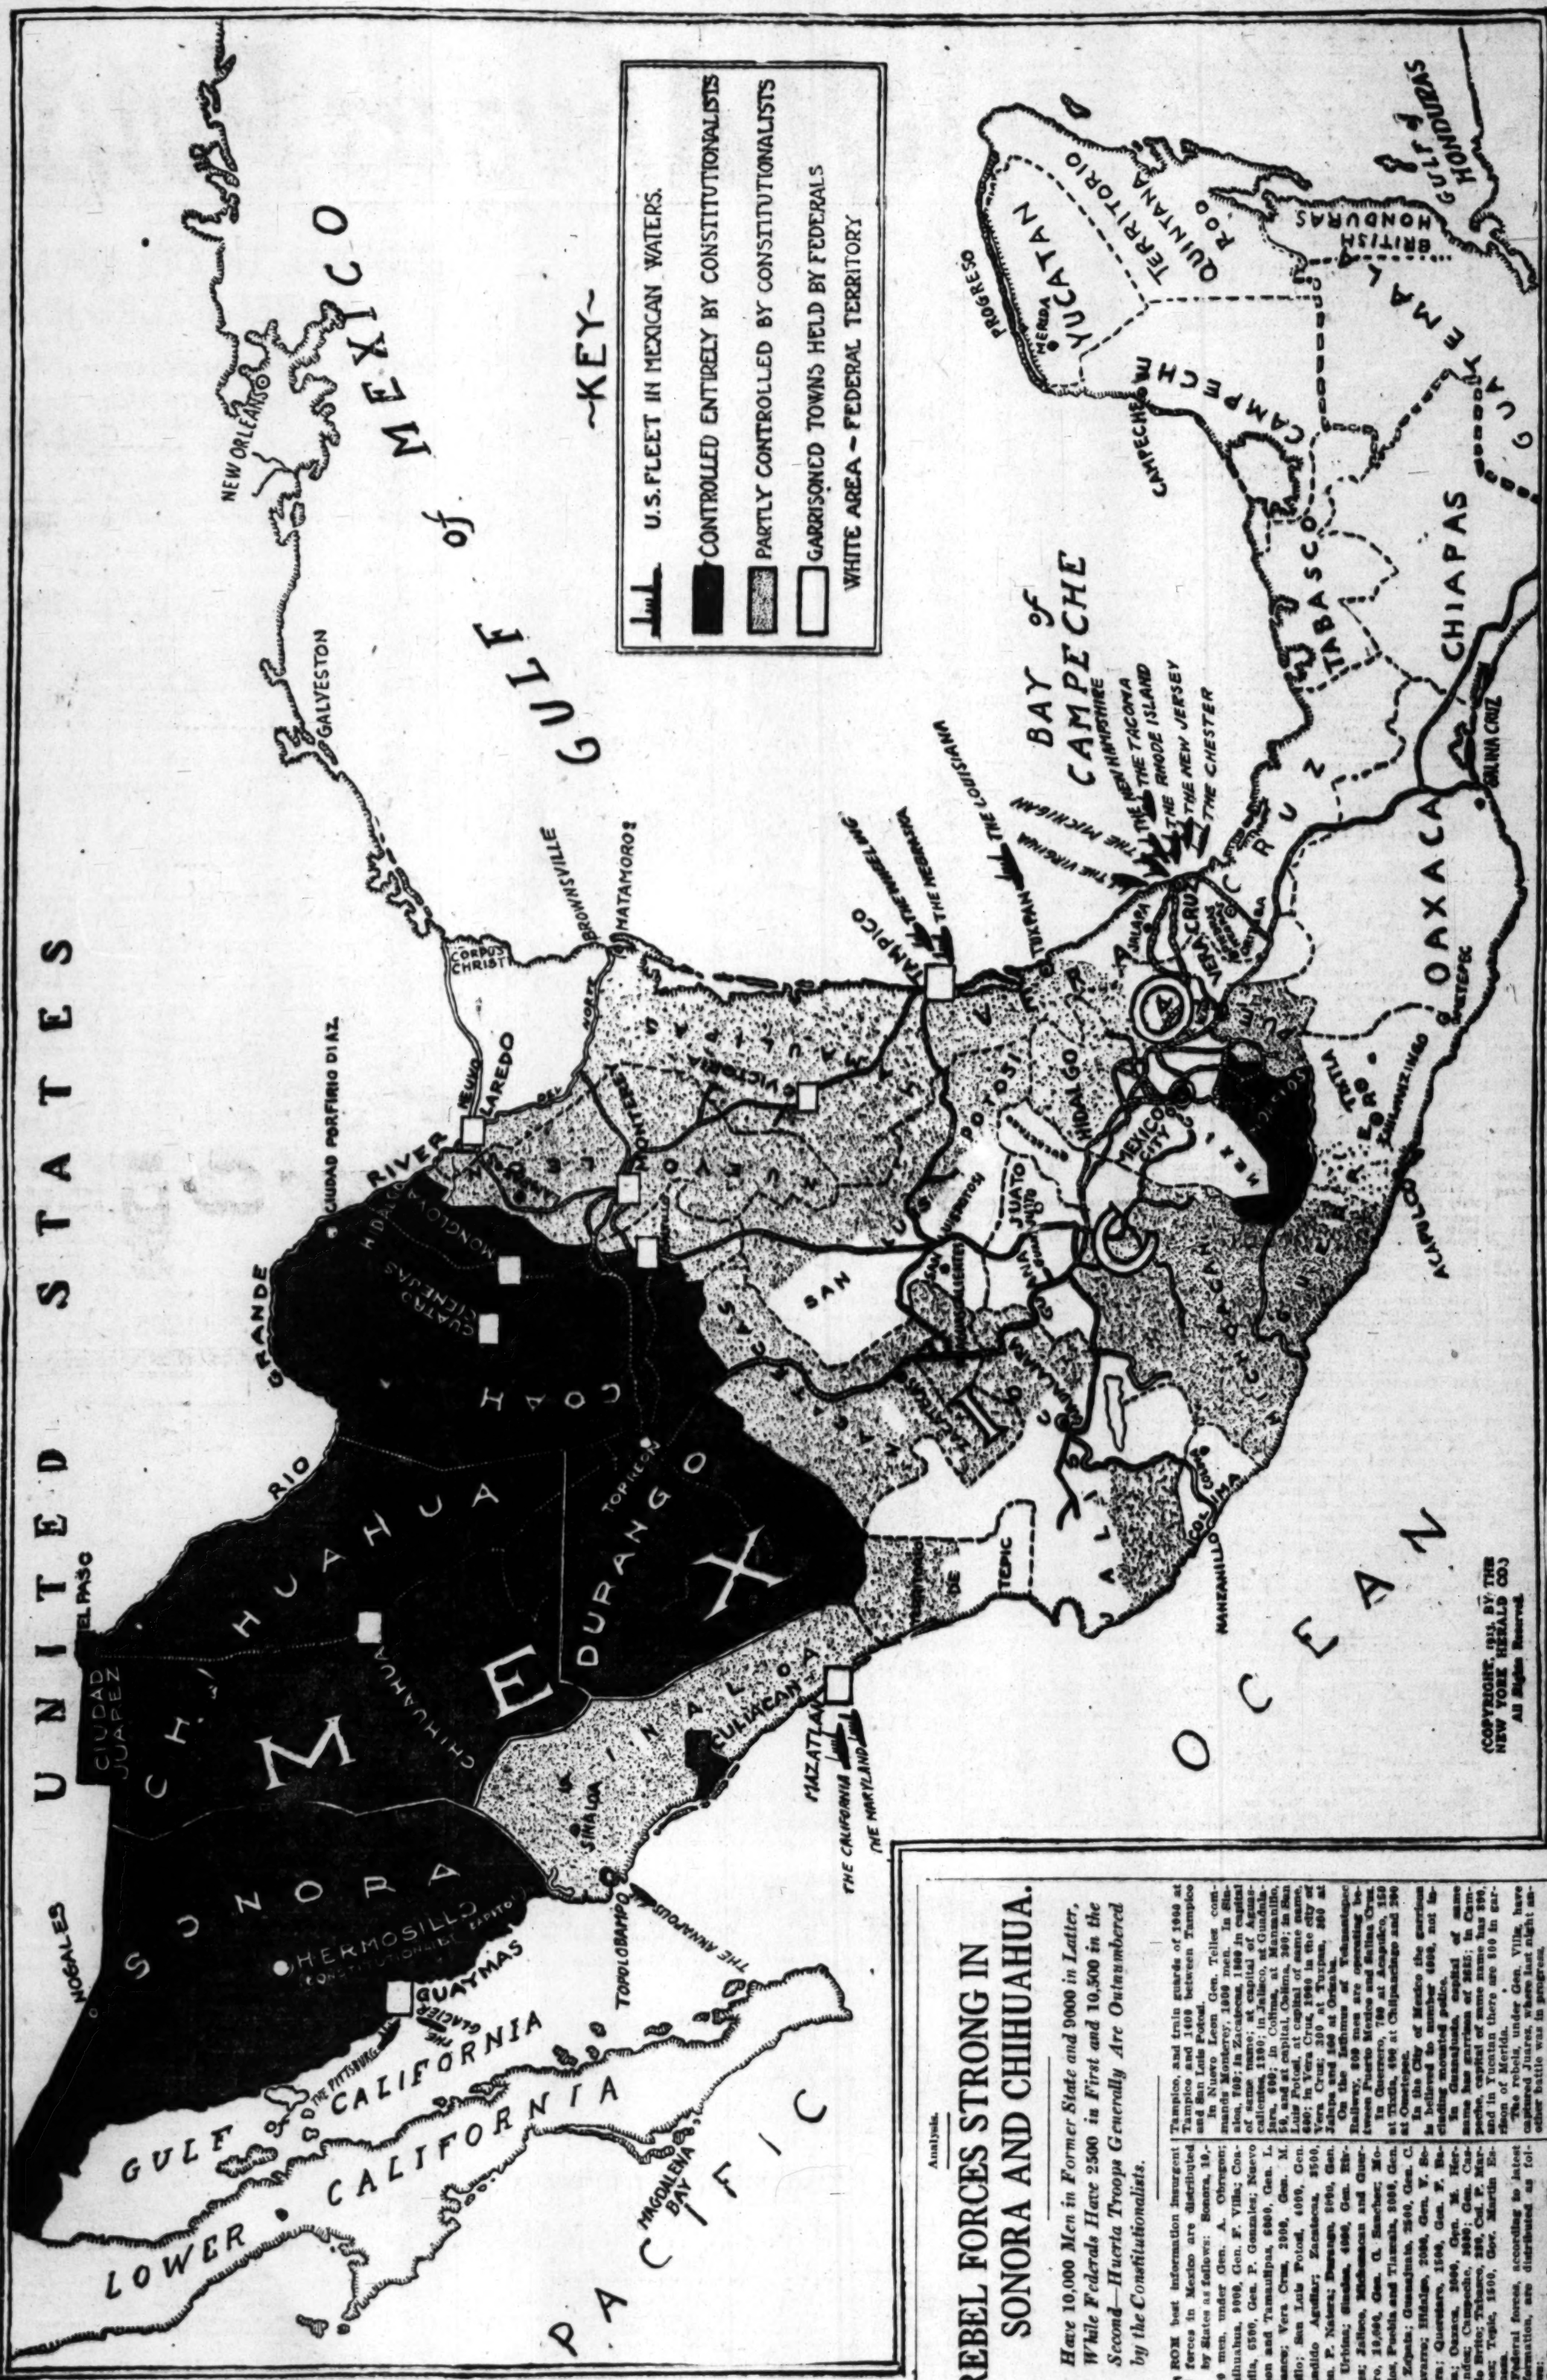

The net result of the order is to increase by a full regiment the force of American troops available to maintain order along the border. That their services may be needed for this purpose was asserted by members of the Texas Congressional delegation, and Secretary Garrison yielded to their appeals when he learned through the press dispatches that the Federal leaders were again approaching Juarez, opposite El Paso, and that the rebel general, Villa, who only recently had captured the town, had gone forth to meet the Federalists in battle. Reports of threatened disorders near Laredo, far to the south and east of El Paso, also reached the War Department, but Gen. Bliss who transmitted them, at the same time informed the Washington officials that he had dispatched another squadron of the Third Cavalry from Ft. San Houston, San Antonio, to reinforce the squadron already there.

With the feeling of apprehension as to the safety of the oil tanks near Tuxpan, alleged by pledges

Shop Early at the "SUN"

This is the first time we have ever published a strictly "Christmas" advertisement before Thanksgiving—but this year we are going to be among the first to urge early shopping. And in order to get you to buy early we are making inducements that will surely bring you to the "Sun" stores this coming week. This particular announcement is of great interest to those who expect to give presents to children—every item is a splendid value, a gift that the kiddies will go wild about. Do your Christmas shopping early—do it at the "Sun"—where you get lower prices, prompt service and satisfaction with every purchase.

When you patronize the "Sun" you are dealing with a local institution—buying of local people who know your needs through many years' experience. You are supporting home industry, home capital and helping home labor.

By Shopping Early at "The Sun" You Positively Save Money. We Want You Especially to See the Wonderful Values In Toys—Here are Some Suggestions:—

STOCKS DULLEST IN YEARS.

New York Traders Are Taking a Rest in Advance of the Christmas Holidays.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The last week on the Stock Exchange was said to be the dulllest for this period of the year in more than a decade. Trading for the five full days aggregated $60,000,000, a daily average of $12,000,000, while today's two-hour session contributed $6,000,000, making the week's total $10,000,000.

BUY LIQUOR IN BUSHELS.

Youngstown (O.) Dealers Sell Products by Baskets Full When They End Business.

YOUNGSTOWN (O.) Nov. 22.—Bottled liquors were sold by the bushel here tonight when 200 saloons and wholesale liquor houses ended business because the proprietors had failed to obtain a license. The saloons closed at 11 o'clock and will not be permitted to reopen. Bottles containing all forms of liquors were thrown in bushel baskets and placed outside the saloons. Some of the baskets were placarded with this inscription: "Last chance; only $1.50 a basket."

Make Wash Day a Pleasure!

MODERN appliances, designed to save time and labor, are being rapidly introduced into the American home. Foremost among these are ingenious devices that eliminate the housewife's greatest burden—Wash Day Drudgery. The "Judd" Washer is absolutely the most efficient, speedy and economical Washer on the market. Simply attach it to an electric light socket, and it disposes of a large washing in a couple of hours. The clothes are washed clean and thoroughly, at the small cost of about 4 cents.

Anything and everything may be washed in the "Judd" without injury, from the daintiest lingerie to heavy blankets. See the "Judd" in actual operation at our Display Rooms, and you'll understand why we say it's the BEST Washer made.

The Week's Ironing Completed in About an Hour

The "Home Ironing Machine" should be in every household. It irons sheets, table cloths, towels, and all other flat pieces perfectly and without any exertion, in ONE-TENTH the usual time. Easier to operate than a wringer, cannot get overheated, does away with laborious hours on an ironing board. You should come to our Display Rooms and see it demonstrated!

We carry a complete line of all popular appliances required for Steam, Gas and Water.

IMPORTANT VISITOR.

William Dyson, representing the Canadian Pacific, which has extensive steamship interests, called on the visitor today with C. J. Curtis, president of the Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company, conferring relative to the possibility of securing dock facilities in the local harbor for the use of the company. These vessels require a uniform depth of from twenty-four to uniform thirty feet of water and Mr. Dyson said there was no doubt but that the proposed improvements, projected by the city, at a cost of $250,000 would result in his vessels making this port.

As a result of an unheralded visit and inspection today of Long Beach dairies by Roy Hasson, State Dairy Inspector, warrants were issued for L. D. Robinson and W. H. Westover, charged with maintaining unsanitary conditions in their establishments. Hasson, in general, however, found conditions in and about Long Beach much improved since his last visit. A warrant was also issued for a local Greek confectioner for using alleged adulterated ice cream made by

NEWS BRIEFS.

Cleon Mason, a school-teacher of San Pedro and son of Rev. O. H. Mason, said today that his father would accept the call of the Calvary Presbyterian Church, and return to Long Beach in time to assume the pastorate December 1. He is now at Santa Annelino, near San Francisco. This means that there will be a fight in the presbytery to prevent the new church being recognized, with Mason as its pastor.

GLENDALF BRIEFS.
GLENDALF, Nov. 22.—Funeral services over the body of Joseph P. Hershore, who died at his home, No. 46 Everett street, at 5 o'clock Thursday evening, were held at the Central Christian Church on Louise street, this afternoon, Rev. E. E. Frances, pastor of the church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Duncan. Interment was made at Forest Lawn cemetery at Tropico.
The committee appointed at a recent meeting of the board of trustees

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce will start a boat in the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day, met this week and reported unanimously to the City Trustees that the committee appropriate $100 for the boat and next Monday night it will ask the City Trustees to donate the remainder.

One of the most important weddings to take place in this city for the past several months is that which occurred Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wood, when their daughter, Miss Marie Louise Wood and Harry W. Chassee were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John H. First Baptist Church of this city.

WANT OWENS RIVER WATER.

Mass Meeting Called at Sawtelle at Which Milton Gregory and George Dunlop Will Be Heard.

SAWTELLE, Nov. 10.—A meeting to discuss the securing of Owens River water has been arranged by the Commercial Club for next Tuesday night at the club house. This meeting is to be open to the public and will be addressed by Milton Gregory and George H. Dunlop, members of the United States Senate Committee of Los Angeles. Although a great interest among residents here is shown in Owens River water, public opinion is divided as to whether annexation to Los Angeles has not crystallized. Now that the Los Angeles

Miss Charlotte Brown was in charge of the music for the day, and sang a beautiful piece, expressing in every means of composition the numerous nature's feelings inspired by nature. She also gave a clever recitation of a poem. The program was preceded by a delicious luncheon of 30 covers, the tables enlivened with the most delicious viands. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Charles Lawanear, Mrs. C. M. Kite, Mrs. Edward Hillman and Mrs. W. E. Springer.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The public schools of this city will commence tomorrow, November 24, which has been declared a legal holiday, on account of the celebration of the birthday anniversary of Father Junipero Serra, founder of the California policy regarding the definite securing the water, it is believed the meeting will result in a sentiment one way or the other.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Building operations have increased to such an extent during the past year, the City Council has deemed it necessary to adopt means of keeping in the record of all building ordinances requiring builders to take out permits.

The Trout Hatchery Company, located near here in Stone Canyon, has been unable to meet the demand for trout and has purchased fifteen acres of land in the city for the installing of an additional hatchery. The water upon the land will furnish a 100-inch water supply. Work upon a County Superintendent Mark Keppel will deliver the address at the annual dedication of the Household Economy and Manual Arts Buildings on Wednesday, December 5. The buildings will be thrown to the public at this time for investigation.

Father Datin has been chosen as the teacher of the French section of the Lincoln Park Circle, and he began his instructions last evening at the home of Mrs. Emile Datin, 401 St. Charles street. Father Datin is a Frenchman, having been in the United States hatchery will begin at once. The company does no breeding of trout, their product coming from eggs secured from Utah firms. The company is supplying table trout to hotels, cafes and clubs in Los Angeles.

The degree team of the local Odd Fellows lodge is rehearsing the past two weeks in preparation for a contest next week with the team of Santa Monica. The team will put on the work here Monday evening and on the following night the Santa Monica team will give the work in return at the home of the members of both teams is to be paid for by the losing team.

The Way to Make Real Estate

The house of Firth is old and well established. It holds confidence because it deserves it. Thousands who have secured homes, and thousands who have profited by the wise direction of their investments, have cause to re-echo the slogan "You're Safe at Firth's."

Extensions of time, because of ill health or misfortune; assistance in building; advice on investments, or in buying and selling; clear deed and perfect title; an experienced outlook over the best localities, lowest prices and a sure profit based on the growing values in city and country, are some of the reasons that have combined to create a country curity so many commend.

There's Only One Way to Make Money on Real Estate

Money may come and men may go; schemes for ready-made riches may bud, blossom, wither and die—but the safe, sure, only way to make money by real estate investment is to own the real estate yourself and the hand of time poised to write down the million mark after the name of Los Angeles, the time is ripe just now for sober and judicious investment, in this great city and the country.

Nothing else on earth equals the safety and security of the money invested in a city lot or a piece of good farming land. That's because Nature herself made the land and the growing regions around it.

The march of progress is rapid. The prices of the present never will return. Buy now and buy wisely. Study conditions. Secure information. Ask of these men:

No fire, no famine, panic or pest, burglar, swindler, pirate or thief can destroy the ground beneath your feet.

The fortunes of nations and men have been founded upon it since the beginning. It is as secure as the stars that swing in the firmament. The bank anchors its faith in the solid rock of the earth.

No puncture of airy speculation can impair the strict integrity of its value, or the faith of men in its certain and continued increase in dollars and cents.

With the canal, the harbor, the development of great natural resources, the hundreds of thousands on the way, based on the growing values in city and country, are some of the reasons that have combined to create the trust and security so many commend.

THE REALTY MARKET

FACT AND COMMENT.

It is a fact that two or three months ago the market was in a state of confusion. It was a fact that the market was in a state of confusion. It was a fact that the market was in a state of confusion.

TOWERING HOTEL FOR SOUTH MAIN.

Fine Improvement Projected by San Franciscan.

Structure to Occupy Narrow Lot Near Eighth.

Will Be Eleven Stories High and Fireproof.

Following the exclusive announcement in The Times of November 2 of the intention of a syndicate represented by Metcalf & Ryan to erect a shaft-like office block on a twenty-five-foot parcel of real estate on West Seventh street, comes the information that another major business property, grown too valuable in the estimation of its owner to be used longer as the site of a mere "taxpayer," is to be improved in the near future with a modern fireproof structure more in keeping with the metropolitan trend of things in this city.

REPORT EXCHANGES.

George Diddick reports the following exchanges: Northwest corner of Magnolia and Sixteenth, at $27,500, for E. B. Dykhuizen to H. D. Nye for thirty-acre alfalfa ranch at Highland, valued at $18,000, balance adjusted in cash; fourteen-acre walnut grove at Whittier, $25,000, for Jewett & West, to A. Augustine, for sixty-acre, improved ranch at Terra Bella, valued at $15,000, balance in cash; southeast corner Seaton and Vincent streets, $5,150, for Gustavo Thomas, to J. P. Weaver, for twenty-two-acre naval grove at Arlington, both places valued at $40,000; one section of land about Wilson Springs, in the Antelope Valley, valued at $16,000, to Gertrude Axman of Pasadena, for apartment-house at Fifty-fourth and South Park avenue, this city, at same valuation. Diddick also reports the sale of an acre at Eagle Rock for William Brockholme to P. C. Kittle of Globe, Ariz., for $2400.

NEW VALLEY ROAD.

Work on the improvement of Eighth street east of Sherman way, in the town of Van Nuys, has been started. The importance of the improvement to the San Fernando Valley town is great. A large district naturally tributary to Van Nuys is shut off by a wall that is an obstacle to traffic to and from the town. The improvement of Eighth street will result in the solution of this difficulty. The improvement will be put through to Eighth avenue at this time, and eventually will be continued on to the road leading to San Fernando. The recent rains have put the ground in excellent condition for road work, it is said.

NEW SEAWARD TRACT.

The Guy M. Rush Company has concluded negotiations for taking over a tract of land lying on Washington boulevard and adjoining Culver City. The property, which is reached by the Venice Short Line, Santa Monica Air Line and the Playa del Rey line, is accessible to Washington, Wilshire, Pico and Putnam boulevards. The company announces that the tract, which is 1000 feet wide and 1000 feet long, will be subdivided into lots. The tract is a natural park through the center of which runs a stream. This part of the tract, it is announced, will be permanently reserved for park purposes. The subdivision will be known as Brooklyn-West.

FOR NEW TOWNSITE.

Mercantile Building, Theater and Suburban Homes to Be Started at Once in Laguna Bell Community.

Plans have been drawn and work will be started shortly on a two-story brick mercantile building to be built at Laguna Bell townsite, according to R. A. Rowan & Co., selling agents for Laguna Bell, a new home and acreage subdivision adjacent to the southwest limits of Los Angeles. The new building, it is said, will cost about $13,000 and will house four concerns. A picture theater also is to be added to the community which is rapidly growing in the vicinity of Laguna Bell.

In order to prepare for the subdivision of the 2400 acres which comprise Laguna Bell, agents of the Laguna Land and Water Company, and of R. A. Rowan & Co., are rapidly cancelling all the leases under which the land is now held and farmed by tenants. There are about fifty of these tenants, mostly of them Japanese and Italian. A considerable portion of the vegetables and garden truck used in Los Angeles is now raised in the district.

Less than thirty acres, it is announced, were cancelled during the past few days and this property is to be sold at once to a new owner. A portion of the land has been cut into large lots for suburban homes.

TO PIONEER FIRM.

The Los Angeles Printing Company, one of the pioneer printing firms of the city, has just closed a long-term lease on the entire ground floor and basement of the Farwell building at No. 314 West First street. The business leasing department of Thomas C. Brady & Co., representing both the lessor and lessee in the transaction.

The improvement of Eighth street will result in the solution of this difficulty. The improvement will be put through to Eighth avenue at this time, and eventually will be continued on to the road leading to San Fernando. The recent rains have put the ground in excellent condition for road work, it is said.

NEW SEAWARD TRACT.

The Guy M. Rush Company has concluded negotiations for taking over a tract of land lying on Washington boulevard and adjoining Culver City. The property, which is reached by the Venice Short Line, Santa Monica Air Line and the Playa del Rey line, is accessible to Washington, Wilshire, Pico and Putnam boulevards. The company announces that the tract, which is 1000 feet wide and 1000 feet long, will be subdivided into lots. The tract is a natural park through the center of which runs a stream. This part of the tract, it is announced, will be permanently reserved for park purposes. The subdivision will be known as Brooklyn-West.

FOR NEW TOWNSITE.

Mercantile Building, Theater and Suburban Homes to Be Started at Once in Laguna Bell Community.

Plans have been drawn and work will be started shortly on a two-story brick mercantile building to be built at Laguna Bell townsite, according to R. A. Rowan & Co., selling agents for Laguna Bell, a new home and acreage subdivision adjacent to the southwest limits of Los Angeles. The new building, it is said, will cost about $13,000 and will house four concerns. A picture theater also is to be added to the community which is rapidly growing in the vicinity of Laguna Bell.

In order to prepare for the subdivision of the 2400 acres which comprise Laguna Bell, agents of the Laguna Land and Water Company, and of R. A. Rowan & Co., are rapidly cancelling all the leases under which the land is now held and farmed by tenants. There are about fifty of these tenants, mostly of them Japanese and Italian. A considerable portion of the vegetables and garden truck used in Los Angeles is now raised in the district.

Less than thirty acres, it is announced, were cancelled during the past few days and this property is to be sold at once to a new owner. A portion of the land has been cut into large lots for suburban homes.

TO PIONEER FIRM.

The Los Angeles Printing Company, one of the pioneer printing firms of the city, has just closed a long-term lease on the entire ground floor and basement of the Farwell building at No. 314 West First street. The business leasing department of Thomas C. Brady & Co., representing both the lessor and lessee in the transaction.

Will Be Eleven Stories High and Fireproof.

Following the exclusive announcement in The Times of November 2 of the intention of a syndicate represented by Metcalf & Ryan to erect a shaft-like office block on a twenty-five-foot parcel of real estate on West Seventh street, comes the information that another major business property, grown too valuable in the estimation of its owner to be used longer as the site of a mere "taxpayer," is to be improved in the near future with a modern fireproof structure more in keeping with the metropolitan trend of things in this city.

REPORT EXCHANGES.

George Diddick reports the following exchanges: Northwest corner of Magnolia and Sixteenth, at $27,500, for E. B. Dykhuizen to H. D. Nye for thirty-acre alfalfa ranch at Highland, valued at $18,000, balance adjusted in cash; fourteen-acre walnut grove at Whittier, $25,000, for Jewett & West, to A. Augustine, for sixty-acre, improved ranch at Terra Bella, valued at $15,000, balance in cash; southeast corner Seaton and Vincent streets, $5,150, for Gustavo Thomas, to J. P. Weaver, for twenty-two-acre naval grove at Arlington, both places valued at $40,000; one section of land about Wilson Springs, in the Antelope Valley, valued at $16,000, to Gertrude Axman of Pasadena, for apartment-house at Fifty-fourth and South Park avenue, this city, at same valuation. Diddick also reports the sale of an acre at Eagle Rock for William Brockholme to P. C. Kittle of Globe, Ariz., for $2400.

NEW VALLEY ROAD.

Work on the improvement of Eighth street east of Sherman way, in the town of Van Nuys, has been started. The importance of the improvement to the San Fernando Valley town is great. A large district naturally tributary to Van Nuys is shut off by a wall that is an obstacle to traffic to and from the town. The improvement of Eighth street will result in the solution of this difficulty. The improvement will be put through to Eighth avenue at this time, and eventually will be continued on to the road leading to San Fernando. The recent rains have put the ground in excellent condition for road work, it is said.

Local Stock Market Activities

The oil certificate coupons are not subject to income tax deduction, according to a decision reached during the week by the local head of the Federal department. Collector Carter holds that payments made on these coupons are of the nature of a repayment of principal. Pending delivery of this opinion San Francisco banks were withholding payment.

Los Angeles Investment Company stock gained steadily during the latter part of the week and closed at the best figures around $1.68. Action of the market on this issue hinges largely upon the attitude of Mrs. Clara Baldwin Steadler and Mrs. Anita Baldwin McCaughey. Days of easier money have arrived.
Bank surpluses throughout the coun-this quarter has been accompanied by a slowing down of industrial and commercial activities. Speculation is most at a standstill and there is much room for improvement in the present situation.

Unless all signs fail, however, the

NEW SOCIAL BOSSES OF THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

BY MARY E. NOYES.

POLITICAL parties have their bosses who run things which pertain to government. These are men. On the other hand these same political parties have bosses who run things which pertain to social affairs. These are the women. Nowhere in this country is this so pronounced as in Washington. Just who will be the leaders in society at the

those who are close to the administration's social set are predicting.

It is not so imperative that the social leader of today be rich—however she cannot be poor—for she must have an establishment suitable for entertaining on a large scale. True, it is a Democratic administration and the social order of things will be carried on along a smaller scale than in the past. The leader must possess endless tact, know foreign languages, for she at once becomes hostess for the direct representatives of the crowned heads of Europe in the diplomatic corps and the must know politics above anything else. She must be able to talk on art, music, literature and she must be interested in philanthropy. She must be broad-minded and kind of heart, as well as personally attractive. These are the requirements of the social leader.

The "official family" which comes second to Mrs. Wilson in importance includes the wife of the Vice-President and the wives of the Cabinet officers, who will take a prominent place in the social whirl. It is easily to be seen that Mrs. Thomas Riley Marshall, wife of the Vice-President, be important social lights in Washington this season.

Among the many new Senatorial hostesses who will fill in a measure the void left by the retiring of the old ones, will be Mrs. Le Baron Colt, of Rhode Island, who comes here with her charming daughters not as a stranger except in title; Mrs. Weeks of Massachusetts, who has been here many years before during her husband's years in the House; Mrs. O'Gorman of New York and her daughters, who already are well known here; Mrs. Shields of Tennessee; Mrs. Jackson of Maryland; Mrs. Salisbury of Delaware; Mrs. Morris Sheppard of Texas, who too became well known while her husband was in the House; Mrs. Ollie M. James of Kentucky; Mrs. Hughes of New Jersey; Mrs. Nathan Goff of West Virginia; Mrs. Norris of Nebraska; Mrs. Thomas of Colorado; Mrs. John F. Shafer of Colorado; Mrs. Lane of Oregon; Mrs. Sterling of South Dakota; and Mrs. Robinson of Arkansas.

One of the most interesting new members of the House circle is Mrs. Peter Goelitz Gerry, wife of the new ambassador, the Marquis having been Charge d'Affaires of the Italian Embassy at the time that Baron Mayor des Planches was Ambassador seven years ago. Particular interest is centered about the Italian Embassy this season, for until the arrival of the new Ambassador, the Counselor of the Embassy, Giuseppe Catalini and his American bride, formerly Mrs. Dimock-Hutchinson, will preside. The marriage of Mr. Catalini and Mrs. Hutchinson, who is a daughter of Mrs. Henry F. Dimock of Washington, took place at Bar Harbor in August.

The principal change at the French Embassy, where the present Ambassador, Jules J. Jusserand and Mme. Jusserand, bears the distinction of dean of the diplomatic corps, comes the departure of the Military Attache and Countess de Chambrun, and the advent of Capt. De Bertier de Saubigny and Mme. De Saubigny and their children, as their successors.

The most notable change in the legations will come in the departure of J. J. Loudon, the former Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. Loudon and the arrival of his successor, W. L. C. Rappard, recently of Morocco, and, a stranger to Washington.

Mrs. Richard H. Townsend, who is conceded to be the social mentor of the smart residence set, known as the "cave dwellers," in the capital, will open her residence in Massachusetts avenue with the beginning of the season and with few exceptions the same group of charming women will gather about her as have in the past years, and take their usual place of prominence, the change of administration making no difference. Among them is Mrs. Robert McCormick, her sister, and her granddaughter, Mrs. Robert W. Patterson, and Countess Cynicki, Mme. Christian Haug, widow of the former Minister of Norway to the United States, Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Miss

Mrs. Joseph P. Knowland, wife of the Congressman from California, one of the smartest women in the congressional set.

Mrs. Edward Beal McLean, renowned for the elaborateness of her gowns.

Beautiful women
Who lead the society parade in the national capital.

will be one of the most popular women of the administration, and vying with her for supremacy will be Mrs. Lindsey M. Garrison, wife of the Secretary of War. Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Garrison are alike in no way, yet they have the qualities that will make them stand out as leaders.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, wife of the Secretary of State, will probably be one of the most beloved women of the administration, but she will not take the leading part, chiefly because it is not her wish.

Mrs. Albert Sidney Burleson, wife of the Postmaster-General, and Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the Speaker of the House, whose interests in literature, art, and woman's suffrage are about the same, will make them hold similar places in the social order of things and as they are old residents of Washington, and, merely higher on the ladder of social fame, they will be even better known. The Misses Harrison and Miss Genevieve Clark being all near one age and deeply interested in the serious questions of the day, will make them interesting members of the official society, even though they will probably not enter into the social side very often.

Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, Mrs. Franklin Knight Lane, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, and Mrs. David Franklin Houston, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, all mothers of young families, will not take so active a part in society as they probably would if not so restricted, but they will in no way be nonentities in the coming season. They are charming Southern women whose homes will be the gathering place of more interesting talks than anywhere else in Washington.

On account of mourning in the family, Mrs. William C. Redfield, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, will not take a large part in society, nor will Mrs. William B. Wilson, wife of the Secretary of Labor, who is an invalid, but her place will be beautifully filled by the daughter of the family, Miss Agnes Hart Wilson, who will probably be one of the most brilliant young women of the administration.

Miss Mona McAdoo, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, already conceded to be the beauty of the administration, will act as her father's hostess, and she will be charmingly assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ethel McCormick McAdoo, the bride of Francis Hugger McAdoo.

So closely are the Assistant Secretaries and their wives linked in importance with those of the Cabinet officials, that it is well to mention them here. Mrs. J. E. Keogh, wife of the Assistant Secretary of State, Mrs. Henry B. Breckinridge, wife of the Assistant Secretary of War, and Mrs. Frank Roosevelt, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, will member from Rhode Island. Mrs. Gerry was formerly Miss Mathilde Townsend, daughter of Mrs. Richard Townsend, the leader of Washington's smart residence set, and one of the most beautiful women in the country. Other women of the Congressional set who will figure prominently in social affairs will be Mrs. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, wife of Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, and their daughter, Miss Ruth Hitchcock; Mrs. Duncan U. Fletcher and her daughter, Mrs. Lionel Smith-Gordon, a recent bride; Mrs. John W. Kern, wife of Senator Kern of Indiana; Mrs. Hoke Smith, wife of Senator Smith of Georgia; Mrs. Claude A. Swanson of Virginia; Mrs. John Shurtz Williams of Mississippi; Mrs. T. T. Anstetter, wife of Congressman Anstetter of Ohio; Mrs. Silas R. Barton of Nebraska; Mrs. Jack Beall of Texas; Mrs. William P. Borah of Missouri; Mrs. Ira Copley of Illinois; Mrs. William A. Cullip of Indiana; Mrs. Richmond P. Hobson of Alabama; Mrs. Joseph H. Knowland of California; and Mrs. Charles J. Lindbergh of Maryland.

In the diplomatic corps, which goes to make up one of the most interesting parts of Washington society, great changes have been made. During the three administrations preceding the present, the corps maintained a certain solidarity. For nearly sixteen years Baron Hengelmüller, first as Minister and later as Ambassador, represented Austria-Hungary and entertained most brilliantly. Now comes a new Ambassador and mistress in Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba and Mme. Dumba.

To the British Embassy, where for six years the scholarly and sociable James Bryce and Mrs. Bryce have held "court," comes Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice and Lady Spring-Rice, both young, traveled, interested in all topics of the day, sports, music, etc.

Before very many more weeks the popular Marquis Cusani-Confalonieri and the Marchioness Cusani will be succeeded by the Marquis Cellere and his charming wife, who come not during the new regime, will doubtless return to the capital. Among these is Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson, whose wonderful Italian palace has been one of the Washington show places, and whose last post was Belgium. Another Minister is Reynolds Hitt, who with Mrs. Hitt, will take possession of their house in Eighteenth street, which is just completed. Mr. Hitt was Minister to Guatemala.

The newly appointed Governor of the Philippines, Mr. Francis Burton Harrison takes from Washington one of its most interesting young couples, and the change in governance of Porto Rico brings back to Washington charming former Gov. Gilman and his sister, Miss Marjorie Gilman.

Three members of the Cabinet of the former regime will probably spend a part of the social season in the capital in spite of the change in politics. They are former Secretary of State and Mrs. Philander C. Knox, whose residence in K street is one of the handsomest houses in Washington; former Attorney-General and Mrs. George Wickersham, who purchased a house in the Avenue of the Presidents four years ago, and former Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh, whose $1,000,000 house was built by Mrs. MacVeagh as a birthday surprise for Mr. Mac-

Veagh. Former Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. George von L. Meyer, who were acknowledged leaders of the smart set, intend to enjoy the life of Washington, too, even if they will not be in official life and they plan to spend much time this season with their son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. C. Raymond P. Rodgers, whose marriage took place last spring. Miss Julia Meyer, the other daughter of the former secretary, and Mrs. James McMillan, Mrs. Preston Gibson, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh and her daughter, Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Mary McCullum, and others.

However, changes come influenced by one reason or another, as the passing out of Mrs. L. Z. Lefter, who for so many years was such a prominent figure in Washington, possibly the greatest. Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lefter, who have departed on their yacht for a year's cruise in foreign waters, will also be missed in the younger married set. Possibly Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley, who have decided to spend the winter in New York, will be missed more in Washington this season than anyone else. Their entertainments and charities have been unprecedented. Another couple, who will not figure in the Washington social whirl this season, will be Mr. and Mrs. Nick Longworth, who will probably go abroad.

Mrs. Charles A. Munn, who usually spends the season here, has decided to remain at Beverly, Mass., with her daughter, whose marriage to Charles M. Amory, took place in the early summer.

Mrs. Clarence Moore and her charming step-daughter, Miss Frances Moore, who were looked forward to as being one of the interesting debutantes, have also decided to go abroad for the season.

Whether Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reid Rogers and Miss Elizabeth Reid Rogers will come to Washington again this year is doubted, for they have given up their house in Nineteenth street.

WHO PAYS THE INCOME TAX?

[Copyright, 1918, by C. M. Kew, New York.]
John Jones is a small capitalist living in Utica, N. Y. He has a family of six. He has an income of $10,000 a year. Of this he gets $2000 from a business in which he is a silent partner; $2000 from interest on municipal bonds; $2000 from interest on corporation bonds; $1000 as salary from a small bank of which he is vice-president, and $1000 from dividends on stocks.

Mr. Jones knows that the government at Washington has recently passed a law to the effect that everybody in the United States is subject to an income tax unless his total net income is under $2000 a year, or $4000 if he happens to be a married man. He also knows that there are certain exemptions in addition to this $4000 in his case, but he is not quite sure what they are; also he is wondering where the tax is going to hit him, and how it is going to be collected.

His case is a comparatively simple one. It would be a great deal more complicated if he were actually engaged in a business and were making his income out of operating profits of that business, for in that case he would have to figure out all his profits and losses for the year, balance them against one another, charge off proper depreciation, etc., and finally reach a figure that he could measure his net income according to the income tax law. It will probably require several years of experience before the honest business man, seeking to pay his fair share of taxes, will feel perfectly confident when he has made his return, that he has neither taxed himself too much nor too little.

Mr. Jones discovers first of all that since his income is over $4000 a year, and is not over $20,000, all he is called upon to pay is the normal or minimum tax of 1 per cent on his income. He then proceeds to find out what he can deduct from his total gross income of $10,000 that is not taxable, and how he can legally and properly avoid paying for himself the income tax on such part of that income as is taxable. He takes his income up for study class by class and if he reads the law carefully and studies the regulations that have been put out by the treasury up to date he finds that he is not so badly off as he perhaps at first he thought he would be.

First of all he discovers that the $2000, which he gets out of the business in which he is a partner is not taxable to him, because it comes to him in the form of net profits from a joint stock company which itself pays taxes on its net earnings, and the income tax acts to avoid laying a double tax upon any income. Perhaps Mr. Jones' income from this source would have been a little larger, if the corporation had not been able to pay this income tax, but Mr. Jones finds, at any rate, that whatever he actually receives from the company belongs to him and is not taxable under the new law.

When he comes to contemplate his mortgage, he finds that the $2000 which he receives in interest is not taxable to him, and he is not quite sure, under the regulations so far issued, whether he will get the whole of the $2000 and then pay the tax himself, or whether the debtors who made the mortgage and borrowed the money from him will deduct the income tax of 1 per cent before they pay their interest to him. Anyway he finds out that he will have to pay approximately $20 a year as an income tax on the $2000 which he receives on his mortgage.

His municipal bonds are also free of the income tax under a provision of the law which exempts bonds representing the United States or any State or any political subdivision of the State, are taxable under the income law.
He finds that his interest on corporation bonds which he owns, contains a clause which prevents the company itself from paying the taxes that may be levied on the bonds of this class, and therefore, he can pay the income tax on these bonds, but he will not find it necessary to pay this tax. He discovers that the government has already issued coupons as they fall due on the bank will ask him to pay with his coupons. This coupon, forth that he is the owner of bonds named in it and the coupons are free of all income taxes that may be levied on these coupons.

When he gets his salary from the bank he finds that the bank is obliged to withhold the income tax on his salary, but that he is perfectly willing to pay this tax if he can pay it without not entitled to pay this tax.

He is rather surprised and delighted to get the dividend on his stocks, amounting to $1000, any income tax and he finds that dividends of all corporations are free of all income taxes. He now goes to work to find out what taxes he has to pay on his $4000 of his taxable income. He finds that he is entitled to a $4000 of his taxable income, and this taxable income includes what he would have to pay on his $4000 of his taxable income, but also whatever part of his $4000 of his taxable income he pays his taxes. He proceeds to make a summary somewhat as follows:

INCOME TAXES IN TAXES
Interest on mortgage, $2000
Interest on corporation bonds, $2000
Salary, $1000
Dividend on stocks, $1000
Total, $6000
Less: Exemption, $4000
Taxable income, $2000
Tax at 1 per cent, $20
Total tax, $20

When he reads about the income tax law, Mr. Jones was scared, for he figured that he would have to pay $2000 a year. Now, he has made this summary and he finds that he will not have to pay any tax at all and he will stand to ever benefit there only by the duration in the tariff duties on the additional taxes levied on people to make up for the tariff duties under the new law.

OLIVES and INDEPENDENCE

AN OLIVE GROVE BROUGHT WITHIN THE REACH OF EVERY ONE.

Better than oranges or lemons, an olive grove is the best paying investment any one can have.
Five acres of full-bearing olives will make a man independent. Few realize how valuable they are, but the olive is destined to wrest the palm from the orange as the leading fruit industry of California.
Large packers will contract for the olive crop for 40 years ahead, which is not true of a single other fruit.
By our plan you don't need a large amount of money to secure an olive grove.

We Give You 4 to 6 Years to Pay for an Olive Grove and Care for It While You Are Paying for It.
Every man working on a salary should investigate this offer. No safer place can be found to bank your money than in mother earth planted to olives.
This is worth the investigation of every man and woman, and we will gladly explain our plan to every interested party. Just use the coupon.

N. B. Vickrey, Sales Manager.

FINE YEAR FOR PREMIER CARS.

Increased Capital Keeps Six Wheels Humming.

H. O. Smith Gives Glowing Report from Factory.

Surprise Promised for Coming New Year Business.

Business is good, according to H. O. Smith, president of the Premier Motor Company, of Indianapolis. The company has increased its capital stock to $2,000,000. There is much in store for the coming months and, according to Manager Kelly of the local agency, the Premier people are prepared to spring an interesting surprise the beginning of the coming year.

The Premier Motor Manufacturing Company began business ten years ago, starting with modest capital and gradually increasing its output with each succeeding year. From a small plant it has grown to one now covering practically two city blocks. In 1904 the Premier company was one of three or four concerns that realized the demand for six-cylinder automobiles. With the introduction, last year, of a car now known to the trade as the Premier "Little Six," the business of the company doubled, hence the demand for increased capital.

H. O. Smith, president of the Premier company, today said: "Notwithstanding the fact that we have accumulated a surplus of about 500 per cent, the business of the Premier company has grown to such proportions that we simply had to meet the demand for more capital with which to handle it expeditiously and well. With the bringing out of our 'Little Six' car we were confronted with a new demand from the motor-buying public. Its popularity surprised us and made us face altered conditions. Our business more than doubled itself last year. Now, with a half-million dollars additional capital at our command, we can go forward and heed the public's call."

There have been many unpleasant rumors regarding the automobile industry, not only in Indianapolis, but everywhere. Perhaps this is because each year the industry has faced new conditions, all of them surprising in their nature. With each passing year the country has absorbed an increased number of automobiles. With the industry thus showing a substantial growth each succeeding year it is unfortunate that rumors of a damaging nature have found such ready passage from tongue to tongue.

Just consider this: How many people outside of the industry are aware of the fact that 15 per cent more automobiles were sold in 1912 than in any previous year? Doesn't that speak volumes for the growth of automobile popularity? Doesn't it show that the American people have placed a fixed value on the automobile as a real solution of transportation problems? The year 1912, now drawing to a close, was the banner year of motor car sales in this country. I doubt if any other line of industrial endeavor can show such a remarkable gain in business volume.

We hear much talk of automobile over-production. Unfortunately in the automobile business any company with any cars at all on hand after the close of the season is considered to have been guilty of over-production. Every other line of business is expected to have on hand sufficient overstock to meet extra demands. Not so with the automobile. And yet, looking over the records for the last three years, I find that American builders and dealers have had on hand on June 1 only 1 or 10 per cent of the year's production. In other lines of business that excess which is hard to get rid of would be called a "clean-up" on the year."

TOO LATE FOR THE TRUCK SHOW.

LATEST MODEL PIERCE-ARROW TRUCKS ARRIVE.

Cars Are on Exhibition at the Bush-Street Salesroom—A Gasoline Gauge Is the Latest Device for Model Trucks—Cars Have Speed of Sixteen Miles an Hour.

Two Pierce-Arrow trucks of latest model, delayed beyond entry for the truck show, are exhibited at the Bush salesrooms. Motors of the two ton trucks are rated at 25.8 horse power with cylinders 4.5 by 5, actuating a worm gear driver. This type has speeds of four, eight and sixteen miles.

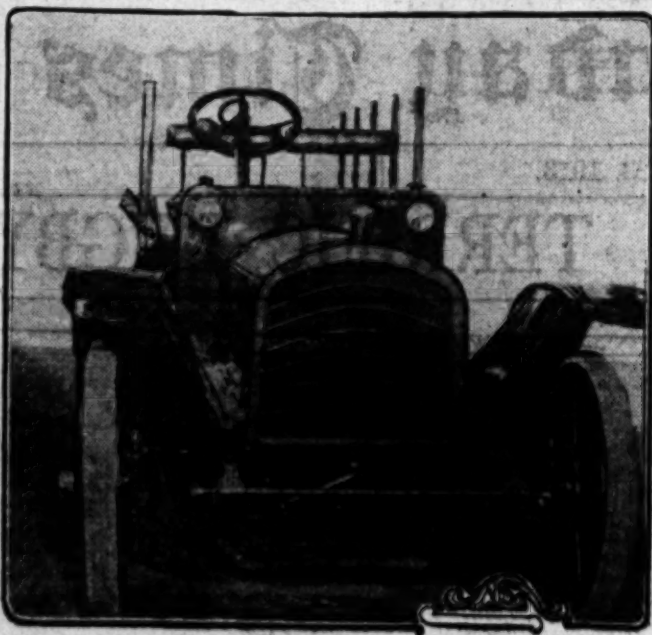

Chassis of standard size is eighteen and one-half feet long overall, with twelve-and-one-half-foot wheel base. An extra long wheel base of fifteen feet is also built.

Duplication of the general design of the popular large model has been achieved in this small worker. An accurate gasoline gauge is being fitted into all Pierce-Arrow cars, a needle indicator operated by a screw float or worm showing upon a dial the contents of the tank under the seat.

A special compartment or pocket is provided in the device between the front seats and it is here that this gauge can be carried, leaving room for small parcels. The cover of this pocket is fastened with a spring hinge which is released by pressure upon a concealed button opened automatically.

WINTON HAS MANY COLORING SHADES.

Cream brown, golden brown, and various shades of gray red, in late Winton finishes, the refinement of taste which requires a growing number of light effects in motor styles. Interior conveniences within these cars, many of Winton's own design, keep America's original car abreast of all in the race for public favor.

Branching Out.

CHANSOR AND LYON TO HAVE MORE ROOM SOON.

TEN YEARS of active life has worked remarkable changes in the Chanslor and Lyon Company. The big concern which is doing a large automobile supply business will remove shortly to its new location at Twelfth street and Grand avenue. The old location on Main street near Tenth will be kept in operation, but the new headquarters is to be the field of operations henceforth.

When the Chanslor and Lyon Company was organized in 1904, few men had any idea of the scope of its territory and of the increase of the business which was to come in the succeeding years. One branch after another was opened, until now the concern is operating in Fresno, San Francisco, Oakland, Seattle, Portland and Spokane.

The new two-story and basement building at Twelfth street and Grand avenue is large, but its scope will no longer be limited, as a larger force of workmen is to be employed at the new home.

Walter Chanslor is one of the well-known supply men of this city. He began his business career as a grocer, but soon saw the possibilities of the automobile industry and opened in a small way, only to begin the remarkable growth which will come to its fullest in the season of 1914. Chanslor is a keen business man. He is quick to see a point, and makes friends readily. He was never known to boast and even when taking you over his store for an inspection, he is most modest. It is impossible to learn much about the business from a single visit. To appreciate what Chanslor & Lyon are doing, it would be necessary to spend a day at the Main-street store. Chanslor is on duty all the time and keeps a firm grasp on the tiller. He lets nothing escape him and never delegates to others what Walter Chanslor should do himself.

He is surrounded by an efficient force of salesmen and clerks. He is the head of the concern, however, and his word is law. He spends his entire time at this end, which is the real headquarters, and receives the reports from the branches, where business is said to be excellent.

P. H. Lyon, or "Phil," as he is familiarly known, the other member of the firm, is an active business man who thoroughly knows the motor car trade. He also has a wide circle of acquaintances and usually makes the journey either to Phoenix or San Francisco, wherever the racing fans are sure to meet.

The outside business is handled by Phil Lyon. He is now in Spokane and will be later in Portland, Seattle and the other branches on his return run. He is in touch with the pulse of the trade, and says this coming year is to be one of our banner seasons, especially for the supply men. The Chanslor & Lyon combination is hard to beat and it is no wonder the concern is growing so steadily and surely.

How He Won.

VICTOR IN PHOENIX RACE PRAISES MILLER SHOES.

THE El Paso-to-Phoenix road race was won by a Los Angeles boy who has been handling cars in this section for many years. Jed Newkirk, who piloted the Simplex, has seen the hardest work on the desert, and has taken cars where rubber-tired wheels had never traveled before. He is a veteran of the desert and knows how to handle a car.

In a letter to W. D. Newkirk, local agent for the Miller Rubber Company, Newkirk wrote:

"I have driven thousands of miles in my time, but I want to go on record as saying that I have never seen tires perform better than in my trip from El Paso to Phoenix. In order to move up from fifth place at Bixbee, to first at Phoenix, it was necessary for me to do some driving. I made high speed on the smooth road, as well as the rough, and was forced to take the corners as fast as the car would stick on the road.

"This all meant severe wear on the tires, and I did not think it possible for a set of tires to stand up under such punishment, but to my surprise, the Millers never faltered, and I came through without a change. Permit me to congratulate you on the possession of such a tire. I have never used or heard of a better one."

HOW TO BE ON THE SAFE SIDE IN MUD.

"Keep skid-chains in your car" at all times, especially now," says C. H. Thompson, engineer of the local Jackson trade. "If you have not chains, wrap tires with rope when caught in rain. If you have only chains or rope enough for two wheels, fit one fore and one rear wheel with wraps, as the front wheels may skid as dangerously as the drivers."

Touring runs should not be undertaken without such full equipment at this season, when only level roads are safe in sudden rain.

MARION COMPANY PUTS OUT BOOKLET.

"Full of pep," is the motto of a new publication issued by the Marion Motor Car Company, under the name "Bobcat," its circulation being intended for dealers and owners of Marion cars.

News, information, and particular instruction relating to their cars, fill the semi-monthly columns, making owners able caretakers of these special machines.

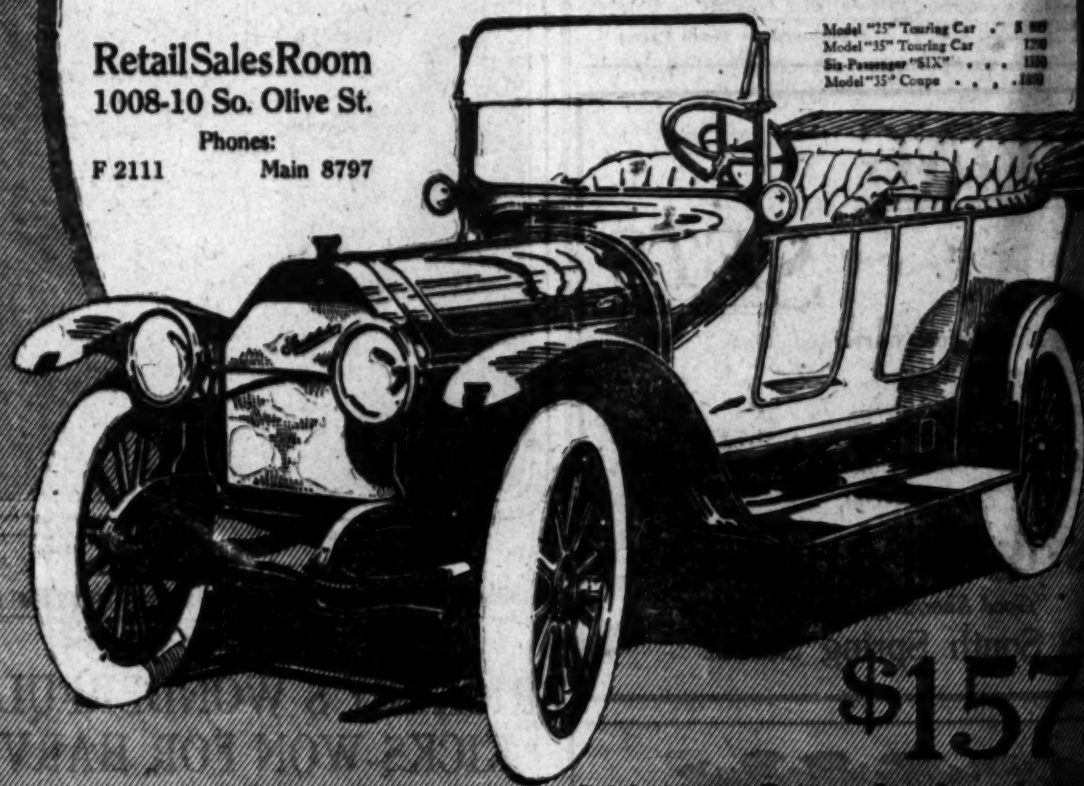

The publishers claim that they will make the journal worthy of its aggressive namesake.

tractor, and Truckman Walsh, says his guests, together with a host of others, Bulkeley came into his own.

SMOKER FINISH. That was a splendid finish of a busy week. The Autocar and the Perfection were exhibited close to the entrance in one of the choice spaces. The trucks were shown in such a manner that they attracted attention. Inquiries were many. Sales were good. As a result, the wheels of the Perfection must whirl a little faster and a larger force of men be put to work to satisfy the demand for this little home-made truck with the smallest "thead motor I have ever seen placed in a delivery car."

The Bulky truck was exhibited. Here is an offering that we saw for the first time. It is right, "the goods" to use a slang expression. This truck has been tested and tried and has made good. It is to be sold in numbers by the Howard Automobile Company and may have an opportunity to see this classy production for the first time.

The Jeffery truck was also exhibited for the first time. Here is a commercial car that is sure to cut a wide swath in the motor truck industry. W. K. Cowan is agent for this truck and with the Rambler to back him up he should be able to report a large number of sales this coming month as a result of this truck show.

H. L. Miller, who exhibited the Little Giant, was one of the men who helped to make the truck show a success. He was "Johnny on the spot" every time, and never showed a desire to do anything but work. As a result of his advice, and attention to detail, the work of the manager was minimized. Miller was on the job every instant, from the second the show was opened, until the lights were dimmed last night.

TAYLOR BUSY. H. F. Taylor was another of the committee of five men who put this truck show over. Taylor was prepared to hear all complaints, was ready with an answer and always carried the oil that could be poured on the troubled water, though Manager Hempel says the waters were never disturbed. Thanks to Taylor and his cohorts, the show passed with everybody happy and each dealer boasting.

Last, but far from being least, F. W. Shambaugh, the handsome man of the quintette, came into his own at this truck show. He was there at all the conferences, was prepared to help in any way, and was one of the genial members who had a perpetual smile. Hempel refused to say who helped him the most, or whom he liked best, but it's a clinch that he regards Shambaugh as one of the real helpers.

The Mack truck occupied a central position in that show. It was one of the biggest of the commercial cars and showed off to advantage in its central position. The Mack Motor Truck Company scored several times during the exhibit, and this booth was one of the places where the interested gathered to discuss the fine points of the industry.

Another truck show will be held. Perhaps a pleasure show will follow this commercial car exhibit. It is easy to announce who will be manager. The dealers will not let a good

FOUR CARS A DAY

There are but two logical methods of building motor cars.

One method is to produce cars in enormous quantities so as to bring the price down as low as possible.

The other method is to produce cars in limited quantities so that each car will be of the highest quality.

Each system has but one real exponent. In a middle western city, "mass production" enables a good small car to be made and sold at a low figure. In a New England city, "The Best Built Car in America" is produced practically car by car, by the finest mechanics in the world.

One car carries out one ideal, the other a totally different ideal. Both are right. Both are built, not assembled. One company makes 1000 cars a day, the other company Four Cars a day. The idea back of one car is to give the most for the money; the idea back of the other is to give the best regardless of price.

The smaller car is turned out like the well-known and worth-while "dollar watch." The greater car is built like a chronometer. Any other car is a compromise.

The Locomobile now occupies a peculiar position. It is the only high-grade car whose sales have increased during the past two years. This success of the Locomobile is due to the policy of building not more than four cars a day. All of the power and experience has been concentrated on a limited production. Years ago we concluded that just so surely as the best cheap car could only be produced in very large number, just so surely could the car of highest quality be produced only in limited quantities.

Our policy from the very start was to build cars in small lots, so that each car could have the most intimate attention. When others were increasing their plants and building more cars, we were increasing our quality, striving to make the Locomobile "The Best Built Car in America."

Every Locomobile has been built like every other Locomobile. Every Locomobile has been built with the utmost care. Every Locomobile has been built to carry out the ideal of quality, not a commonplace commercial idea. The Locomobile will be made as it always has been made, in limited quantity—and with unlimited care. (Despite the present demand for the Locomobile and despite any rumor to the contrary, we will not increase our production and make more cars.)

There will always be a demand for the limited number of cars we make. Because we have been building for the future, our plant will always run at capacity, without reducing the quality of our product or price.

KE TO THE TIMES.]
saved. The first half ended thirty seconds later.

THE SECOND HALF.

In the second half Brann succeeded in kicking the ball into the end zone and on the first rush Knowles kicked Harvard's right for thirty-three yards. Gurnsey dropped-kicked low and it was Harvard's ball on her 25-yard line. Two exchanges of punts gave Harvard the ball on her 20-yard mark. Mahan turned Yale's right end and ran twenty yards, and Dana on the same formation, went to Yale on the yard line. Mahan made it first down and the Crimson backed. Brann kicked the 25-yard line. Brannley rushed to Yale's 25-yard line. Brannley dropped back and kicked his third field goal. Score: Harvard, 9; Yale, 0.

EVERY RETURN.

Cowan took Hitchcock's place and Avery returned to the game. Yale worked one forward pass for a first down, but Brannley intercepted the next and Mahan punted to Yale's 40-yard line. Yale was set back to its 15-yard mark for holding. Gurnsey punted to the center. War went in for Talbot.

Dana, Mahan and Brannley, by alternate end runs and hikes off tackle, carried the ball to the 100-yard line. Arnold went in for Punderson in the Yale line and Knowles was exhausted and forced to give way to McLeish. Two strikes at Yale's 100-yard line gave only short gains and Harvard quit trying for a touchdown. Brannley then kicked his fifth goal. Score: Harvard, 12; Yale, 0.

There were only six minutes left to play. In that time Brannley had a hard chance at a placement from the 45-yard line, but the ball went low. Yale began rushing in from substitutes and Harvard tried hard to get another score. Three minutes from the end they had a first down on Yale's 41-yard line. They could not improve that chance, however, to get another count and the game ended with the score 12 to 0.

WHITTIER-FAILS TO SCORE ON CHAFFET.

Special Correspondent of The Times.]

WHITTIER, Nov. 22.—The good luck that has followed Coach Fox's football team all through the season deserted them on Friday night today and they were not only beaten by the minutes of "Dutch" Shutt's team, but they were also beaten by the minutes of "Dutch" Shutt's warriors. The Whittier High boys, who had a record of six games and not a single defeat, were beaten by a score of 20 to 0. Whittier was close to Chaffet's goal, and each time lost what appeared a sure touchdown by a coach's fumble and loss of the ball. The second time this occurred, Hanker of Chaffet hit the ball within ten yards of the goal, and down the field with the speed of the wind, outdistancing all pursuers and placing the ball directly behind the Whittier goal. Fox's team kicked the ball into the end zone for Chaffet by Dahlen. In the first quarter neither side scored, and the ball was in Chaffet's territory most of the time. With a touchdown and a kick in the second quarter the victory began to show their punch and the locals were unable to hold their own.

The Whittier team was weakened by the loss of their center, Housner, who was put out of the game with a broken neck. Chaffet's checkmate this evening that his confidence is serious.

SANTA ANA AND SAN DIEGO TIE.

(BY BERT WISE TO THE TIMES.)

SANTA ANA, Nov. 22.—(By Bert Wise to the Times.) Both teams represented strong on defense. Santa Ana and San Diego High schools played a tie football game in Santa Ana today in the first half Santa Ana had the best of it. In the third quarter Santa Ana had San Diego backed to the goal posts half a dozen times but could not score. In the fourth quarter the two teams rallied and had two chances to score by kicks from the field, but failed. It was the hardest game seen here this season. Davidson's punt sent San Diego out of several dangerous positions.

NEBRASKA BEATS IOWA.

LINCOLN (Neb.) Nov. 22.—(By P. Night Wire.) Nebraska, for a second time this year, demonstrated superiority over a team representing the Western Conference and defeated the Iowa University eleven to a score of 13 to 0.

MANUAL WINS AGAIN.

The Manual Arts High school football team defeated the Harvard Preparatory Academy squad on Monday morning 22 to 0. Harvard was the champion of the Interstate League and Manual held the title of the City League. The Mechanicals try to put Harvard out of the game for the southern title, but Manual can claim the season's championship. The game is to be played at Manual High School, must be delayed. ## STANFORD INTERCLASS.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (Cal.) Nov. 22.—(By A. P. New Wire.) L. Foster, a senior, won the interclass cross-country race in the 3.5-mile course today. In the 2.5-mile race, George Branner, another senior, won. Stanford's football team, under the leadership of President John C. Branner, finished second in the interclass football game, losing to the University of California by a score of 14 to 0. The game was played at Stanford University, and was a very hard-fought battle. Stanford's defense was very strong, and they were able to keep the California team from scoring. Stanford's offense was also very strong, and they were able to score several times. The game was a very exciting one, and it was a great victory for Stanford.

Awarded "First Position" at the World's Greatest Automobile Show

THE extraordinary supremacy of the 1914 Overland has been officially recognized by the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association.

This organization has awarded the Willys-Overland Company the position of honor at the great National 1914 Automobile Show which opens in the Grand Central Palace, New York City on January 3d.

Do you know that the people of over 50 nations are wiring, writing and cabling to Toledo for Overlands?

Do you know that in response to their repeated requests and urgent demands we are shipping from 50 to 60 cars a day—which means 200 automobiles every day in the week?

Do you know that the 1914 Overland is today the most sought after car of its type in the entire civilized world?

Even in Detroit, the automobile hub of the world, there are more Overlands being sold than any other car of this type.

The Overland has made, established and won for Toledo with its individual plants alone, the title of the second greatest automobile city in the world.

Detroit, alone, leads and yet the 1914 Overland is outselling, even in Detroit, every competing car.

The Overland factories average 50 shipments to the average maker's one. The Overland factories will build 50,000 cars for 1914. This is more cars than all the factories of France; three times as many as all the factories of Germany and far more than the combined factories of Italy, Holland, Russia and Sweden.

Has it ever occurred to you that there must be some substantial reason for such unparalleled success? There is, and here it is.

No other factory in the world can build a car the equal of the 1914 Overland for less than $1200.

Our price—$950.

That's the reason and the answer.

Now here are the facts.

The 1914 value is increased but the 1914 price is decreased!

The motor is larger—but the price is lower.

The wheelbase is longer—but the price is shorter.

The tires are larger—but the price is lower.

The new car has electric lights throughout—even under the dash—but the price is lower.

It is magnificently finished in dark Brewster green, with running boards and wheels to match, trimmed in polished nickel and aluminum—but the price is lower.

Then there is a larger tonneau, a jeweled Stewart Speedometer—a larger steering wheel, and deeper upholstery—but the price is lower.

Here you have the world's record automobile value—at a record breaking price.

There is an Overland dealer near you. See him today.

DAY OF PEACE FOR OVERALL.

All Parties to Controversy Standing Pat.

Maier, Hogan and Overall All in Mountains.

Conference Expected Tonight or Tomorrow.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

There was a lull in the battle over Mr. Overall yesterday.

President Maier and Hap Hogan remained in the seclusion of their mountain retreat, and with the telephone wires apparently "cut," no verbal bombs were hurled into or sent out from the camp of the Tigers.

"On with the dance" seems to be the spirit prevailing the "stag" party now in progress at Santa Susana, and the Overall affair, according to all surface indications, appears to be the least of their troubles.

Maier and Hogan were yesterday joined by Overall, and even the ubiquitous Mr. Doyle was nowhere in sight. When Gene disappears it is really getting serious.

Al Bonham, better known as the "little hippo," is the only one of the Tiger forces not now marshalled at Santa Susana. Al is believed to be holding the fort at Sunset beach, where weekly he angles for the festive croaker, spoffin, shovel-nose shark, stingray and other fauna of the briny blue.

Meanwhile, President Allan T. Baum is maintaining the siege in a good degree of comfort at the Hotel Van Nuys.

Seriously, it is believed that Maier and Baum will manage to meet either tonight or tomorrow. The "stag" party, which was arranged several days prior to Baum's arrival, will end tonight, and President Maier is expected to return not later than tomorrow morning.

By leaving Overall free to continue in his present position or return to the Seals, Maier has put the whole matter squarely up to the big pitcher, but Baum feels that he should see Maier before returning north.

All hands, it would seem, are standing pat.

"As I have nothing to call me north before January 1, my stay here is likely to be quite protracted," said Baum last night.

Barney Olden's efforts to act as mediator failed, Baum deciding not to accompany the speed king to Santa Susana today.

As far as could be ascertained, there were no new developments in the case yesterday. The situation remains the same as it did when J. Cal. Evans fired his opening broadside and Maier replied in kind.

It was learned from an apparently reliable source yesterday that Portland and Sacramento, reported as growing restless under present conditions in the Coast League, would be among the first to train their guns on the "outlaws" should any invasion of Coast League territory be attempted.

This, it is pointed out, would be a natural position for them to take as the alleged plans of the "outlaws" do not include either of these cities in their proposed circuit. Also, there are said to be other weighty considerations that would deter them from making any alliance of this kind.

Meantime, no one is brave enough to attempt to predict what a placid Sabbath may bring forth.

MAHER HEADS THE JOCKEYS.

(BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.)
LONDON, Nov. 22.—The close of the English flat racing season today finds "Denny" Maher, the American, again at the head of the list of winning jockeys with a total of 115 starts. His nearest competitor is Frank Woodcock, who won ninety-one races.

The summaries won by owners on the average was small. J. B. Joel heads the list with $125,000.

August Belmont and Harry P. Whitney were both below the $50,000 mark in their winnings.

OMAHA DEMANDS A REGULAR BALL CLUB.

The Omaha Bee officially declares Omaha a ball town and demands a real ball team.

What Clark Griffith has done to Washington goes to show the possibilities of putting a winning team in a losing town. Three years ago most, if not all, the stockholders in Washington would have sold out at the drop of the hat. Today they are said to be hanging onto their stock as if it were their lives. Answer: Twenty per cent. dividend this year, 10 per cent. last year. Clark Griffith did it by getting a set of ball players and managing them so as to keep the team up near the top.

"We are glad to note," says the Bee, "that Pa Rourke promises Omaha a winning club next year. The fact that Pa has promised the same thing before should cut no figure. As a matter of fact he has made good on his promise generally, giving the city a first division team nine times in fourteen years. But that's a little off the line. Pa surely realizes that it is up to him as a business man to have a team that will win ball games in 1914. And as to what such a team will bring him, he has only to reexamine some of his old bank books of a few years ago, when deposits from the gate money were running much higher than of late. We are most earnestly anxious to have Rourke succeed, and know he will when he really gets going. This is a ball town and now demands a ball team."

Rev. A. E. Vort will represent the British Columbia Athletic Union at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union in Montreal on November 22 and will ask for the 1914 boxing tournament, which, if secured, will be run off next April under the auspices of the Vancouver Athletic Club.

In England arrangements are already well advanced for holding the eighth international horse show in Olympia, commencing on Thursday, June 4, and ending on Tuesday, June 18, 1914; the period selected coming between the English Derby and Ascot races.

CHAMPION EARL COOPER BADLY HURT IN SAN JOSE.

SAN JOSE (Cal.) Nov. 22.—Earl Cooper, professional racing driver and winner of several big speed contests held recently on the coast, including the Santa Monica road race, went through two fences while trying out a racing car on a mile-track today and is lying seriously injured in a local hospital tonight. Cooper was tuning up his machine in preparation for a public exhibition tomorrow when he intended to go out for new track records. He had covered a couple of miles in fifty-four seconds and was gradually increasing his speed when the accident occurred on the back stretch. The steering knuckle broke just as he reached the end of the stretch and he applied the brakes in a desperate attempt to lessen the force of the collision which he saw was inevitable. The car plunged straight ahead with locked back wheels, mounted to the top of the embankment, where it went through a wire fence, leaped twenty feet through space and struck the second fence like a cannon ball. It passed through this into a grain field where it described a wide arc and plunged back against the fence again. Here it came to a standstill. When the crowd reached the driver they found him lying partly conscious over the steering wheel.

"If the car is all right I will drive tomorrow," he said before lapsing into unconsciousness. At the hospital tonight it was stated that Cooper is not fatally injured and will recover within a few weeks.

Cooper gave his version of the accident tonight and denied that a broken steering-gear was the cause of the car leaving the track. He stated that one of the rear tires blew out and that he drove straight for the fence rather than to take the turn and run the risk of skidding and the car turning turtle.

There may be no Grand Prix or Vanderbilt Cup race next November. The Savannah Automobile Club, up to the present, has declined to make concessions to prominent entrants and still insists on charging high fees. Entries are, therefore, slow in coming in.

"MYSTERY CURVES ALL NONSENSE."

WALTER JOHNSON SAYS OLD BALLS ARE BEST.

Greatest Pitcher in World Series Used Only Speed and Curve—Ed Walsh Would Have Lasted Much Longer but for His Spit Ball. Wore Out His Arm.

"The stories you hear about new curves and mystery balls are nonsense," says Walter Johnson, the famous pitcher. "The spitball is a novelty, I'll admit, but it ruins a pitcher's arm in time. If Ed Walsh, for instance, had never used the spitball he would have had no trouble with his wing. The same applies to Russell Ford, who seemed to have lost his effectiveness last season. The pitching in the recent world's series was devoid of new wrinkles. Bender and Plank depended almost entirely on speed and curves. Bender misad in a slow ball now and then which had the Giants swinging wildly. Bush had a jump ball, which was nothing more than the time-honored inshoot, delivered so that it would pass close to the upper part of the body. Mathewson's fadeaway, so-called, was a drop with an out-curve delivered so that it would shoot down past the waist.

"I have never tried to monkey with a new-fangled delivery. I use speed on a straight ball, also on an inshoot under the chin. I can use a curve on the outside corner with plenty of speed or I can sail one up with little or no speed. I find that the best results can be obtained by using change of pace—delivering slow and fast balls with the same amount of action in the box—the same windup and the same body motion. You can puzzle the best batsmen by sending up a different kind of a ball each time. Then he doesn't know what to expect and cannot set himself for a healthy swing. In the long run, however, speed counts when you put the ball over the plate without delay and can get the batsman in the hole as quickly as possible."

C. S. Howard of the Howard Automobile Company announces that the Buick factory is to ship his company a solid trainload of eighty-eight double-decked freight cars containing from 415 to 425 cars, between the first and tenth of November. This shipment breaks all previous records, is the largest and most valuable shipment of first-class freight ever made and is worth over half a million dollars. This load of cars is in addition to the Howard Company's regular allotment of more than 100 cars a week. The winning team in the New York six-day bicycle race, which will begin on December 8, will, as a special prize, be sent to the Paris six-day contest, which will be held January 13 to 19, 1914, in the Paris Velodrome.

We have also just received our first carload of 1914 DETROIT ELECTRIC TRICS, which consist of the Model 48 Brougham, and one of these Broughams will be on display for a short time. This beautiful little car seats four persons very comfortably and sells for $2675, which is $400 better value than we have ever been able to offer in a DETROIT before.

We most cordially invite you to see the very latest in Electric Cars.

Also we would take great pride in showing you an Exclusive Electric Garage, which is probably as fine and complete as can be found anywhere.

We still maintain our service station "C" on Union and Hoover Sts., which is becoming so popular that it has already reached its capacity and additional charging apparatus is being installed.

Kindly keep in mind that, although we are Southern California Distributors of DETROIT ELECTRIC CARS, we are in a position to Garage and Make of Electric Car as well as and we believe better than can a large majority of the electric garages in this city.

ALL LOS ANGELES TO BE FLOWER-BEAUTY SHOW FOR MILLIONS.

In Concrete Form.

PRACTICAL METHOD OF FINANCING EXHIBITION.

Enough for a Lavish Spectacle Appears to Be Available.

Business Men Propose Great Company to Include Wide Representation, While All the People Will Join in Making the Entire City a Garden of Glory—Elaborate Plans for Floral and Allegorical Dances.

The whole city heartily in agreement with the movement, leading business men and commercial organizations are working now on a plan of organization for a lavish floral spectacle that will bring great glory and millions of dollars to Los Angeles in 1915.
The plan, as suggested by The County Horticultural Society, would be like wildfire through the city. The first thought that flashed into the minds of those who read the plan was that such a show was just the thing needed to focus attention on all the country on this day of round out the splendid scheme of entertainment to be offered to the people of the world by
Los Angeles in 1915.

It is agreed that Los Angeles, with the exception of her sister communities in Southern California, can show more gorgeous and more elaborate than anything of the kind before. The plan was that such a show was just the thing needed to focus attention on all the country on this
day of round out the splendid scheme of entertainment to be offered to the people of the world by
Los Angeles in 1915.

Such men as Stoddard, Jess, D. A.
Hamburger, H. W. O'Melveny, Motley
H. Flint and scores of others have gone on record in favor of the show and in expressing the belief that it can be adequately financed. The

RAILROADS EARN GREATER GROSS.

NO DECREASE AS PREDICTED BY PESSIMISTIC CROAKERS.

First Three Months of Fiscal Year
Are Profitable for Transportation Companies — Freight Business Shows Consistent Improvement.
Other Features.

Analysis of the earnings of Southern California railroads for the first three months of the fiscal year fail to show the decreases anticipated by the pessimists. It shows increases.

The Salt Lake, for instance, earned $200,000 gross during the past four months in excess of gross for the corresponding months of the previous fiscal year. Yet the previous fiscal year was the one in which the Salt Lake hung up a little record-breaking excess of about $2,000,000.

As for the Santa Fe, it is well on the road to $100,000,000 in operating revenues for the year, with $23,983,- 284 for the first three months. The Southern Pacific is also keeping its head above water in spite of heavy demands on the treasury for extensions and betterments.

"Freight business," said General
Traffic Manager Wann of the Salt Lake yesterday, "is showing the most consistent increases. I attribute this to the fact that the ratio of new tonnage to the old territory has been consistently maintained at a high average the past two years. Nothing need be said about the constant additions to the productive population in Southern California, but few recognize the fact that the once barren spaces of Nevada and Utah are being rapidly settled, thanks to the beneficent influence of various irrigation projects, private and governmental. A few years ago a train on our road traversed the wild and woolly for long distances, but now there are towns and tilled acres where formerly there was sagebrush and jackrabbits."

"Passenger business," said Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager Byrne of the Santa Fe, "especially into and out of California, is keeping well ahead of last year's averages. This is not the flood tide of travel westward, though extra sections of limited trains are being run out of Chicago at regular intervals each week. Nevertheless, business is keeping well ahead of last year, with more promised."

STEEL RAILS TO SPAN DEATH VALLEY SANDS.

SOON THE mystery which has surrounded Death Valley and the Panamint Range will be but a memory of older days, for the railroads are showing a commendable desire to penetrate the desert's fastnesses with the steel rails of civilization and progress.

The latest project to rend the veil of mystery which has long hung over the valley, is that of the Tonopah and Tidewater Railroad Company to construct a narrow-gauge line, seventeen miles in length, in the hinterland of Inyo county. The new line is to run from the Ryan branch of the railroad to the Biddy McCarty borax mine, which is owned by the Pacific Coast Borax Company.

Application has been made to the State Railroad Commission for authority to issue $294,000 of bonds with which to build the road. In the papers filed with the suboffice of the commission here, the Tonopah and Tidewater company sets forth that the line is to be primarily constructed as an outlet for the products of the borax mine, but that a general

Charming spots in Westlake Park.

One of the sites proposed for a magnificent floral show in 1915. The advantages of this location say the whole park can be inclosed, roofed and transformed into a garden of concentrated loveliness that will amaze and delight every visitor. One of the most elaborate features of the sugges-
brilliant multi-colored lilies, gloriously beautiful by day, and glowing with the light of submerged electric lamps by night, might constitute a part of the plan.

WOMEN'S QUEER FEUD OVER A MAN'S BODY.

CREMATION yesterday of the body of Cornelius Walker, piano dealer, of No. 1603 South Main street, marked the culmination of a queer, triangular feud between three women for possession of his body.

Walker, who was 45 years of age,
had been married and divorced twice.
Mrs. Mabel E. Walker, No. 912 South
Figueron street, was his second wife.
Mrs. Mabel A. Nason, wife of a Sixtythird-street piano dealer, is his daughter. Wife No. 1 lives in Denver.

Miss Sarah Hite of No. 1324 Fifth street, Santa Monica, was his fiancée;
Mrs. Mabel E. Walker, No. 912 South
Figueron street, was his second wife.
Mrs. Mabel A. Nason, wife of a Sixtythird-street piano dealer, is his daughter. Wife No. 1 lives in Denver.

Walker was born in Sheffield, Ill., and, it is understood, divorced his first wife in Denver, where he was in business for some years. The second divorce was granted last July in the West. He met Miss Hite two years ago and went to her mother's house in Santa Monica to live. There he died, after but a day in bed.

It was his wish that his body be cremated. His fiancée and daughter were of accord in preparing to carry out this request, but at the last minute the second wife appeared and halted proceedings by disavowing the cremation plan. The daughter and fiancée objected and the second wife appealed to the court, asking Judge McConnell for a restraining order.

She prepared to take charge of the body and made arrangements with the Sutch undertaking establishment to have it embalmed for interment.
Plance and daughter, however, placed the remains with the Brees undertakers at Santa Monica.
Then the court refused the second wife a restraining order and would not accede to her request to turn the body over to her attorneys in the case, the victory went to the fiancée, via the daughter.

PROUDEST YET.

William F. Hughes, the expert pressman who has reason to be proud of the many achievements he has performed with The Times tri-color printing machine, is now the proudest yet. It is a baby boy, arrived last Thursday at No. 122 South Richel street. His name is William S.
Hughes. All are happy, more than tri-colored is the joy.

Unfair Restriction. LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(To the Editor of the Times:) Your editorial "Cosmopolitan California" is so in line with my own views and in harmony with the trend of public sentiment that I cannot refrain from asking space in your columns to enlarge upon the subject in its relation to the wine and liquor industry in Los Angeles.

This is a wine-producing country. The wine industry is one of our staple claims to greatness, one of our most alluring bids for popularity, one of the seductive charms that induce the migration and the investment of foreign capital. The industry has assumed large proportions and bears the most intimate relations to our phenomenal growth and prosperity. It is one of the factors that has made California famous and has induced as many citizens and the investment of as much capital as any other industry in the West.

It would appear that the industry is important enough to entitle it to a serious consideration by our local authorities and to the same wise, rational treatment accorded to it in all other parts of the world. The wise, consistent, advertising campaign promulgated by Los Angeles business men has resulted in a tide of immigration unparalleled in the history of the world, made Los Angeles the best known city on the globe, elevated her from a village to one of the most important cities on the face of the earth and placed her in a position to soon claim her God-given birthright as metropolis of the Golden West. If not for the wine industry, through this agency we have invited the citizens of the world to be our guests and they have accepted the invitation.

If we are to receive and assimilate the immigration and the millions of capital that have already arrived and yet the untold millions that are on the way and arise to metropolitan dignity, we must get away from the old, narrow and worn-out methods incident to our infancy and adopt a more liberal policy.

Millions of dollars have been invested in Class A hotels, cafes and restaurants, outside the so-called liquor zone and yet other millions have been expended in furnishing and fitting them out in elegant style, so that the ever-increasing number of guests might be housed and fed. The guests have arrived and are arriving and thousands of them get comfortably located in the outside of the ancient zone of special privileges but upon entering the dining-places are confronted with the information that wine cannot be served with their meals. It has probably been their custom all their lives and in all parts of the world to have wine or beer served when dining and they are told for the first time informed that in this wine-producing country they cannot have it unless they go down into a small, congested district, restricted to a few city blocks and in the control of a few political favorites. Right there and then they make their excuses, tell you how delightful is your hotel and how excellent are your meals, politely pay their score and depart, to find within the sacred precinct of the greater zone that has been denied them outside of it.

The only course left for the investor who is helping to uphold the city is to close his doors and patiently wait until our city fathers awake from their Rip Van Winkle sleep to a realization of the imperative demands of the hour.

These people have invested their capital in good faith and have put their homes in order for the reception of the city guests and are now calmly informed that the customary natural and rational needs of these guests must be supplied by a favorite few who are strongly entrenched behind an antiquated municipal fence. The injustice of this restriction is apparent, its results a menace to our prosperity, and its discriminations criminal. There is no excuse, rhyme or reason why a man should be permitted a bottle of wine with his dinner on Broadway and be denied the same privilege when he dines at a reputable high-class cafe on Figueroa street.

I am aware that the antiquated ordinance now in force is a legacy to the present administration by the imbecile fanaticism of our infancy and that the present board is in no way responsible for its provisions or its inequities, and my strictures do not therefore apply to them but it is now fairly and squarely up to them to see that a remedy is provided for the present evil.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS. Lead, Platinum, War Dogs and "Rock."

Nov. 19, 1912.—Go to Shady-springs, Virginia, south of the town are shaded springs. The river around these springs are a sportsman's lead. I would like a half-interest in the lead. I located platinum two days ago, and gave it to my two sons, to do with as they liked, a Christmas present to them.

The 9th of December was the date the faps decided to send their war dogs over. S. O. F. L.

COST OF GOOD WILL. A suit alleging the fraudulent transfer of assets and good will of the City and County Bank to the Bank of Italy and asking $113,544 damages, was filed yesterday by F. H. Johnson against Irving M. Joseph, Hannah and Milton Metzer, Benjamin F. Pearson, the Southern California Investment Company, the Los Angeles Investment Company, Charles A. Elder, the City and County Bank, the Bank of Italy and A. P. Glanville.

The complaint states that $147,085.20 was paid for the assets of the City and County Bank and that nothing was given for the good will.

TEN MILLIONS A YEAR TIPS IN LOS ANGELES.

TEN MILLION DOLLARS is thrown away annually in Los Angeles and vicinity—tossed to the fishes, as it were, according to figures. Waiters, bellboys, messengers, maltres d'hotel, barbers, shine boys, and the hundred and one other men, women and children of that great service army which blacks our boots and answers our beckon, pocket the money.

Ten million dollars would buy the United States wonderful dreadnoughts, or a few giant cruisers, or put back in the treasury the price we paid for the Philippines!

One of the "poor" waiters in a downtown cafe has a theater at Ocean Park, an apartment-house, property scattered from Playa del Rey to Santa Monica, a motor car and a daughter at an eastern finishing school.

Another waiter known from San Diego to San Francisco—or, rather, he was a waiter, and just ten years ago—I say with his wife dining at the Alexandria last night. To the patrons of restaurants and cafes his name is as well known as is that of our Mayor. He began as a waiter in Levy's, became captain, head waiter, manager.

Then he saw opportunity in a unique over-the-waves cafe at Venice, made a fortune and finally sold his share several months ago for another fortune. Meanwhile he had accumulated business acumen, a thorough practical education and a legion of friends—men in the ways of life.

Today the waiter of ten years ago is a banker at Venice and a good one. He has two motor cars and his son, a well-known actor, has a costly machine of his own, while his daughter is considered a "catch" in certain society circles.

To make the statement that $20,000,000 a year is tossed to the service army hereabouts, naturally appears grotesque and an exaggeration. Well, here is a demonstration with actual and conservative figures.

One of the city's principal restaurants employs 100 men. These in the aggregate make much more each night than the proprietor himself. He has the upkeep of the place to pay for.

"A Secret That Never Fails to Grow Hair"

It is something to be known as the Great Beauty of the World's Stage and Screen. That this Beauty is called Beauty is no secret. It is the secret of her beauty that is the secret of her success.

Y. E. It is all mine, I said one day to a new acquaintance who was curious to know how any woman could have such a wealth of hair as I possessed, and be able to call it all my own. "And you will never know," I continued, "how I labored to find the thing that would really grow such hair. But now I have found it, and I will tell you how quickly it proved its marvelous results!" This formula every woman can mix herself at home in a few minutes.

One of these boys stated in good faith that he alone had banked $1000 in one month and that the average for each singer is $1000 a month. Twelve thousand dollars a year! Of course this resort is considered by all the entertainers on the Coast as the one and only real gold mine. In the cabarets within the city limits the tips are next to nothing, by comparison, for the police regulations now prohibit the shower of dollars that followed each song in the old days. Nevertheless, the tips are smuggled across, but it no longer rains money in that direction.

Conservatively again, there are 2000 bellboys in the hundreds of hotels and apartment-houses here. Equalizing by deduction and addition, it appears they average $1 a day each, or $6000 a day in tips. That's nearly, and perhaps fully $2,000,000 a year, for during the holidays tips increase to make up the difference.

To enumerate all the classes of service who have used my formula of the hand would make a recital here that would be nothing more or less than a lesson in arithmetic.

But, this remedy, Los Angeles throws $10,000,000 away each year. And then some! Figure it!

ASHAMED—You can get rid of your blackheads in a few minutes. This sounds remarkable, but it is true. Sprinkle some norel on a sponge, wet with hot water, and rub it on the blackheads. They will disappear. The norel will cost fifty cents at your drugstore. There are often hundreds of little blackheads in the skin, which it is impossible to get rid of by the usual methods. You will get all these small ones, as well as the big ones, out.

MRS. H. M. R.—There is no excuse now for women permitting herself to look old. I know a great many women who are very young, but who look old because of a complete transformation followed in a very short time. This remedy has a powerful effect on the skin, rendering it vigorous and youthful. All wrinkles disappear with great rapidity, and the difference in appearance of age is startling.

The Doctor's Advice

The questions answered here are of general character; the responses are given and apply to any case of similar nature. Those wishing further advice may address the editor of the "Doctor's Advice" column, care of the Los Angeles Sunday Times, 500 Broadway, Los Angeles, California.

"Old Soldier" writes: "I would like to know what to do for rheumatism. I am an old fellow and I cannot walk. Please answer at once."

"Answer: Here is the best remedy for rheumatism that is known, and it takes according to directions you will soon be out again and be strong and healthy. Take a dram of iodine of potassium; 4 drams sodium salicylate, 10c. wine of colchicum, 1 cc. comp. essence cardui, 1 cc. comp. fluid balsam and 5 cc. of syrup marshmallows comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed."

"Laura" says: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cold and cough. I have tried many remedies, but they do not seem to help me at all. I wish you would advise me what to do."

"Answer: You need a laxative cough syrup, one that will drive the cold from your system. The following prescription will check your cold and soothe your throat. Get a 25 cc. package of concentrated essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle. Take a teaspoonful every hour or two or until your cold is better. This will relieve you in a very few days."

"Stenographer" writes: "I can scarcely do my work on the account of indigestion in my stomach after eating. I have a heavy feeling in my stomach and gas forms. I am also constipated. This condition if neglected may cause appendicitis. I should begin at once and take tablets triophrase, which can be bought in any drug store at small cost. They are packed in sealed cartons with full directions accompanying the package. I am sure many cases of appendicitis could be prevented by the use of triophrase."

"A. R." writes: "Please send me a prescription for a good tonic. I am weak and languid all the time, have no appetite and cannot sleep at night."

"Answer: Obtain the following ingredients from your drugstore and take for several weeks and you will be strong and healthy. Syrup of hypophosphites comp. 5 cc.; tincture cadomene comp. 1 cc.; (and cardamon) and take a teaspoonful before each meal. Shake well before taking."

Mrs. Beatrice asks: "Will you please prescribe for one who is too fleshy, so that about 25 pounds can be taken off?"

"Answer: Obtain of any well-stocked drugstore a tube of 8-grain arboresc tablets and take regularly as per directions accompanying same. Many of my patients have reduced at the rate of a pound a day without any ill results."

"Unhappy May" writes: "I suffer constantly with headache, indigestion and..."

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Dr. De Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are of great value to all who are afflicted with any of the ailments mentioned. They are given as a guide to the proper treatment of each case, and are not to be taken as a substitute for the advice of a physician.

Headache.—Three-grain cod liver oil capsules, 10 to 15 times a day, after meals. If the headache is due to indigestion, take a small dose of cathartic. If it is due to a cold, take a small dose of salicylic acid. If it is due to a neuralgia, take a small dose of morphine.

Stomach Trouble.—If the stomach is weak, take a small dose of cod liver oil capsules. If the stomach is overactive, take a small dose of cathartic. If the stomach is inflamed, take a small dose of salicylic acid. If the stomach is ulcerated, take a small dose of morphine.

Cholera.—If the cholera is due to a cold, take a small dose of salicylic acid. If the cholera is due to a neuralgia, take a small dose of morphine. If the cholera is due to a stomach trouble, take a small dose of cod liver oil capsules.

Diarrhea.—If the diarrhea is due to a cold, take a small dose of salicylic acid. If the diarrhea is due to a neuralgia, take a small dose of morphine. If the diarrhea is due to a stomach trouble, take a small dose of cod liver oil capsules.

GOLDEN HARVEST FROM RIPENING CITRUS CROP.

California Growers Have Twenty-five Million Dollars' Worth of Exceptionally Fine Fruit to Market—Almost Certain Prospect of Many Favorable Conditions Prevalent Even Bigger Returns Next Year.

THE HARVEST of the opening of a new season looked brighter to the California orange and lemon growers than does the present one. A 125,000,000 crop of citrus fruit of exceptionally fine quality to market, and orchards in splendid condition; all preparations made for a bumper crop and tree against possible frost; a warm, wet winter; well timed rains; and a general prevalence of optimism pervade the citrus belt.

Conditions around the citrus belt, however, are not all so bright. The crop and market prospects for the coming year are not so bright as they were last year. The crop is not so large as last year, and the market is not so bright as it was last year. The crop is not so large as last year, and the market is not so bright as it was last year.

ent season. These are expected to bring good money.

It is a noteworthy fact in connection with the California lemon industry that at the present time the entire acreage, with but few minor exceptions, is thoroughly equipped to fight frost conditions; such a shortage as existed in output the past season cannot occur in the future.

Prognostications are being made throughout the entire citrus belt for a good wet winter, meaning absence of damaging frost. Old settlers in particular, see many reasons for a winter favorable to the citrus grower.

Property values are again on the rise as witnessed by some remarkable sales of citrus groves made the present month, and all conditions now point to a most prosperous winter and general Thanksgiving.

In ebony, satinwood, bird's-eye maple and French or Parisian Ivory. In the ivory assortment we show a seemingly endless variety of articles including Mirrors, Brushes of all kinds, Manicure articles, Trays, Clocks, Boxes, etc.

Important Notice to the Public
When selecting articles made from French or Parisian Ivory—see that each article is stamped with the word FRANCE, as required by the Government. This protects you against dealers who represent inferior domestic articles as being Parisian Ivory.

Gifts of Jewelry or Leather
Articles that combine beauty with utility are always most welcome. In our jewelry section we show:

Sterling Silver Souvenir Spoons, Baby Spoons and Forks; Sterling Silver Photo Frames, Sterling and German Silver Vanity Cases, Mossi Bags in Sterling or German Silver; also gold plated. Beautiful novelty jewelry in necklaces, brooches, pins, bracelets and scarf pins. Sterling silver and enameled pendants and fountain pens. Jet jewelry, pearl necklaces, hair ornaments, etc.

Brass and Leather-Covered Articles
In brass novelties we show a very large collection, including dinner gongs and boxes, music rolls, bill boxes, card cases, travelers' cases, etc.

Four Attractive Specials
Negligees

Why not a negligee for a Christmas gift? A gift that the recipient is sure to appreciate, would be one of these special values in handsome negligees. They exhibit value to a surprising degree, and the prices are far underworth.

Special Value at $5.00
Satin Negligees in charming floral designs, beautifully finished with buttonhole edge, and shown in a wide diversity of popular shades. Unusually priced at $5.00.

Special Value at $8.50
Dainty crepe de chine negligees, handsomely embroidered in self color. Indeed a desirable garment and exhibited in a variety of wanted tints, sky, pink, white, heliotrope, navy, and black. A tempting value at $8.50.

Special Value at $10
Satin Negligees in very effective floral designs, in rich colorings; with accordion plaited skirt. A garment of excellent material, workmanship and finish, and very exceptionally priced at $10.00.

Special Value at $12.50
Broadcloth Silk Negligees, in daintiest of shades, and delightful style, trimmed with Swandown. The value is decidedly strong at $12.50, for the gown is faultless in every detail of negligee art. Priced at $12.50.

“EATS” GALORE, BUT NO ROOM.
Milk and Rolls Beat Turkey and Cranberries.

Hamburgers Hosts to Army of Poor Children.

Santa Claus Wins the Day
Over Punch-and-Judy.

A French roll, a glass of milk and Santa Claus.
It was a combination that filled the souls of many a youngster with joy, yesterday afternoon, at the 400 giving dinner where 400 of the were the guests of the Hamburgers.
Is that all they had to eat? Well, not by a turkey-leg!

There was turkey, with gobs of gravy and dressing; there was cranberry sauce, potato mash, apple pie and ice cream! But the rolls and milk and the gift-giver! That was the trio of satisfying delights.

From the different smaller benevolent societies; from the Ann-street and the Macy-street public schools, the children had been brought at the invitation of the hosts, and the big store was jammed with people to witness the pleasing sight.

The teachers who brought the children in parties of a dozen or two declare that at least half of them had never before ridden on a street car—and certain it was that a great many of them had never tasted such sumptuous food as turkey and “fixins” and rubbing her “um-my” up and down, she said, with an expression of ecstatic delight:

“I can’t get any more!”
The pie and ice cream had not yet been served.

Another child looked over her shoulder and asked her teacher, who was supplying the wants of her flock, for another French roll. Her entire dinner lay untouched on the plate.

“How many rolls have you eaten?”
she was asked.

Her reply was two, they were stuck up by her rosy cheeks.
“Why don’t you eat your turkey?”
The little one just blushed and looked abashed, and she was given another roll and her empty milk can refilled.

Kindly and sensitively the lady said to a bystander:

“The knows what they are!”
When Santa Claus entered the big cafeteria where the 400 were all seated at one time, the entire bunch quit their dinner, jumped on the chairs and dressed like pirates. One little girl went to the far side of the hall and over the back of the door and ran toward the top of her diminutive around toward the other side, defying the army of servers like a mouse.

One small Spanish boy elected himself booster for his gang. He stood on two chairs, waving his arms and yelling like a college leader, and his gang followed suit.

This was the real spirit of the occasion.

They were just unconventionally happy, and to the surprise of the lookers, many of the more radical ones, who had been told for the first time that they were getting out of the most of them ravenously devoured the most dainty of the contents of the Santa Claus’s bag, and Santa Claus was not nearly as surprised as the lookers at the sight of the happy throng.

At the close of two hours the were worked down to the kitchen to relax and returned to the cafeteria. The men who were the Santa Claus’s helpers, and dinner, the women of the Santa Charles who gathered to find the the places hard to find, the score of young women who them—they all looked as happy as the kids.

LARGER POSTAL PAY.
Automatic Operation of Act of Congress Applies Here and Overland Salaries.

Approximately $150,000 a year has been added to the pay roll of the Los Angeles postoffice as a result of the automatic operation of the act of Congress, two years ago. Under the act a 10 per cent increase was made in the salary of all postal employees, and the act of Congress has been applied to the pay roll of the Los Angeles postoffice.

The new pay schedule for clerks in charge of the overland lines on the Santa Fe between Ash Fork and on the Santa Fe Pacific between Ash Fork and the line to Salt Lake City, the 117th of a year, which is the pay under the present law, and third-class clerks at the same rate.

The clerks making their headquarters here were added to the pay increases by both the Santa Fe and the Manufacturers’ Association of the Chamber of Commerce.

 The first steps have been taken to eliminate the grade crossing. The reckless automobile driver must be protected from himself.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.
 Prof. Hyslop says that good and bad spirits permeate the human system. We suspect that the "Good Little Devil" is not always the balance of power.

THE WORST POSSIBLE.
 Rumor has it that government circles are threatened with a social war among the women. We trust that nothing so bad will happen to an administration already burdened with embarrassment.

THE LIMIT.
 A young man who was smoking five packages of tailor-made cigarettes a day seemed to think that his system had no limits. When he drank a half-pint of wood alcohol he discovered his mistake.

HER ANNUAL OUTBREAK.
 Hetty Green has had another birthday. On these occasions she always gets a notice in the newspapers and gives out an interview as to what has kept her young. This time her cure for age is eating onions. The lady may indulge in this diet as much as she pleases. We are not her Hobson.

A RICH PAUPER.
 They would not let a man live in New York because he had no money and no trade. He could speak seventeen languages and seven dialects of another, but the immigration inspectors could not see how he would ever make a living. Somebody has told them that talk is cheap.

A LITTLE LATE.
 We are very much afraid that Lee Christmas is going into Mexico a trifle late. Had he gone a few months ago and succeeded in establishing a President he would have furnished material enough to run the magazines and Richard Harding Davis for another year with "Soldiers of Fortune" copy.

A CRUEL LAW.
 A City Councilman was driving his automobile down one of our sunny boulevards when the speed law ran over him. When roads are as fine as ours a law of this kind is always getting in the way. It is almost impossible to dodge the thing. It is the only watchman ever invented never to have been caught asleep at the switch.

THE REAL THING.
 Four women who claimed to have been held prisoners on the high seas by six Mexicans say they escaped by flourishing an empty pistol and waving their handkerchiefs. This was almost as bad as a battle between the rebels and the Federals in Mexico. The weapons used were as dangerous and the fray was attended by about as many fatalities.

NOT A GOOD FELLOW.
 President Wilson would not have an inaugural ball, he does not serve any wine, and he will not drink the Old Year out and the New Year in with grape juice and a lot of people at the usual White House reception. He has a marriage in his family this year, and perhaps he feels that this will occasion as much noise and expense as he can very well afford.

IMPOSSIBLE.
 An English paper is afraid that this country will act toward Mexico as England was treated India and Egypt. We are only cousins to the English, you see, and that is likely to be a kinship so distant as to escape some of the family traits. Besides, when this country does not intervene England cries out for protection, and when there is a threat to intervene she calls us robbers and says we are seeking self-interest. They are sure if we don't and they hate us if we do, that is, some of them.

NOT THE CURE.
 Carranza has heard that Wilson favors a man named Lascrua for President of Mexico, and the rebel leader begs to differ from the man in the White House. It will never do to let each male adult of Mexico take it day about being provisional President, and so some one man has to be selected. No matter who it is, one side or the other will reject him, with a good show of his being rejected on many sides. The recognition of one man, however, would give Wilson the right to sustain that man if he had to intervene in order to do it.

The mention of Justice Hughes as the Republican candidate for President in 1916 indicates that the party has a number of fine assets in the nomination line. And there are others. But 1916 is quite a spell away as yet.

We know of married women who are never so happy as when they are asked by their husbands to accompany them to the store to assist in buying a suit of clothes. It is such an eloquent tribute to their good taste.

In Delaware, where an effort is being made to abolish the whipping post, the public is quoted in its defense. But it will be recalled that the same book was once quoted in defense of slavery. And where is slavery now?

TAMMANY HALL AND SULZER.
 When thieves fall out, honest men get sick and tired of hearing allegations and complaints. And just at present the pot and the kettle are having a noisy combat in the courts of New York; the perennial pretender seeks to rehabilitate his reputation by disclosing the subterranean graft channels of the Democratic politicians; Sulzer, the exposed reformer, battles for revenge by trying to wreck Tammany Hall.

Ex-Gov. Sulzer seems to believe that his baptism of shame has regenerated him into the Sir Galahad of reform, and having been convicted of graft is assisting in attempting to convict Charles F. Murphy. Tammany Hall has never been held as an institution striving for the noblest and the highest, but it is remembered that Tammany Hall has never represented itself as anything other than a political organization "out to win." Though it be convicted of all the political crimes on the calendar, it is eminently more to be respected than the itching-palmed reformers of Sulzer's ilk.

However, things are looking black enough for Murphy to make Sulzer happy. Dist. Atty. Whitman, who really seems to be an efficient and fearless official, has acted on evidence that Sulzer's intimate knowledge of Tammany methods has supplied, and has wrenched from the lips of unrolling witnesses statements to show that asphalt companies were heavily assessed for campaign purposes, and that when awarded contracts on State work it was necessary to let the nephew of Charles Murphy share in the profits.

John A. Hennessy, graft investigator for Sulzer, astonished the whole of New York a few weeks ago by sensational accusations against Tammany Hall, and vowed that he would reveal the corruption attending the last Mayoralty election. So far the investigation has been all that Hennessy promised, and George McGuire, the bonding agent for the State highway and barge canal contractors, has been toasted over the inquisitorial fires for the past week, making statements one day that are denied and supplemented, palpably showing that he doesn't want to get anyone into trouble and yet revealing a system of bribery and corruption by every admission. It was he who confessed to the extortion of campaign money from asphalt companies that hoped to get State contracts, and also who confessed that Murphy's nephew was a partner in the graft spoils.

The nation can have no compassion for Tammany Hall and its regime. It is a corrupt and tyrannical political trust, and the sooner it is crushed out of existence the higher will be the moral status of New York politics. But there are none who have contempt for Tammany Hall. It is a bully, but it is rotten, but it does not mumble platitudes and pose; Charles F. Murphy, its boss, is in danger of going to prison, but he is not attempting to shove the blame and responsibility off onto his wife as did ex-Gov. Sulzer, the hypocrite, reformer and grafter.

THE M'KREYNOLDS REMOVAL JOKE.
 E. Tooplous, under one of the other of his various aliases, "Civic Betterment Society," "Taxpayers' League," "Independent Civic League," "Good Citizens Combine" and other imaginary societies the meetings of which were usually attended by Tooplous, his stenographer, the office boy and a spittoon, has been howling for months in his one-cent newspapers about reducing the cost of gas to the consumer.

The gas company, with the permission and co-operation of President McKreynolds of the Board of Public Utilities, made a practical reduction in the cost of gas to the consumers by mixing natural gas piped from northern fields with the manufactured product. The natural gas contained many more heat units than the artificial gas, and the effect of the mixture was to materially reduce the quantity of gas used by the consumer and so reduce his monthly bills. Tooplous, enraged at a saving to consumers of gas not procured through his instrumentality or in accordance with his suggestions, attempted to procure the removal of President McKreynolds. The Council refused to accede to this. Then he tried the process of the recall and could not get all his efforts and all the resolutions adopted by himself under his various aliases procure one-tenth the necessary number of signatures to recall petitions.

Now Tooplous is at it again before the Council, demanding, threatening, begging and imploring them to remove McKreynolds for his awful crime of helping the people to lower gas bills by a process not approved by the gasnading, middlemen Earl.

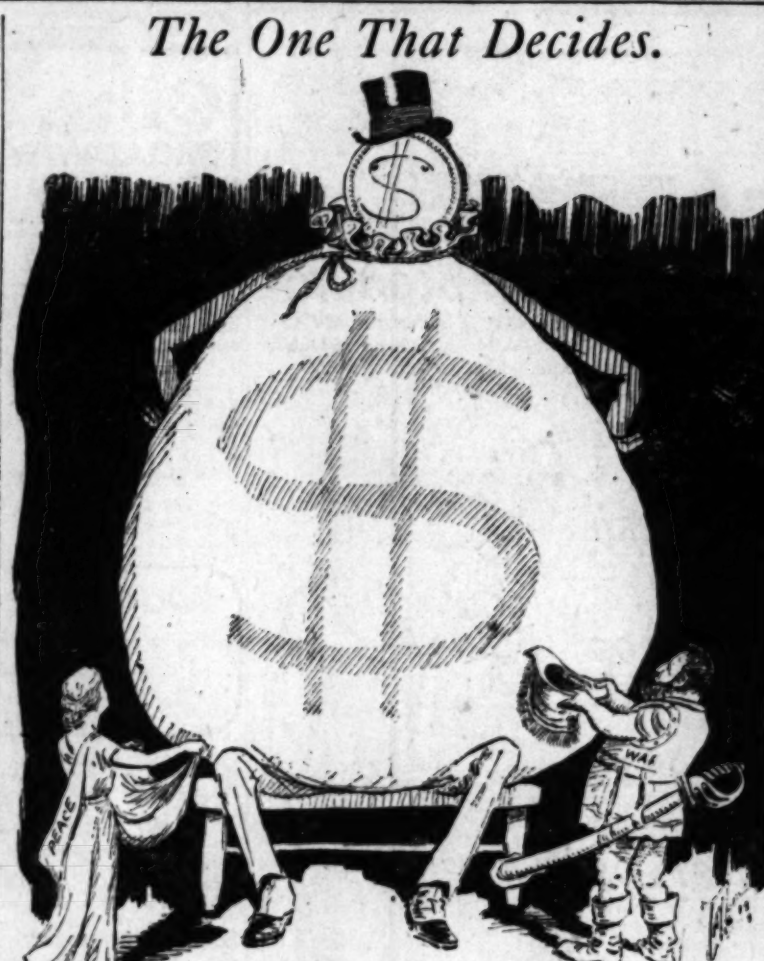

As Mr. McKreynolds goes out of office in six weeks anyhow and it is not likely that Mayor Rose will reappoint him, the question may well be asked why should the time of the Council be taken up discussing the attempt of Earl and his socialist allies to remove Mr. McKreynolds. There is no demand of the public for such removal—as evidenced by the failure of the recall petitions—and the Councilmen who have the manliness and the good sense to refuse to allow the middlemen Earl to dictate to them will receive the commendations of the community.

The noisy shout, "The people demand the removal of McKreynolds," is a loud joke in view of the fact that all of Earl's personally conducted "leagues" and their paid circulators could get only ONE-TENTH of the necessary number of signatures to their recall petition, after weeks of effort. The prime recallers, the chief trouble-makers, that make as much croaking as if they were a million frogs, are Allender and Foss, who with E. Tooplous and his kept man Brundage, compose the "Independent Civic League." Allender is a Socialist and Foss has a record as a labor agitator of the Gompers brand.

There you have it. "The people" have shown that they have no sympathy at all with the riotous, meddling, self-seeking gang that is trying to bluff the City Council.

President Wilson has made another precedent by eliminating the New Year reception at the White House, that has been the vogue ever since the early days of the republic. It was the one time in the year when the people could take the hand of the Chief Executive. Some queer history is being made in Washington.

John Doe is evidently a bigger man than Charles Murphy just now. The trail of the Democratic boodle is being traced right to the door of the Tammany chief.

THE NATION AND THE STATE.
 The tariff we have with us for good or evil until the general Congressional elections in 1914 and possibly until the Presidential election in 1916. Until we experience the actual effects of it, it would be profitless to discuss the details. It will not, however, be profitless, but will be instructive to discuss and understand the Democratic philosophy, of which the tariff is one expression.

Since the formation of our government the Democratic party has been in favor of the supremacy of State sovereignty, of a "little 'n.'" The opposite doctrine has been held successively by the Federal, the Whig and the Republican parties, and notwithstanding occasional and temporary Democratic triumphs, has been dominant since 1860.

Protection to American industry is the offspring of Federal supremacy. Free trade is the child of State sovereignty. It has never before happened in the history of this country that a national policy has been so abruptly and so radically changed as by the present administration at Washington.

The general purpose of Democracy has ever been to undo whatever the Republican party has done, to do whatever the Republican party has opposed, to overthrow Federal supervision and Federal power in whatever direction exercised, and to elevate the power and supremacy of the State at the expense of the nation.

To change the tariff law and substitute free trade for protection has been its purpose for more than half a century. Cleveland tried it in 1893, but did not entirely succeed. The Senate baffled him, for the Wilson bill was at last rather a change of schedules than a complete destruction of protection. Cleveland, notwithstanding his strong individualism, was a lawyer who entertained a respect for the Constitution of his country and had some modest misgivings as to his own infallibility. Wilson is a publicist by no underestimate of himself. He had not the slightest hesitation in invoking the power of Federal patronage and the tyranny of the secret caucus to carry out his purposes, and the result was the revised tariff, the practical workings of which are yet to be demonstrated.

What further legislation the Democrats at Washington will enact remains to be seen. They will never abandon State rights. All that they need to do to weaken the power of the Federal government and increase the power of the States they will surely do.

Yet the people will not forget that, under the rule of the Republican party, the nation progressed from a loosely-joined confederacy of discordant and belligerent States into a homogeneous and compact nation, and grew from poverty and stagnation into wealth and prosperity.

"All this wondrous transformation," says Mr. J. C. Tuitt in a communication to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "has been brought about mostly by practical legislation. But it has not been done in a haphazard and partial way. The Republican party has acted scientifically and comprehensively. It has, to speak truly, left nothing undone. It has comprehended statutory law as thoroughly as it has constitutional law. And that is saying a great deal, for constitutionalism never was so vividly interpreted and so stringently enforced as by the Republican party."

The Republican party has fathomed the import of legislation with the same genius for accuracy it did that of constitutional power in the flashing searchlight of the Civil War.

It is not in the tariff law alone that Democracy expresses its purposes. In its currency bill it is endeavoring to extend the privileges of national banks to State banks. Whatever it does in the sphere of law-making it always moves along this direct line.

The hope of the country lies in the fact that there are only six millions of voters who favor State rights and free trade, while there are seven millions of Republicans and Progressives who favor protection and the supremacy of the nation. Roosevelt and Johnson and their coadjutors, mad with disappointed ambition and furious with spite against Taft, succeeded in 1912 in rendering the Republican party in twain. But they never can prevent it from "getting together" in 1916 or maybe in 1914.

John Doe is evidently a bigger man than Charles Murphy just now. The trail of the Democratic boodle is being traced right to the door of the Tammany chief.

EXPORTING ELECTRICITY.
 One of the most wonderful achievements of this wonderful age is the sending of electricity for power and light from the waterfalls of Halland in Sweden, through submarine cables placed on the bottom of the sea, to Elsinore in Denmark.

Denmark is without waterfalls of any importance and has been dependent upon coal for her electricity. Sweden has many mountain streams, and can readily supply Denmark and, if necessary, north Germany with electrical "juice."

Next thing we shall hear will be that a means of transmitting electricity any distance has been developed, and that Liverpool and London will be furnished with light and power from the St. Lawrence River in Canada.

How differently Shakespeare might have written the play of Hamlet if the scene had been laid at the present time. As the curtain rolled up Col. Horatio, old Polo Nious, Judge Rosecrans and young Gilded Stern would have been discovered playing bridge whilst at one crown per point in a room heated and lit by a Swedish waterfall. The wireless telephone bell would ring. Col. Horatio would go to the phone. "Is that you, Hamlet? Yes? Where are you now?"

Passing through the Panama Canal on board the 30,000-ton American steamer Angel City. On your way to Los Angeles? Want me to meet you there next week? All right, I will start tomorrow. Can make the trip in five days by the new aeroplane line from Copenhagen. We take the Los Angeles Times here. It has the best editorial page of any newspaper in the world. Makes its London namesake look like 29 cents. Seen anything of the old man's spook lately? You talked with him this morning? He was perched on the tailfin, holding a corn-cob pipe in one hand and with the other digging at the poison which his brother poured into his ear? Well, well, well! I say, Ham, when you get to Los Angeles you want to look out for Tooplous. Your uncle has subsidized him to defend that little poisoning job in the garden, and the one-cent newspaper man may attack you as an emissary of predatory wealth.

"Well, I must be going. I am no longer a man that fortune's buffets and rewards shak'ten with equal thanks. I am after the rewards and I pass the buffets on to the other fellow. It's my deal, and if I am not there to handle the pasteboards Old Polo Nious and young Gilded Stern between them will get my goat. So long."

SULZER.
 BY WALT MASON FOR "THE TIMES."
 Oh, Sulzer came from Albany, and wore the victor's crown, although a stern impeachment court had lately turned him down. No sackcloth did the hero wear—though he had cause enough to brood—a princely diadem of laurel on his brow. "I go," he said, "my life to give to help the people's cause," and on his path the Peepul pranced and gave him wild applause. The Peepul, the reformers say, are virtuous and wise, and in the throbbing public breast all human goodness lies. The Peepul never make mistakes, their vision's clear and true, the more they rule the better 'tis, they say, for me and you. And so the mighty Peepul rose, and walked in Sulzer's train, and cried, "We'll never rest until you have your own again!" What wonder that we lift our hats when orators declaim of good days coming and invoke the sacred Peepul's name? The Peepul choose their heroes well—you cannot blind their eyes, they always recognize the truth beneath a garb of lies. Though some may see in Sulzer but a creature soiled and vile, the Peepul see his sterling worth, and greet him with a smile.

"Impressionist" School.
 [London Tit-Bits:] A painter of the "impressionist" school is now confined in a lunatic asylum. To all persons who visit his studio he says, "Look here, this is the latest masterpiece of my composition." They look, and see nothing but an expanse of bare canvas. They ask, "What does that represent?" "That," he says, "represents the passage of the Jews through the Red Sea." "Beg pardon, but where is the sea?" "It has been driven back." "And where are the Jews?" "They have crossed over." "And the Egyptians?" "They'll be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple, suggestive and unpretentious."

THE THANKSGIVINGS OF LUCKY LOS ANGELES.

BY NEETA MARQUIS.

A Scotchman was telling me a story the other day of a poor Gaelic boy who once said a little wistfully:

"If I was too be a king, I'd be an expensive one. I'd have milk porridge three times a day, and sleep to my own in straw."

Poor simple lad—his idea of regal luxury was porridge boiled in milk, and straw enough in his little sleeping-hole in the barn to cover him up to his eyes and keep him really cozy.

"But ordinary folk in California live like real kings every day," the Scotchman added. "Grapes at this time of year, to be clipped off by the bunch and not merely by the individual grape, not to mention green peas and straw-berries, make our dining meals a feast such as none but the extravagantly wealthy may enjoy in England, while a pineapple places us on a plane with nabobs."

I wish you could see the little winter garden coming up this minute in our city back yard, out in the west part of the city. There are radishes and carrots and lettuce and parsnips and tomatoes and spinach, up several inches, each in its neat little bed, and sweet peas and pansies by the score are pushing their little green noses above the fragrant brown earth, while blooming chrysanthemums are still tall and bright against the fence.

By and by the pear, the plum and the mulberry trees will be bare of leaves, but their clean, delicate outlines will appear only the more lovely against the pure, soft, blue sky of December, rinsed by benedict rains, and all around their feet these little green things growing will be making a perfect springtime.

California—that is what it is—just California—the loveliest name for the loveliest fact this side of Elysium.

Gratitude ought to be the very breath of our daily life in California. I know a man from Tennessee who says picturesquely that "a body ought not to kick very hard if he goes to the Bad Place when he dies, if he's been allowed to live in California a while first."

Yet we do allow ourselves to be betrayed into all manner of complaints and repinings because of the absence of gilt on our lily. A Pasadena man once uttered complaint because where he lived it was "nothing but sunshine, sunshine all the time, and the mocking birds sang so loud they kept him awake at night!"

When, for instance, our impatience with the fact that traffic is increasing so rapidly in our city that progress on the street cars is slow on Main and Spring streets. Why, it is as illogical and ungrateful for us to fuss over that as it is to scold a boy of fourteen for outgrowing his clothes. The outgrowing is a little inconvenient, if other clothes are hard to get, but the child can't help it. He's got to be a man some day.

When I was a very little girl I lived on Spring street next door to where the Hibernian building stands now, across the street from the Angelus Hotel. There were lawns and roses along the street then, but the pavements on the sidewalks were few and far between. More than once, in wet weather, when on my way to the brick school building which occupied the space now given up to Mercantile place, down in a little black "gossamer" with a hood, with school books and umbrella in hand, I slipped in the sticky, wet adobe, and once remained quite helplessly immobilized until a kind big hand hauled me out of the miry clay and established my infantile gait. And it was not such a terribly long while ago, at that.

Spring street little realized then the congestion that was in store for it, and I think it must hurt its feelings now to hear the unkind remarks made about it when it can't help itself.

In the light of all I personally have seen, it distresses me to hear people refer crossly to Los Angeles as an "overgrown village." Of course it is an overgrown village! It has a perfect right to be, since it is passing through the trying process of growing up so fast it can scarcely keep its own feet in sight!

The pioneer who remembers when Los Angeles was sheep pasture up to Third and Spring streets becoming exceedingly vexed with this shortsighted critic. I have heard such a person declare:

"Anyone who complains of anything in Southern California, after what it has grown out of and left behind in a few short years, is altogether lacking in understanding and appreciation!"

It is the acme of cruelty and unintelligence to berate an overgrown child for not possessing all the graces of maturity. The physical development has outstripped the slower spiritual processes, and only time and patient care can bring about a true equalization of the two.

So with our dear and beloved city. Those of us who love her with a possessive and jealous devotion owe it most to her to aid in equalizing her inequalities rather than to malign her for the obvious imperfections of her forced development.

Our truest expression of thanksgiving, in this 1913 year of wonderful advance and achievement, for all she is today and for all she is destined to mean to the represented nations of the world tomorrow, is to work heart and soul for her good, and to pray that peace be within her calls and prosperity continue within her cottages as well as her places.

She is the City of Promise, set in a garden of winter and summer fertility—Los Angeles, California—the most sweet and beautiful place-name in the world! May all of us return due thanks for the privilege and joy of claiming her as our own!

The City of Kiev.
 [The Argonaut:] Kiev, more familiar as Kieff, scene of the great "Ritual murder" trial just ended, is the earliest seat of Christianity in Russia. As the most ancient capital of the empire it has earned its title of mother of cities. Its far-stretching monastery of Petcherskaya Lavra is one of the wonders of the world. With many a church and chapel and innumerable monastic cells within its high wall, the "City of Caves" forms a town by itself. The catacombs cut out of the solid rock every year come pilgrims from all over Russia to worship at the shrines of the saints who came years ago from Byzantium. But Kiev is not a typically Russian city. It has lost its early Byzantine character without gaining the modern Russian spirit—a result attributed to the rule of the Poles, who kept the city under their influence for centuries. It has been said one may call the Kieff people Little Russians, who differ from the Great Russians as much as the English do from the Scots. Imperialists did their best seventy years ago by establishing a local university to Russify the town, but most writers agree that ancient elements are still alive.

Pen Points: By the Staff.
 If anybody writes "Pen Points" on him on the spot.

Hetty Green is 74, but she would be 100 if it did not cost so much to live.

It is now claimed that deep canals dug the germs of tuberculosis. That would be going some.

form the nucleus for next year's flock.

Turkey raising is conducted with less expense than any of the valley side issues. The only real expense in weeks before sending them to market, when they must be fed corn, or other grain.

Nearly every ranch, worthy of the name, in the Imperial Valley, has its flock of turkeys as a matter of course. They range in numbers from 100 to several thousand, according to the size of the ranch, and the number of turkeys required to consume the farm waste. At the present time, no one is making a specialty of turkey raising except on a small scale.

Yet, this industry has grown, year by year, until it has now reached proportions well worthy of serious consideration, and greater attention than has heretofore been given to it. On account of last spring's early heavy duststorms of the high winds, turkey output of the valley will not be as great by 4000 to 10,000 birds, this year, as it was the year before; but this year's crop will be by no means inconsiderable. There will be a total output this year of not less than 75,000 turkeys in the valley.

These turkeys will bring into the valley, from outside sources, not less than $125,000. About 20,000 of these turkeys will be shipped to this city and to San Diego—the largest markets for valley turkeys—for Thanksgiving dinners. The rest will be shipped between Thanksgiving Day and New Year's Day. Most of the valley turkeys are shipped alive.

The Imperial Valley may now be considered the center of the turkey-raising business in the State, as there are more of them raised here in proportion to the number of ranches than elsewhere in the State, and it is estimated by experts in the business that they are raised there with less cost and, therefore, with more profit than anywhere else in California. The warm, dry, winters, and the extensive grain fields, together with the wide, level range, makes the Imperial Valley a natural, ideal locality for raising turkeys.

Year by year, the valley ranchers are learning to appreciate this fact and giving to this side line more of the attention it deserves. According to present indications, it will not be long until turkey raising in the valley will no longer be classed with the side lines, but will be accorded a place among the specialties, and it will be ranked second, only to the cantaloupe industry, in point of profits.

The county is taking measures to bring this about through the county fair. The fair officials this year have offered a prize of $20 each, for the two largest turkeys raised in the valley. These were placed on exhibition during the fair, after which they will be sent to other parts of the State for exhibition.

VISALIA, Nov. 22.—That various plumbers in Visalia are indebted to the city to the extent of $400 for back inspection fees was the charge made by City Engineer McCabe at this evening's meeting of the City Trustees.

McCabe declares that all of them are willing to dig up except H. Askin, former City Trustee, against whom suit was filed many months ago. It is now charged that Giff Pinchot, the disciple of sweetness and light, used a steam roller to get certain resolutions through the Conservation Congress.

It is enough to jar the halo that has been placed on Giff's head by Col. Roosevelt and Jake Kila.

Good Cheer Aids Digestion of Food

Dyspeptics Can Make the Rest of the Family Happy by Using a Laxative-Tonic.

The temper of the family and the good cheer around the table depend so much on the good digestion of each individual present that the experiences of some former dyspeptics who overcame their trouble should be of interest to those now suffering in this way.

The best advice one can give—but it is advice that is seldom heeded—is to eat slowly and masticate each mouthful carefully. However, if slow eating and careful mastication does not bring relief, the next step is to take a laxative-tonic. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, this remedy is an excellent digestant, and in addition to helping in the digestion of the food, acts gently on the liver and bowels, ridding them of the accumulation of waste that should long ago have been passed off. It is safe, reliable, pleasant-tasting, and results are guaranteed.

Maj. S. Martin of Joplin, Mo., now 77, thinks Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has helped him to a longer and happier life. He has not felt so good in years as he has since taking this excellent medicine, and in spite of his seventy-seven years he says he feels like a boy.

It is the ideal remedy for indigestion, no matter how severe; constipation, no matter how chronic, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances.

MAJ. S. MARTIN.

You can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for 50 cents or $1, the latter size being bought by heads of families already familiar with its merits. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

When you use Syrup Pepsin you will see the fallacy of chewing masticate and taking cathartics, salts, pills and similar drastic medicines. Unlike these, Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect, and by automatically training the stomach and bowels muscles to do their work.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, No. 415 Washington street, Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

JUDGE CRAIG PLEADS FOR SOUNDER PENAL SYSTEM.

Says Our Treatment of Criminals Is Semi-Barbaric. New Institution Needed for First Offenders—Our State Prisons as Now Conducted Are Veritable Schools of Crime.

BY GAVIN W. CRAIG.

Judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County.

I HAVE been asked to write an article suggesting reforms in our treatment of persons convicted of crime. I have given this subject considerable thought in the past, and expect to devote much more study to it as time permits.

Whether or not the near future will bring a sweeping reformation in our penal system depends upon the courage, and not upon the intellect of the people of this State. It is not a question of education. Ninety per cent. of those who read this article will agree with the statements concerning the inhumanity and lack of logic of our present system, as a matter of course, and perhaps skip such observations, as a waste of time in reading. They will pass along to see what suggestions are made in the way of remedy.

Criminality is a disease. How much time would you waste trying to convince some one that the proper way to cure a person of a fever is to have a physician prescribe much medicine to be administered for so many days by a janitor, and let it go at that?

In criminal cases the judges are the doctors. We prescribe a dose of four years in prison for one, and life sentence for another, as a cure for his disease of criminality. That is the end of it as far as the doctor is concerned, and the nurse is a guard with a club and an arsenal. Whose time is worth so little that he cannot afford to spend it reading an argument against the folly of such a system?

THE NORMAL MAN.

The normal man wants to do what is just. To secure right action from him, it is only necessary to induce him to consider. In stating these axioms, I refer not to the criminal, but to you, the reader of this article; you who vote and pay taxes, who constitute the State of California.

The stable state is composed of normal citizens. The individual may be both a criminal and a sinner; the state can be a sinner only. It is one, and only one, necessary to induce him to consider. In stating these axioms, I refer not to the criminal, but to you, the reader of this article; you who vote and pay taxes, who constitute the State of California.

The farmer used to plant any kind of pumpkin seed, any variety of corn or wheat, just so it was pumpkin, corn, or wheat seed. Farmers are now agriculturists. They do things scientifically and they get two or threefold as much in harvest time as formerly.

The orchardists prune, irrigate and fertilize, not in a hit-or-miss fashion, but in the right season and in proper amount, considering the INDIVIDUAL grove and the INDIVIDUAL tree. These things are done not for amusement, but because they pay.

How much longer will we waste millions of dollars yearly in unscientific methods in the treatment of criminals? The Elmina system is perfect, but it is a long step in the right direction. It has been demonstrated that this method of dealing with persons convicted of crime saves the State of New York annually over $200,000. California can do the same. DO NOT THE TAXPAYERS OF THIS STATE FEEL THAT THIS WOULD BE WORTH WHILE? Of course, the initial cost is considerable. San Quentin and Folsom have long been too crowded for decency or morality.

THE QUESTION OF COST.

We will soon find it necessary to add another institution to those that we already have. The need is even now imperative. It will cost no more to make it one designed and equipped for the reformation and education of criminals to useful purposes, than to make it one designed and equipped for the punishment of criminals. The prison of Chillon, and have it a training school of crime and depravity.

CRIMINALITY CAN BE CURED.

Nearly every one knows this truth. I will say, you have been too much occupied with business or pleasure to learn that at the New York State Penitentiary at Elmira for twenty-five years under the direction of that remarkable man, Z. R. Brockway, and at least six institutions of the same character in other States, for a less time, demonstration has been made, so conclusively that no one qualified to speak on the subject can deny the truth of the following propositions:

The mind of the criminal is diseased, undeveloped or defective. If he is not an imbecile, in the sense of having no mentality in a certain direction, the disease may be cured, or the undeveloped brain made normal. For the brain that is entirely lacking thus far no remedy has been found. There have been some failures in the treatment of the first two classes, but in larger percentage than in the treatment of any serious disease cured for by any school of physicians or healers.

THE FIRST OFFENDER. The first offender frequently has not the disease of criminality developed, but only incipient. Place such a person among confirmed criminals and he will become one also, but the proper exercise of the body and mind under skillful and experienced supervision, the criminal tendency may be prevented from ever ripening into a disease and wholly eradicated from his brain, and he may soon be restored to a normal, law-abiding citizen. What other result do we demand?

To be sure, we have a system of parole and credits for good behavior. In other words, if the treatment accorded to all prisoners in our penitentiaries happens to fit the case of the individual, he is cured and probably shows it in his good behavior. Let us begin with those who are most easily and inexpensively healed. A penitentiary for first offenders would pay for itself at least in ten years.

This is not a guess, the experience of other States prove the assertion. Nor is this a charitable movement. It is one of financial saving to the State. I am in sympathy with the sentiment recently expressed by someone that it is about time honest people hearing assistance were given encouragement. There is proportionately too little done for the deserving, honest poor. In the way of gratuitous help. But if we will economize in the matter of our present, unscientific, extravagant disregard of logic and all rational theories in the treatment of prisoners, we will have more money to spend on charity for the honest, deserving poor.

ANOTHER CHANGE, so closely connected with the system of treating prisoners convicted of crime as herein outlined that without it no great success could be expected is the adoption in some form of the indeterminate sentence. The law in this regard applying to those guilty of crimes of great atrocity. BUT AS TO OTHERS, THE SENTENCE OF IMPRISONMENT SHOULD BE CONTINUOUS UNTIL THE CONVICT IS CURED. In imposing sentence the court might name a minimum duration of imprisonment. But if "prevention is the principle and imprisonment the incident" to the confinement of criminals, they should not be deprived of their liberty after a cure is effected, but on the other hand, why should we liberate them before restoration to normality?

Let no one be deceived into believing that these reforms would render the life of a criminal easy or soften the actual penalties of crime. The methods employed at Elmina have been criticized by some as being too severe. Yet this is obviously an unfair criticism. In every case it is for the prisoner and for the community whether or not he will aid himself. If he wants to be cured he must take his medicine. And, according to the records, almost without exception, the convict is willing and glad to follow the course prescribed. Stimulated by fear of indefinite incarceration and spurred on by a hope of early freedom, prisoners follow the routine of work and study, mental and physical exercises and rest, and moral discipline, laid down by experts in this wonderful work; experts who treat them as individuals. These methods have transformed hundreds of defective human beings into well-balanced, normal, law-abiding men and women, who have gone out from this reformatory and are now adding to the wealth of the State by their industry.

AGAIN, THROUGH THE OPERATION OF SUCH A PLAN, MANY OPPORTUNITIES EXIST FOR MANY CONVICTS WHO HAVE BEEN DEPENDENT UPON THEM FOR SUPPORT TO ASSIST IN SOME OF THESE HELPLESS AND NOBLY VICTIMS OF WRONGDOING. The inmates of such a system in the future in which a volume of work is done, through it we drive away the despair that has been the province of the criminal, and the husband and the father of a family are spared the shame of a DEPRIVATION THAT DOES THE CRIME COMMITTED IN THE STATE.

Our present system is semi-barbaric. I do not make this statement as an exaggeration to attract attention to a minor evil. To say that the present system is semi-barbaric is as calm and as matter-of-fact an assertion as the daily announcement of the weather man in the summer months that in Southern California the weather conditions for the next few days will be fair.

Where persons convicted of crime can be scientifically treated, and where the treatment is a matter of fact, study and of amusement. At the present time we judge cause the record concerning a convict sent to the penitentiary to show his previous occupation, so that if possible he may be put at such work in prison as he may be fitted to do, but competent authorities tell us that frequently the labor at which the criminal has worked in the occupation of all other men is likely to aid him. It may, in fact, have had much to do with his mental growth along abnormal lines.

Our present system is semi-barbaric. I do not make this

PROMOTERS IN FEDERAL COURT.Oil Company Officers Face
Trial Tomorrow.Charged With Fraudulent
Use of the Mails.Misrepresentation and Stock Juggling Alleged.

The second of the big prosecutions for alleged illegal use of the United States mails will be called in Judge Rodkin's court at the Federal building tomorrow morning, when a jury will be impaneled to try the issues involved in the case of the government against officials of the Cleveland Oil Company—Grant G. Gillette, Edson France, Thomas M. Montgomery and John Montgomery, Jr.

William J. Hatchelder, another defendant, pleaded guilty before United States District Judge Robert E. Bean, some months ago, and paid a fine of $5000. Dr. Watson A. France, who was indicted with the others, has died in Columbus, O., leaving but four defendants to be reckoned with in the present hearing.

Edson France, one of the quartette, has made a number of visits to the office of Asst. Dist. Atty. Duke Stone the past week, and that official is the authority for the statement that France has declared his willingness to assist the government to the extent of his knowledge of the case, provided he is granted immunity. He was told that his evidence was not needed to prove the contention of the government, and that he would have to take his chances with the court.

The Cleveland Oil Company had offices at Nos. 424-427 in the H. W. Hellman building, in 1909-1910, and up to a short time before the indictment was returned by the Federal grand jury last January. Stock of the company was sold all over the country, one of the largest blocks being handled by investors in Columbus, where the France brothers and the Montgomerys formerly lived. Dr. Watson A. France was a specialty physician there, where he accumulated a fortune, a large part of which, it is asserted, he dropped in the Cleveland Oil Company.

It is alleged in the indictment that on October 4, 1909, the defendants conspired to fraudulently dispose of the stock of the corporation, and that false claims were sent broadcast setting out the condition of the property owned or controlled by the corporation in Kern county, and that letters in furtherance of the plan were sent to E. P. Wright, Hermosa Beach; J. E. Neville and L. F. Parsons, Los Angeles; J. T. Morrison, Ceres and Frank W. Hill, Pasadena.

It is alleged on the part of the government that at one time the company leased 139 acres of supposed oil land in Kern county; that it really owned but 16 acres, through what is known as the "Vulcan claim," which the company's holdings that produced oil, and its output was not more than ninety barrels a day.

It is also a part of the government case that when the company was organized in 1909 the original issue of stock was 2000 shares of the value of $100 each, and that the books show the issue of 1901 of this issue in the hands of "Grant G. Gillette," who it is alleged represented "Dr. Watson A. France."

On behalf of the defendants it is asserted that not all the receipts were "false," but that large amounts were spent for development work, and that the failure of the enterprise was due to causes over which they had no control; that it was a speculation that went wrong through no fault of their own.

One hundred and twenty witnesses have been summoned by the government and it is believed that not less than three weeks will be occupied by the hearing. The government is not in possession of the list of witnesses in behalf of the defendants, and so far as the records of the United States district shows none have been subpoenaed.

NEW BOOKS AT THE LIBRARY.

This week's list of new library books includes a number on current social and economic questions. The public library reports a heavy demand for such books from the schools, women's clubs and many persons who are investigating these subjects:

MUSICAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

WESTERN METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY'S PREMIERE.

Remarkable Aggregation of Talent Secured from Abroad—Leoncavallo to Direct His Own New Compositions—Orchestra and Chorus Thoroughly Trained for Productions.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

Tomorrow night the Auditorium will be the scene of a musical event of important significance, the opening of the operatic season and the first appearance here of California's own, the Western Metropolitan Grand Opera Company.

The principals have been selected from the leading operahouses of Europe and South America, and are stars who have sung their way into prominence in La Scala, Covent Garden, Imperial Theater of Warsaw, the Lyceum of Barcelona, the Municipal Theater of Buenos Ayres and Rio Janeiro, and for six weeks have sung to the elite of San Francisco, and come to us tomorrow night at the Auditorium for a limited engagement. It is expected that the grand opera, which opens next Monday, will eclipse in brilliancy any hitherto given during the Auditorium's career as purveyor of grand opera for the people. The blench that has so frequently marred popular opera seasons in this city—the untidiness of some of the singers of the smaller roles, will be conspicuously absent, as every part from the smallest to the largest, is promised to be adequately interpreted by singers of international fame.

The Mary Garden of the season will be Carmen Melis, formerly with Hammerstein's Manhattan Opera Company, afterwards with the Boston Opera Company and the Metropolitan, for five seasons singing at Covent Garden, and selected by the grand opera board at Parma this season to sing the dramatic soprano roles at the Verdi Centenary. She is a present favorite in all these centers and a beauty of great appeal. She is an actress as well as a singer, and her allurement in the role of Thaïs, when the Boston Opera Company presented the Massenet work, was so dazzling that few staid spectators only realized how glorious was her dramatic soprano voice. As Zaza in Leoncavallo's new opera of that name, and as Floria Tosca she is equally dazzling.

Fanny Antina, a magnetic contralto from the Royal Theater of Madrid, although new to Los Angeles, is known to fame here. She shared honors with Bonci during the latter's recent stellar tour of Mexico. Lucia Crestani is another dramatic soprano from La Scala, in Milan, and the Buenos Ayres opera who will lend luster in the presentation of such operas as "Rigoletto," "Otello," "Il Trovatore," "Pagliacci" and other operas of classic and modern composition as call for the vigor of impassioned interpretation.

In Luca Botta one finds a lyric tenor's voice of great beauty. He sings the part of Rodolfo in "La Bohème" most gracefully. He is but 24 years of age and for two seasons has sung throughout Italy. He is a perfect Pinkerton in "Mme. Butterfly," a superb Cavaradossi in "La Tosca," and a great Don Jose in "Carmen." This young operatic star hails from Corsica, is intelligent and not afraid of work, and the possessor of a fine voice.

George Mascia's beauty of voice is well known to this city, where his starship in the late lamented Grand French Opera Company was acknowledged. He has been engaged for the roles of John the Baptist in "Thaïs," and the Tureador in "Carmen." Maria Mosca is a capable lyric soprano from the Imperial Theater of Warsaw and the Lyceum Theater of Barcelona, whose superior beauty, the real picture of this organization.

In Olga Samis, also of the Barcelona opera, is a dramatic contralto with a voice of great range and beauty.

Of the dramatic tenors, Umberto Chiodo has been especially engaged for heavy roles; he comes from a tour of Germany, Austria and Italy, where he was engaged for the impersonation of Verdi's "Otello," and is considered a great interpreter of Otello.

In Luigi Montecarlo, baritone, from La Scala, Milan, gifted with a big and mellow voice, we find in him the man whom Leoncavallo says is "the greatest singer of the prologue I have ever known." His marvelous Rusticana" and "Pagliacci." Mascia's opera being interpreted by Crestani as Santuzza, Luisa Cecchetti as Lola, Pietro Schiavazzi as Turiddu, Modesti as Alfio, the teamster, and Luisa Sylla as Mama Lucia.

Leoncavallo will direct "Pagliacci" and Montecarlo will sing the prologue and the part of Silvio, the village Maria Mosca will be the Columbine (Nedda). Chiodo will appear as Canio, master of the troupe; Modesti as Tonio, the clown; Fanny Antina as the harlequin.

For Wednesday evening and Saturday night an all-star cast in Verdi's "Aida," with Montecarlo as Amneris, father of Aida; Fanny Antina as Amneris, Lucia Crestani, the Ethiopian slave Aida; Chiodo as Radames, and Brilli as the King of Egypt.

For Thursday evening Biset's immortal "Carmen," presenting Schiavazzi as Don Jose, Mascia as the Toreador, Luisa Cecchetti as Mercedes, and Andree Tany in the role she made famous in Paris as Carmen, the cigarette girl; Olga Samis as Michaela.

On Friday night the first production in Los Angeles and the fifth time in America, with the composer as

Beverly Trio; "Wait for the Wagon" (Buckley), "Sweet Genevieve" (Tucker), "Star-Spangled Banner" (Keyes.)

People's Orchestra. At today's People's Orchestra Concert will be heard the old tunes that you have heard and loved in your youth and that are still beautiful because they are good music.

The "Post and Peasant" overture, a Strauss waltz, that wonderful "Fugue March" of Chopin's, the "Savotte" from "Lucia," Miserere from "Trovatore" and the fine popular overture from "Zampa" will be given. The object of the orchestra is to pay increased attention to the interpretation of music whose melody appeals to the greater number of music lovers.

Jewish Musical Festival. The coming Jewish Musical Festival will take place at the Gemut Auditorium on December 4. Among those who will appear are the following local artists: Julius Kratz, pupil of Arnold Kraus, a violinist of ability; Miss Anna Schulman will act as his accompanist. Mrs. Cella Davidson, lyric soprano with the Temple B'nai B'rith choir, will assist. Leo Domke, first assistant to Philo Becker, will play the "Concert Paraphrase" by Liszt.

Ellen Beach Yaw. Mrs. Yaw, the distinguished prima donna soprano, accompanied by Grace Adele Freebey of this city, presented last week an elaborate programme in San Jose, under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Musical Association, composed of classical numbers and two compositions by Mrs. Yaw, "Quench and Fire" and the "Sky Lark," and Miss Freebey's "O Golden Sun."

Jonson's Lyrics. Foster Aphor has recently edited forty of the best-known songs of Adolf Jensen, the well-known composer of operas, who died in 1908, permanently known. In this selection for high and low voice the songs most conspicuous for their elegance and spontaneity of melody have been preserved. The volume is published by Oliver Ditson of Boston.

Saint Cecilia Club. At the first meeting of the St. Cecilia Club, held at the home of Mrs. Robert Adams, No. 2104 Ninth avenue, Miss Isabelle Jager, Mrs. Philip Solzlein, Mrs. Guy Bush, Mrs. Charles Lick, Harry Baxter, Mrs. Harry Rose, Mrs. Raymond Zeno and Mrs. Robert Adams presented an artistically interpreted programme of selections by De Busy, D'Indy, Massenet and Vieuxtemps.

Beatrice Hubbell Plummer. Mrs. B. H. Plummer, composer of children songs and now at work on an opera to be given this winter by a company of youthful players, has just returned from New York, where she has spent several months in study and composition.

Bach School of Music. Yesterday afternoon a student recital of the Bach School of Music under the direction of James W. Pierce. Mrs. H. C. Mages, Russell Leach, Matthew Trevelia, Misses Miriam Parker, Elizabeth Benkert, Gladys Holmes, Anna Logan, Ruth Bateman, Lillian Althouse, Mabel McCarthy, and Katie Minter presented a programme of vocal and piano numbers of modern composition. Mrs. F. J. Lichetzky, McDowell, Post and Rachmaninoff. The next musical, December 12, will be made up of classical compositions.

The Exile's Song. Now I tread the city broadways and my heart is sore. For the morn'g bells, but I go there no more. And I'm far from the lonely road, and a wild gray sky. And the screaming note in a curfew's throat as the rain comes rushing by.

Out beyond the stream of traffic is a stream I love. And the old hills, the dear hills, and the stars that climb above. And it's there my heart is roaming while I stand in the street. And I hear the sigh of a dream gone by when the world was sweet.

My soul is sick of cities and the crafty strife; And if gold were all, and greed were all, I have had enough of life; But always night and day I hear the moaning music creep To the heart that shall be aching till I sleep.—(Thomas Moulton in London Academy.)

be up to the usual standard of this clever pair, and is certain to be one of the most attractive features of the new programme.

A pair of royal entertainers will be Perry and Arnold, in piano songs and character songs. Both boys are clever and make a pair worth while drawing to.

Patel and Coughlin will return in their irresistible skit of theirs, "The Stranded Minstrel." Just to hear them tell about the dinner they did not get, makes one hungry. This act will be a capital Thanksgiving appetizer.

Ray Lawrence will bring with her a whole budget of laughs. She is droll, and pretty, besides; just the kind of a girl Hippodrome audiences like.

The Overtons make the seventh big act, and will present "The Indian and the Swede." It is really immense and certain to find instant favor. In addition, there will be three interesting photo plays.

Miller's Theatre.
Few stories are more melodramatic than "A Stolen Identity," which will be the headline feature at Miller's Theatre on Main street, between Eighth and Ninth, for Sunday and Monday. How one man steals another's name and station after imprisoning his victim; how, on the eve of getting a colossal fortune, a little girl crosses his path; how he ties her to the tracks in front of an express train, only to have her snatched to safety, and how retribution follows, make a tale as thrilling as one could well desire.

Another feature of the bill will be "The Missionary," a two-act comic story, climaxing when the missionary, finding that people won't come to his church on account of shabby clothing, gets a missionary box from his mother and finds it full of evening gowns.

The big comedy feature is "Patsey's Luck." To tell too much of the story would spoil it. Suffice it to say that Patsey is henpecked, falls off the wagon, captures a lot of bandits and becomes boss of his family.

Betty Stokes will offer a new repertoire of her best songs, which, with the excellence of the pictures, makes up a bill well worth seeing.

Clune's.
"The Perils of the Sea," declared by motion picture critics who saw the eastern private exhibition, to be the last word in maritime film drama, has been secured by W. H. Clune, as a headline at his Broadway theatre next week.

It is a two-reel Kalem and was produced by the Western Company in San Pedro harbor with veritable startling realism.

Charlie Blackie, one of the best known of the local picture players fraternally, has the leading part, while the ingenue role is taken by Miss "Billie" Rhodes, who, after making an enviable reputation as a cabaret star was hurried into the motion picture world.

Among the great scenes is the sinking of a huge ship with panic-stricken passengers jumping overboard. Others include scenes of the desert island, where the party are supposed to be shipwrecked and have returned to a primitive mode of living.

TRIANGULAR DRAMA.
With Stephen Phillips for the De Luxe Article and Alfred Sutor for the Rough Stuff the Public Should Find What It Wants.

BY HENRY CHRISTENSEN WARNACK

TRIANGLE in the drama means a one woman and two men. I have often wondered why this order is never reversed. It may be that the triangle with two women in it happens before marriage, but never after it.
Perhaps the punishment for women caught red-handed at unlawful love is not so dramatic as the war between two men in such an emergency, and it may be that women are never caught.

Such plays are generally written by men and either ignorance or fallacy has caused them to repeat the offense from the position.

History seems to have done the same thing, so that we have Potiphar and Joseph with Mrs. Potiphar as an interesting background, and we have Uriah and David, with Mrs.
David, nee Uriah, adding relish to the story.

What Brann of the Iconoclast once wrote about Mrs. Potiphar has nothing to do with this article for I must stick to the stage, but I remember that it was not complimentary. He seemed to think that the lady was no better than she should have been.

What Stephen Phillips wrote concerning the beautiful wife of the lawfully murdered Uriah is fresh in my mind and would be fresh in the public mind if the public had read "The Sin of David."

Outside of the name on the cover, David and his wife are not mentioned in the play. Instead, Phillips has used a capital and a general of the medieval English period, with the captain's pretty wife in the role of Mrs. Uriah. Phillips has made no attempt to be unique. He has been satisfied with a faithful and intensely dramatic interpretation of the story as it has come down to us from the Old Testament. To make the poetry of the Bible's simple narrative and trans-pose it into modern speech of beauty and power is no light task, but Phillips has done this with the touch of a master. His imagination has hu-manized the story with abundant and sympathetic detail. He has cloaked it with all the human cry and frailty which must have been so great and just a king or ever desire had conquered him. This imagery he has draped with a poet's tapestry of words until the result is a fair chapter of life at its height of feeling and at its depth of anguish.

All of us who have lived to sin and repent perfectly understand the sin of David, but it had remained quite unexpressed until Phillips gave us his remarkable dramatization. It reads so well that to hear it one would scarcely take it to be poetry. There is no effort in the style. The meaning reaches one in an unbroken flow of beauty and of strength and underneath this veil of shimmering words lies a deep and bitter wisdom.

Nothing is surer than that pride comes before a fall and when the general rides into the camp of one of his captains, where awaits the beautiful woman who is to cost him the honor of his soul, his first act is to cast the deciding vote of death against a young lieutenant, who has allowed a maiden's lips to lure him to her enticement. As he stands gazing into the eyes of the woman he is to love to the point of all forgetfulness he sees her cheek blanch at the wicked gun sound the death of the young lieutenant, who should have been made of sterner stuff, but who was so much like the rest of the people in this world that he stopped-fighting to make love.

The general is strangely moved by the beauty of the woman and for days he allows himself the comfort of her stern and aged husband's home, making no progress with the affairs of war to the amazed disappointment of his restless staff.

In a week the two have found each other's arms in one of the most beautiful confessions of mutual regard ever uttered by an author's pen. In that same hour a messenger brings word of a near-by garrison's need of a man who will lead a desperate enterprise and who will not return alive.
Without acquainting him with the true nature of the expected service, the general sends upon this fatal business the husband who is in his path to happiness. This is not done without some debate with his conscience, but one look at the woman's soft loveliness under the pale moon makes lery, for, as we know, the Wachtels make sketching trips everywhere.

Spoke last week of this artist's ability as a painter. Her early instruction, indeed, was one of the most thorough sort. A native of Ohio, she began her studies in drawing and painting at the Art Institute in Chicago. Later she went to New York to work under Rhoda Holmes Nicholls, oils and water colors. She studied in the Julian Academy in Paris, and from there went to England to work for two years with J. Noble Barlow. Under such severe and persistent training, she has rounded out the mechanics of art, and yet her individuality as an artist has been respected by herself and her instructors.

At the Ebell Clubhouse, Ebbett and Figueroa streets, Diana Lee Lyon is holding an exhibition of twenty sketches of Southern California colored pencils. The pictures are shown to December 31.

A DEBUTANTE ABROAD.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

LONDON, Nov. 8.
Daddy Darling:—While the mair, two chambermaids, a cockney porter and the "button" are wrestling with the horrors of continental baggage problems, I am, Mary-like, given the pleasing duty of entertaining my far-distant papa. We leave for St. Petersburg today, dear, and are in a whirl of stressful emotion wherein are mingled fearful delight, delightful fear, joyful and terrible anticipation. Goodness knows what we really expect, but the American newspapers have done their alarming best to paint Russia as a dark and barbarous continent, chiefly populated with police and prisoners. Seton Merriman and Tolstol have not gone out of their way to dispel this idea, although they do hint at a possibility of civilization somewhere.

The courier, sent over to escort us, is certainly a most charming person, fully whiskered, soldierly, speaks several languages and treats us like royalty. That looks promising. He says they speak mostly French in St. Petersburg, so I shall practice on him all the way across.

We are feeling shockingly disappointed, for we have been out every night for eight days in succession, with last night as the grand climax. We were most distinguished yesterday, daddy dear, partaking of dinner in the company of two young Bourbon princes, up from St. Petersburg for a few days, Lord and Lady Fielding (such a nice young couple,) the two Rose girls from Ventura, Cal., who, with their chaperons, Mrs. Von B., were the hostesses of the occasion, and one or two less notable folk like ourselves. We all put in an appearance at the Page ball at the American embassy afterwards and finally laid our flustered heads on our welcome pillows as the yellow fog which masquerades as dawn in London crept over the house.

We are missing another aristocratic function today, for bunches of royalty and half the peerage are "assisting" at a matinee at the Gaiety Theatre this afternoon in favor of some charity for establishing homes for boys. I, in company with dozens of other really charming society debutantes (Oh, yes, I am—the Honorable Archie said so!) was to have sold programmes and exhibited my newest frock, but we could not crowd it in anyhow. By the way, those young French princes were such nice, natural boys—the eldest was tremendously like Willie Crocker of San Francisco.

On Saturday we went down to the Sunningdale Golf Club and witnessed a most exciting team match between ten Oxford University men and a Sunningdale team. The course is so pretty and turfed all over, of course, like an immense undulating lawn. You really must come over one year for an orgy of golf, daddy darling, on these beautiful courses. The clubhouse was not half so grand as either the Los Angeles or the Midwick, but there was an atmosphere about it that simply reeked of family pride. A young Indian golfer named Malik (I am afraid we should have called him a "greaser" or a "dago" out West) played on the university side and was the sensation of the day. His long driving and miraculous putting were a joy to watch. We saw him take a long 6 hole in 4 and his lissom grace was equal to that of Nylinsky, the Russian dancer. Still we have our Norman Macbeths and our Harry K. Davises in California, haven't we?

But, oh, daddy darling, I can plainly see we shall have to dress you when we come back. London is the mecca of men's fashions in the same way that Paris reigns for women—and some very drastic sartorial changes are afoot for men. At the club on Saturday there were hundreds of really smart men and we had an opportunity of seeing the fashions actually in wear after having read about them in all seriousness in the Sunday Times, which is a very respectable, scholarly sort of paper indeed. Silk shirts with V-shaped necks are absolutely de rigueur. The cut of the collar is the essential feature, of course. It must fit high and snugly at the back, but open down to a pronounced V in front, with Byronian points and a soft silk tie. With this is worn a soft felt hat which is adorned with some sort of feather—a la Tyrolean mountaineer, and those tasseled stockings which young La Montagne sported at del Monte are quite the thing and widely patronized over here.

Naturally these styles impress one as being a little bit theatrical at first, but they are ever so becoming, daddy, and your neck is quite young and handsome enough to show for a long time yet. Also the frilled evening dress shirt is worn everywhere here—the tiniest, stiffest of frills, pressed flat, but all the same quite emphatically a frill. We have decided we like that, too, but a good deal depends upon the personal cache of the wearer—the frill is not for all men. Comic reminiscences of little dog Toby must inevitably crop up in many cases.

How do you think you will like the mair in a tall masculine black silk hat? Whilst furlishing up for the Russian visit new hats were imperative, of course. The milliner simply insisted upon the mair having one of these "top hats," which she declares are the very, very latest—and she certainly does look very chic in it. It is the kind of thing that the Englishwomen used to wear for horse-riding—a very slight modification on the one you wore at May's wedding. A tricky little cockade at the side lends it the only concession to the feminine touch.

No, dear, you need not get alarmed; I shall not spring a wedding on you for a month or two yet. It was mean of the mair to tell you about Archie, but as a matter of fact I would only consider marrying him if he were a sailor. Like those charming officers on the Olympic—just at home for three days twice a month!

Mair was relieved to get that draft—the man at Barclay's (that is the London agent of the First National Bank of Los Angeles) was very amused at our excitement when the money began to run low, and assured us that he would have advanced any necessary amount! They evidently don't regard you as on the verge of bankruptcy, but the mair says I am to reassure you—we really will try to be economical. After all, we are only living at the rate of seven hundred hundred thousand a year for three months!

All our love, you dear old grumbler—we still think you are the nicest man we know. Your loving, BETTY.

—There will be coats at $22.50 that were to have sold at $45.00, and there will be others up to $62.50 that were to have been $125.00—

—Ah!—and such coats—one doesn't need to look for the label to know they came from Paris—they have that indescribable something about them that only a Parisian designer can give—

—There are evening, opera and reception coats in the collection—some of rich pailon velvet—some of exquisite silk—some of brocaded silk duvetyne—some of beaded nets over velvet, and others are of new fabrics which only their creators could name correctly.

—Note the pictures to the right!

—They are all the very newest of the Parisian effects—you could almost count the days on your fingers—that have passed since these coats left their Paris home—and they came at this low price—not for the reasons that so many garments are sold underworth—but because Louis et Cie are anxious for a share of the Jacoby garment business—

—We quote from their letter of 8th instant—

"—while this transaction was materialized at a great loss to us, we are satisfied that this sacrifice on our part will lead to an increased business with your concern—"

—Every one bears its original Paris label—every one is to go at exactly half price!

$32.50 to $65 street and afternoon coats $21 from Louis et Cie—Paris—Monday at...*Women's $27.50 to $29.50 suits in this sale at $19.50

—Rich fur trimmed suits that have little in common with suits usually shown at even $27.50 and $29.50.

—For the most part they are copies of French garments that carried price tags of three figures.

—The coats are in jaunty semi-bouffant effects—the materials include Bedford cords, wide wales, diagonals and fancy mixtures.

Women's suits at $34.75

—These we have sold in a special way at $37.50 and $42.50. They are all striking models of velour de laine, broadcloth, wool poplins and diagonals in mahogany, purple, wistaria, Copenhagen, brown, gray and black.

—Just imagine buying Paris coats for $21.00!

—The woman who would have a snug, warm coat for motoring or street wear—and who would like it to have character—style and individuality—will read of this event with delight!

—The coats themselves—their materials and their trimmings—all are delightfully different. No two in the lot are alike.

—Just 28 of them to go at $21.00.

$19.50 to $29.50 coats at $14.95

—A manufacturer's surplus stock which was bought underworth by our garment buyer who is now in New York!

—Both street and afternoon models of ural lamb, chinchilla, fancy boucle, diagonals, broadcloth, velvets and sponges in Copenhagen, brown, gray, navy, black and two-toned effects.

Third Floor.

$8.50 & $10 chiffon waists Monday $5.00*New lace and net waists $2.95

—And on up $12.50.

—Note the three pretty styles we have pictured!

—They are mostly all made with new low necks with de mediet ruffles and with long sleeves!

—Many very new and novel effects have just come and will be out of their wrappings in time for you to see Monday.

Jacoby's—4th Floor.

—Just 48 of them!

—They are all high neck styles with long or short sleeves!

—We've marked them half price and close to half in order that we may hurry them out and make room for other waists that are on the way from the East!

—These are in navy—grays—black and brown—$8.50 to $10.00 waists—$5.00.

—Jacoby's—4th Floor.

40-in. silk poplin will go into the mid-season sale at $1.25

—The writer wishes there was some way to impress upon you the unusualness of this poplin—that would be as effective as seeing the silk itself!

—It's a silk that is going to win new friends galore for the silk store on Monday at $1.25.

—The color range includes russet, brown, Copenhagen, duck blue, spark blue, navy, rose, sky, maize, Tango, pearl, gray, taupe, black, wistaria and wine——Women who know most about silks and silk values will be the first here Monday and they'll buy it most liberally!

—40-in. silk poplin at $1.25 yard!

—42-in. Crepe de Chine in a good heavy weight—all wanted colors including black and white, an unusual value at $1.25.

—42-in. Tange Crepe—a heavy quality for dresses and suits. Colors are King's blue, Copenhagen, sailor blue, navy, russet and plum—$2.00 yard.

—36-in. Black Crepe de Chine—in a close, perfect weave at $1.00—a quality we have always sold at $1.25.

—36-in. Black Duchesse Satin—an extra heavy weight for dresses, suits and coats at $1.50.

—27-in. Corduroy Velvet—a special showing in all shades Monday. Prices are $1.25, $1, 80c & 60c yard.

—38-in. Satin de Chine—in a soft satin finish for dresses, waists, linings and trimmings. A wide range of colors at $1.00 yard.

—36-in. Silk Poplin—in rose, Copenhagen, green, lavender, gray, red and white. Will make beautiful dresses and suits—60c yard.

Mid-season sale $8.00 dress forms $5.98

—Adjustable—of course.

—They will adjust to any size form, 32 to 44 bust measure.

—The bust form itself is made of a splendid quality paper mache—the skirt form of substantial steel wire which will hold its shape.

—Every home dressmaker should have one of these forms.

Mezzanine.

A high grade sample line of neckwear at half—close to half and less than

—Without a question one of the most important neckwear events that has been given publicity in a Los Angeles newspaper!

—The entire sample line of one of New York's most famous makers came to us at half—we're going to offer it in the same way on Monday!

—There are included—Fichus, guimpes, fancy vests, cuffs and collars, collars, cascades, Elizabethan effects and worlds of other new novelties!

—See the big display of it in the window today—and plan to be here at Monday morning—

The Enlarged Book Dept.

—Offers exceptional opportunity to choose now for Christmas gifts that are most acceptable.

—The most important of holiday departments—this is the Book Dept.

—A silk sale that for value-giving has hardly been approached this year.

—A silk sale in which the most desired of silks are presented to you at prices that mean pre-holiday buying of an extraordinary nature.

—The prices are their own best recommendation. They are here to attend this event. Read every item carefully.

—Here's an important fact—Broadway marked prices mean more in value-giving than the price tickler indicates, because of special price concessions of various kinds.

—You have even special marked prices cut to the quick.

—Remember, the silk department is now on the second floor through the Archway.

—Be here early to share in these more than remarkable values.

Alhambra.

A WEDDING of general interest to Alhambra people took place on Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Edna F. Quick was united in marriage to Charles B. Keiser, Rev. W. S. Reed officiating. The marriage took place at the Keiser home on South Hidalgo avenue. The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with chrysanthemums, smilax, and asparagus plumosus, and also carnations.

Following the ceremony and congratulations an elaborate wedding supper was served. The bride's gown was of blue messaline, trimmed with real lace, and she carried an exquisite bouquet of carnations, lilies of the valley, and maidenhair ferns. The attendants were Mrs. E. B. Dechene, was matron of honor, and Mr. Charles Arnold, who served the groom as best man. The bride has many friends in Alhambra for the past year, having come here from Kentucky, and was a close circle of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Keiser will make their home at No. 422 South Hidalgo avenue.

A jolly party of Alhambra people spent Sunday on the Mt. Wilson, returning at night from a fine outing. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. E. Higginsbotham, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dechene, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Wenham.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1900 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent simply on the chance of curing your Rheumatism. I will send it free to try. If, after you have used it, I find it has proven itself to be that long-sought-for cure of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

SCIENCE WOULD ENTRAP SPIRITS OF THE DEAD.

"Why Shouldn't Stead Reappear to His Friends?" Asks Sir W. Crookes.

Inventor of the Tube for X-Rays Devises a Number of Electrical Machines and Recording Instruments to Keep a Check on the "Human Element" in Investigations of Psychic Phenomena.

BY EDWIN J. DINGLE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The claim put forward by W. T. Stead's friends in communication with them from "the other side" has caused a great sensation in London, where the memory of the great journalist is still held in high esteem.

Various efforts have been made recently to get the opinion of the most famous English, French and Italian spiritualists on the manifestations ascribed to this victim of the Titanic disaster—of Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace, co-discoverer of the Darwinian theory; Sir Oliver Lodge, the president of the British Association; Prof. Richet of Paris, and Signor Marconi, but all refuse to be drawn. "The time has not come for us to speak," they assert.

Sir William Crookes, the great scientist, inventor of the Crookes tube which made the X-rays demonstrable, and discoverer of the new element Thallium, is, however, not so reticent. "Why shouldn't Stead appear to his friends in Europe and the United States?" he remarked. "There is nothing surprising in it—rather the reverse, considering the years he gave and the large fortune he spent on spiritualism and on bridges to the unseen."

Notwithstanding this, Sir William Crookes is everywhere regarded as one of the most conservative men of science in the world. He never makes a statement without being able to corroborate every word he says in the personification of patient research. He has been in turn the president of nearly all the great English learned bodies of repute. To catalogue his titles to distinction would occupy almost a couple of columns of itself.

And yet Sir William Crookes, with all his reserve, his incisive reasoning, cool calculation and scientific conservatism, has boldly announced himself a convinced believer in spirits.

SURVIVAL OF PERSONALITY.

The recent investigations he has conducted have brought him about a certainty regarding the survival of human personality after death. The experiments carried out by the famous British scientist have been conducted in the semi-darkness of the usual spiritualistic seance cabinet, but in the strong light of electric light, under conditions approaching daylight. Many who hear the name of Crookes mentioned in connection with spiritualistic investigations incline to the idea that the English scientist may have been "taken in" by the usual crew of slight-of-hand men who float about promiscuously in the domain of mediumship.

That an ordinary trickster could succeed in deceiving Sir William Crookes is incredible to anyone who has ever had occasion to come into contact with the master of the art of science in question. When Sir William first discovered the new element Thallium he spent two years of patient research simply in working out its atomic weight. Before announcing this discovery he tested his facts about in a somewhat curious manner. He would have appalled ordinary mortals.

His investigations into spiritualism have been conducted with the same patient determination that characterized his application to scientific problems.

He has neglected no detail; shunned no item of import; overlooked no essential. And yet after years of patient endeavor he has arrived at a patient and convincing of spirit reality by scientific data which he has been able to acquire.

The story of how Sir William Crookes attained his present knowledge of scientific phenomena is known outside the immediate circle of his acquaintances. Of course, any man who boldly announces such daring theories as have been set forth by Sir William must be prepared for an avalanche of skeptical opposition. But the same statement applies to any pioneer in the field of human endeavor whose vision into the future carries him farther than the vista outlined in the ordinary creative mind.

REMARKABLE THEORY.

When Sir William Crookes announced his remarkable theory that matter existed in the ultra-gaseous, or radiant form, the scientific world laughed him to scorn. When he further stated that matter and force appeared to merge into each other, another howl of derision went up from the learned elite. The discovery of radium, and the wonderful action of the X-rays, have, however, turned the tables on these scoffers, and now Sir William enjoys his triumph in the general approbation not only of his fellow scientists, but of the world at large.

What is it, then, that brought Sir William Crookes to his firm convictions on spiritualism? Mainly, the series of remarkable investigations which he conducted some years ago and which he has continued in recent times. His early investigations took the form of a series of scientific experiments conducted with various mediums, notable among whom was D. D. Home.

It has been said time and again that Home proved a fraud, and that Sir William was deceived by clever legerdemain. As a matter of fact, however, Sir William Crookes subjected Home to some of the most rigorous scientific tests imaginable.

Sir William Crookes, with his usual fearlessness, published his investigations into the world of spiritualism in a semi-scientific magazine with which he was connected. A beautifully formed small hand rose up from the dining table and gave me a small flower," he wrote, describing this apparition. "It appeared, then disappeared, three times at intervals, affording me ample opportunity of satisfying myself that it was as real in appearance as my own. This occurred in the light of my own room."

"On another occasion," he continued, "a small hand and arm like a baby's appeared to play upon a lady who was sitting next to me. It then passed to me and patted my arm and pulled my coat several times. A hand has repeatedly been seen by myself and others playing the keys of an accordion. The hands and arms were most elaborate. In the first place, he locked the doors leading into the portion of his library which he had arranged as a dark cabinet, placing all the keys in his own pocket. Most minute attention was paid to every detail, and his arrangement of the lights in the room was so perfect that he secured extraordinary conditions, almost equal to daylight."

"Katie instructed all the sitters," continued Sir William, "to keep their seats and to keep conditions, but for some time past she had given me permission to do what I liked—to enter and leave the cabinet almost at will."

Preparing a trap to catch the spirits of the dead.

ROBBER PEST AFFLICTS CHINA.

Small Armies of Brigands in All Districts.

Outlaws Practically Govern Some Provinces.

Their Leaders Attain Wealth and Many Wives.

[A. P. Correspondence to The Times.]

PEKING (China) Oct. 10.—Brigands in China have spread until some robber bands have assumed the dignity of small armies. They muster both foot and cavalry and are as large as two American regiments. No province is free from bandits. From Manchuria, where the Hungtuzes ply their trade, and from Kiangsu to Turkestan, come reports of freebooters who defy the authorities.

There is no local police to cope with the outlaws and the army is not at present a dependable branch of the administration. China is never free from brigandage, but it is only at periods of transition, when the authority of the government is shaken by political disorders like the recent rebellion, that the bands attain such large proportions.

The American missionaries who fled from their homes in the interior of Fukien province are still at Fochow, unable to return because no protection can be assured them by the government. The American Consulate at Fochow and the Legation in Peking have been trying in vain for several months to get the Chinese government to take vigorous action against Hwang Liang, the outlaw who proclaimed himself sixteenth Emperor of the Ming Dynasty.

A consular report from Shensi says that province is practically administered by outlaws, who work solely in their own interest. The governor adheres to the central government only because there is no interference from Peking, and because it is good policy for him to describe himself as loyal. The governor, or tzu, as he is called, was a poor and unscrupulous official, but now he has amassed a large fortune and a numerous harem.

The Consul gives an account of how the commanding general likewise obtained wealth and authority. Being appointed commissioner for the suppression of opium in the province, says the report, he started on a tour with a body of troops. He took the precaution to have a word ahead announcing his approach, a policy which, as is customary, brought forth a mob of thousands of the people. If the presents were ample no opium was discovered. He confiscated only the prepared drug, of the highest value, and brought it back to the important centers and sold it.

A member of the American consular service who came recently to Peking from Canton says that piracy along the rivers and canals is more extensive than ever before. The outlaws are endeavoring to terminate their children's lives by giving them a taste of the life of a brigand, and incorporating the ordinary army. It is evident that this time-honored practice has not been away with the Manchou dynasty.

The French Legation has received news of the burning of a town in Southern Honan. Not far from Tsao-yang, where the American and Norwegian missionaries were made prisoners in September, the government has sent troops in large numbers to fight against "white wolf."

The brigands who are terrorizing that section of the country according to the report of another American Consul, the soldiers, though sufficiently numerous, are not making serious efforts. They have been trying, ostensibly, for several months to round up the brigands, yet walled towns are still being besieged, captured and looted by them.

A missionary in a Honan city describes how a band of 3000 oppressed villagers to carry fuel up to the gate of a town barred against them. They were to burn down the place. The villagers were literally the gate they were shot at from the walls by the soldiers garrisoning the town, and if they refused to advance the brigands laid them low.

Within hearing of the walls of Peking villages blunderbusses can be heard nightly. By firing at intervals their old-time guns, sometimes as far as two or three miles, sometimes as far as five or six miles, they are required to carry them, the villagers try to scare off the robbers. This summer a village within a few miles of Peking was plundered by a band of mounted men, and one or two villagers were shot. Much more valuable loot and even ransom money might have been obtained by an attack on the temple. Though the guns were heard nightly by the villagers, each of the American consulates has a detachment of troops from one or more of the Legation Guards generally goes into camp in one of this group of temples. Generally, each of the American consulates takes a month out there at different times during the summer.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is about to become a lecturer. She will start in her new character this winter by giving a series of six lectures in Paris before the women students of the Annales University.

The titles of the lectures are: "My Debuts at the Conservatoire," "The Art of Acting Yvonne," "My Favorite Roles: Hamlet, Lorraine, L'Alphonse," "The Staging of Pique," "The Pieces Foreigners Like the Best."

"I have lectured only once before," said Mme. Bernhardt. "It was at Geneva, on 'Edmond Rostand.' So you understand I lack training, as my English friends say. I shall have the 'trouf' (stage fright), I assure you."

"The other day in my room I was trying myself in my new role, and was saying, 'Madame, mademoiselle, it did not go at all well. I shall need courage.'"

"If my attempt succeeds I shall become a lecturer when I quit the stage, and as my only accessories I shall have the green baize and glass of water."

The precautions taken by Sir William Crookes to prevent any trickery

Trimmed HATS

—The hats that reveal Paris in her most fascinating moods—designed to emphasize every attractiveness, not of the face alone, but your figure and your costume, Miladi!

—Styles designed to wear with the afternoon gown and the handsome tailored suit. Soft, drooping models with just enough of stiffening to give them character, in shades to match the costume, chic black hats and charming colored models in the usual and medium sizes. A feather placed where it will lend the most of individuality, fur or a flower in just the right tone to add the final touch of effectiveness, constitute the trimmings. Hats the quality and distinctiveness of which proclaim their right to higher prices.

Cheney Bros. High-Class Silks—Monday

—If they were in the 40-inch width instead of being only yard-wide we would have had to mark them $2.00—'tho' they cut to equal advantage in this width. Fifteen hundred yards and in twenty different colorings—also the much demanded black.

—The famous Cheney Bros. silks need but the mention of the name to give assurance of their quality. Rich, soft, exquisite, this beautiful charmeuse lends itself most admirably to the draped, uncorseted figure lines of the day. Included are white, cream, light and navy blues, light and dark pink, mauve, old rose, turquoise, peach, helio, purple, silver, tan, Copenhagen, corse, plum, brown and cardinal.

DUTCH APPROVE PLAN.

Project of Draining the Zuider Zee Has Excited the People of Holland.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 8.—All Holland is excited by the conviction that the old project of draining a portion, at least, of the Zuider Zee is about to be realized. By these draining operations it is expected to win not less than 500,000 acres of fertile land, which will support a population of 200,000 persons, including 40,000 farmers and 50,000 traders, artisans, etc. As the present Zuider Zee fisheries maintain, in none too prosperous condition, only 2107 fishermen and their families, with some 3000 boats, the gain will be enormous. In fact, while the present income derived from fisheries amounts to about $500,000, the same area when drained, it is expected to yield not less than $25,000,000 per annum.

The scheme has been really under discussion since 1849, and was the subject of numerous parliamentary and technical inquiries. The most important of the technical inquiries was that carried out a quarter of a century ago, under the auspices of the Zuider Zee Association, by Engineer Lely, who proved by 215 borings that at least three quarters of the soil to be gained would be well adapted to agriculture. After that another parliamentary committee was appointed to examine the question, and in 1901, M. Lely, having become Minister of the Waterstaat (Public Works), introduced a bill for the drainage of the Western Sea and the southern waters. But the Cabinet of which he was a member had to resign, and once more the project was deferred until M. Lely became Minister of the Interior in the present Cabinet, which was formed on August 29, last.

The speech from the throne has now announced a law for carrying out M. Lely's cherished plan. The cost of the operation, including compensation to the fishermen, is estimated at over $60,000,000, which, however, will be spread over the entire period of execution of the scheme, which is expected to be terminated in thirty-three years.

MARY LETER REMEMBERED.

English Women Erect Memorial to American Who Became Lady Curzon of Kedleston.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Seven years have passed since the death of Lady Curzon of Kedleston, who was Vice-Queen of India, and a daughter of Lord Zetland of Zetland, Washington.

In the smart set in London it is still often remarked that no woman ever possessed a sweeter or more lovable disposition than did the girl who was born Mary Leter, and the loss of her young life was a great grief to her friends and companions. Little wonder, then, that they have banded themselves together to erect some permanent monument to the memory of the girl who was so loved.

The memorial takes the form of a house, bearing her name, for homeless women, who will still find shelter under its hospitable roof for the helpless bairns. The whole cost has been privately contributed by a group of enthusiasts, among whom the Duchess of Marlborough has been the guiding spirit.

The building, which is now completed, is situated in that essentially Metropolitain thoroughfare, the King's Crossroad, and is within three minutes' walk of the Great Northern Railroad Depot.

In the vestibule a marble tablet has been placed, telling the story of the hostel's origin. It reads as follows: "This building is known as the MARY CURZON HOSTEL."

It was erected in 1911 for the services of women by the relatives and friends of a woman tender-hearted and beautiful, who in her short life sought to make the life of women happier in many lands. Mary Victoria, wife of Lord Curzon of Kedleston.

Born 1870. Died 1906." Accommodation has been provided for fifty women, and each will occupy a separate bedroom, of which she has the key, every individual looking being different. These rooms afford absolute privacy, and are lighted by electricity, the rent for them being 10 cents per night.

There are also eight larger bedrooms, which are furnished with a child's cot in addition to a full-sized single bed, so that a stranded mother may not suffer the pain of being isolated from her little ones. The charge for these is 14 cents per night, but in both instances, provided the lodgers pay their rent weekly, a free bath is given to them. The day rooms, which include a sitting-room and a common-room where food can be purchased at the lowest possible price, or in which, if preferred, the women may cook their own food at a gas range, are lofty, bright, and comfortably furnished. The washing and laundry facilities are excellent, and four little "cabinets" have been erected where the women may attend to their toilet.

GARDENS ABOUT PARIS.

Ambitious Project Has Just Been Launched by Prefect of the Seine.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—An ambitious project has just been launched by M. Delanney, the Prefect of the Seine, which he declares will serve to make Paris equal to New York, London and Berlin in the provision of public gardens.

The first thing to be done, according to M. Delanney, is to relieve the terrible congestion of Paris by pulling down all blocks of houses in the central quarters around the St. Lazare Railroad depot, the Halles, Le Temple quarter, in the streets like the Faubourg St. Honoré, the Faubourg Montmartre, the Rue St. Denis, the Rue de Richelieu, the Rue de Clichy and the Rue Faguard.

But the most interesting feature of the Prefect's plan is the suggestion that all the suburbs around Paris be linked up by a chain of broad avenues and pleasure gardens which would follow the circle of twenty forts just outside the city—fifty acres over and above the 100 acres of park, football and recreation ground.

The demolition of these fortifications, which have been regarded as a means of stifling Paris, will give M. Delanney further scope for providing "lungs" and in the place of the useless walls there will be a ring of gardens, squares and parks.

The extension, when complete, will enrich Paris with approximately 10,000 acres over and above the 100 acres of woodland existing in the suburbs, 500 acres of promenade within the city and 350 acres of gardens.

FRENCH REFUSE TO SHOW BOOKS.

Demand of American Agents Raises a Storm.

Merchants Declare Its Purpose Most Insulting.

Clause in New Tariff Law Causes the Difficulty.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—A storm of indignation has been raised by the demand, under paragraph U of the new tariff bill, that treasury agents of the United States be allowed to examine the books of French importers. Thus far the Foreign Office has refused to the United States this privilege. Other objections to the new American tariff seem susceptible of adjustment, but it is said that on this point the French government will not yield.

The French press declares that the demand is an insult. It assumes, they say, that the French exporters are committing frauds. That a foreign government should ask for its representatives the right to enter French business houses and demand to see the books, assuming that the firm has committed perjury in declaring invoices before an American consular officer, is abhorrent to French ideas.

In this connection the French press recalls the Limoges affair of 1911. At that time the United States Treasury Department sent three agents to inquire into the cost of producing porcelain. The American commission was properly introduced to the French Minister of Commerce, at whose request the Limoges manufacturers opened their books to the investigators. Afterward the Foreign Office complained to the United States government that the treasury agents had violated the agreement that the information thus obtained was to be held in strict confidence.

Should a tariff war result from this situation, it is pointed out that the French people would be the losers. Three-quarters of the imports from America are raw materials, cotton, copper, petroleum, tobacco and hides, which France must have, while the exports to America are almost altogether of manufactured goods, of which the Americans may do without, or for which they can obtain substitutes from other European countries.

A NEW PARIS.

M. Delanney, Prefect of the Seine, has submitted to the Paris Municipal Council a scheme for the creation of a "Greater Paris." The magnitude of M. Delanney's proposal may be judged from the fact that Paris as he has planned it will be more than six times as large as the present city.

The scheme includes a number of novelties, notably that no house should be higher than the broad of the street in front, or the courtyard behind it. The plan provides for the widening of 215 miles of existing roads, and the creation of fifty miles of new ones. The new Paris will extend some four miles in all directions beyond its present boundaries.

The present ring of fortifications, which encircle the city, is to be demolished, and the greater part of the land thus vacated turned into public gardens. In addition to these it is proposed to create two immense new parks on the north and south sides of Paris, totaling some 640 acres. A number of plots of land in the center of Paris belonging to the state also would be cleared of buildings and turned into public gardens. Paris is at present in respect to parks and open spaces, and is the most overcrowded of modern capitals. It is inhabited by 145 persons to the acre, compared with only 64 in London.

LOWERS BIRTH RATE.

A teacher in the South Pacific and a great favorite at the Hivo-va Passion Play. She is described as a half-caste miss and immensely popular with all who know her.

GENEVA, Nov. 8.—A Swiss workman, disappointed at losing his last train home from Locle, near Neuchâtel, attempted in the early hours of the morning, to run himself home in a long passenger train which he saw at the depot. The train was to have started a few hours later, and the workman had his fire banked and steam up.

The workman jumped into the locomotive and pulled every lever he could find, hoping to start the train. He was aware that the steam began hissing out in clouds, and the whistle blew, waking all the employees, who, thinking an accident had occurred, rushed to the scene. There they found the workman, who was handed over to the police.

The man had not touched the main lever, and the train would have never got into a steam.

man. The judge decided that the sculpture was indeed that of M. Montpeller's former sweetheart, and that the wife's anger and her subsequent actions were justified. It was also shown that M. Montpeller had deceived his wife by telling her that the statue only represented the "unmeriting of the republic."

These facts, added to the assault, induced the judge to pronounce a decree nisi for Mme. Montpeller, and he gave a new peril for French artists who are married.

Some despair of any possibility of improvement in the situation, and

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS TO FLUSH THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS.

Advices folks to overcome Kidney and Bladder trouble while it is only trouble.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backaches and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it is no longer irritating, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease. Agents, Sun Drug Co.

Between this vivid act and the next some three years intervene. The curtain goes up on the scene of another battle, and the scene is the home of the general and the wife that he bought with another man's blood. Their child suddenly drops, and while the general fights with the foe the mother keeps a silent and desperate vigil.

Before leaving for the encounter on the field the general knows full well that a dead man's fingers are closing on his baby's throat, and that the very love affair with a married woman, the purest of all things, is pure, and so one must conclude that Alfred Suro is a desperate and blessedly innocent when he thus avoided the obvious. I do not regret his having been artistic, for I do think he might have been a trifle more interesting.

Suro has done much better with "The Man in the Saddle." This, too, is in only one act, and is for but three people. If the people were good enough they might make it an interesting playlet, at that. The husband is a classic founded upon another classic, which one may be prostrated and then lifted up. Indeed it amounts to losing life that it may be found again, as the husband and wife are led to do in Ibsen's "Little Eyolf."

Phillips' "Paola and Francesca" is better known. I think it less vivid as a drama and greater as a poem than "The Sin of David." It is more beautiful to read, but might be less convincing upon the stage. It is a classic founded upon another classic, and in it the soul of Dante goes stalking through the lines of a twentieth century fellow of his name.

The theme suffers in nothing, and the story is told with compelling ardor. The time is that of an early day in England. Paola is a younger brother of the stern English feudal lord who craves to his young wife whose heart has hungered for romance, and who has lived until then within forbidding convent walls. Paola is sent to fetch her for the marriage, and the two are lovers at sight. It is against the will of both that the precious, pent-up springs of affection within them break forth like a wild thing for their undoing. The wronged husband is forgotten by neither. They are simply powerless before that which drives them on. Both war and death by poison Paola seeks, rather than dishonor his brother, but his love holds him back. He is dated with relief that the sorry little episode has been only a jest. This, at least, is a new angle to the triangle, and that is something we seldom meet.

She is a cold woman and therefore clever. Perhaps it was enough to say that she was a woman and therefore more than a match for any man. When she comes down with a little bag of clothing and sits down to sign the confession, which her husband has prepared, she bursts into a fit of laughter in which her lover heartily joins. They call the husband a dear old goose, and laugh at the way he has accepted their silly plan. Their acting is so good that he is taken in by it, and is dated with relief that the sorry little episode has been only a jest. This, at least, is a new angle to the triangle, and that is something we seldom meet.

The former is merely a pretty one-act dialogue between a man and a woman. Both characters are clever and clean. She is the wife of a young English lord, who has nothing better to do in life than to hunt and golf, and who bores her inexpressibly. While the husband is peacefully, if un-musically snoring, her ladyship comes down into the drawing-room and is much surprised to meet the guest of her house, a young nobleman who has been her husband's college chum and life-long friend. He tells her that he is leaving before breakfast and she demands to know why. She smokes two cigarettes while she cleverly extracts a confession of his love. This she has meant to do from the first, and it is exactly what he did not mean to permit. While loving her ardently, he is loyal to his friend, and while loving him just as much, she intends that he shall keep her ideals.

They have a pretty hour of it in a nice cold way, which leaves one glad to see the play. The husband is a young man of the name of Suro, and good. At the same time one wonders that they ever confessed their Arctic love and one is quite surprised to see the husband's friend, who has been a cadaverous at such a harmless party. Really, he has been too indiscreet in daring to report the conversation.

Besides, it strains our credulity to have this so-called-and-yet-so-far business produced into a perfectly proper love affair with a married woman. To the pure all things are pure, and so one must conclude that Alfred Suro is a desperate and blessedly innocent when he thus avoided the obvious. I do not regret his having been artistic, for I do think he might have been a trifle more interesting.

SOCIETY.

week was the informal tea given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. William Knox Beane in honor of her daughter, Miss Mildred Beane. A yellow color scheme prevailed in the decorations and refreshments. Miss Florence Carter, Miss Hannah Moore Furst and Miss Florence Gates assisted the hostess in receiving.

Arrangements have been completed for a large dancing party to be given at Hotel Vendome Thanksgiving night by San Jose society. The chief object of the affair is to introduce the new dances now in vogue in the city. The patronesses include Mrs. Samuel P. Leib, Mrs. R. T. Pierce, Mrs. Paul Furst, Mrs. Nicholas Bowden, Mrs. William Knox Beane, Mrs. K. H. Paite, Mrs. Peter Dunne, Mrs. Joseph Rucker and Mrs. Lawrence Haven.

Mrs. Barnhill was hostess at a series of two teas given on Wednesday and Friday afternoons at her home in Willow street. The affairs were in honor of Mrs. Forrest Fisher of Portland, Ore., who is Mrs. Barnhill's guest. Both affairs were very informal, the guests being limited to the guests of honor's friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marten, who were recently married in Spokane, have returned from an extended wedding trip through the East. Mrs. Marten's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Marten of the Alameda, Mrs. K. H. Paite, Mrs. Peter Dunne, Mrs. Joseph Rucker and Mrs. Lawrence Haven.

Woman's danger period From 45 to 50

This is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form, and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation from hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are all just so many calls from nature for help. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of women's system at this trying period of her life. No other medicine is so universally successful, and so favorably known. It invigorates and strengthens the organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

Interesting Experience of Two Women.

ASHEVILLE, N.C.—"I suffered for years while going through the Change of Life. I tried a local physician for a couple of years without any substantial benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I quit my physician and commenced using it with the happiest results. I am today practically a well woman and anxious to contribute my mite towards inducing others to try your good medicine, as I am fully persuaded that it will cure the ailments from which I suffered if given a fair chance. If you think this letter will contribute anything toward further introducing your medicines to afflicted women who are passing through this trying period, it is with great pleasure I consent to its publication."—Mrs. JULIA A. MOORE, 17 East St., Asheville, N.C.

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO—"I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it and it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life."—Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 358 West Mill Street, Circleville, Ohio.

A HANDSOME REWARD WILL BE GIVEN

to any person who will prove that any of our testimonial letters constantly being published in the daily newspapers are not genuine and truthful, or that any of these women were paid in any way to give their testimonials or that the letters were published without their permission or that all the original letters did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S CLASSIC MODERN DEPOT FOR LOS ANGELES.

SURE GO AND MUST BE READY FOR TRAIN RUSH IN A YEAR.

Contract About to Be Signed for Building Six Hundred Feet Long, a Credit to City and Railroad, Costly Work, Great Changes.

WITHIN TEN DAYS, unless present plans go awry, a contract will be signed by the Southern Pacific and the Alta Planing Mill Company which will assure the construction by the latter for the former of a new passenger station, replacing the unsightly and inadequate old Arcade, and affording facilities ample for a city of 1,500,000 population. With the contingent terminal layout, New Year's day of 1915—on which date the new station will probably be thrown open to traffic—will have seen the expenditure of something like $1,315,000 by the Southern Pacific for passenger terminal work.

No exact date can be set for the signing of the building contract, for the reason that no final agreement can be entered into until the city grants the needed franchises for access tracks and the State Railroad Commission approves the plans. The City Attorney is about ready with the franchise, however, while the Railroad Commission gave its assurance last week that a decision on the plans will be handed down almost immediately, so the matter is considered settled.

The total appropriation by the Southern Pacific for the work is $615,000. Of this amount $350,000 will be expended on the building and its embellishment; the remainder, amounting to $265,000, on the track and terminal layout. In addition, a fact which has been more or less in obscurity throughout the whole depot imbroglio, the Southern Pacific, within four years, has expended $700,000 for the additional land which makes it possible to front the new depot on Central avenue. A large part of this was spent in securing 950 feet of property fronting Central avenue, a portion of which came at $750 a front foot, or better.

side of Central for the loading and unloading of passengers. From this circle the cars will be returned by a switch-back to Central avenue. Negotiations are also under way, the outcome of which will probably be the location of a large building at Central avenue and Sixth street for a housing of the "local" or depot station of Wells Fargo & Company. In this way, the express company will be given an advantageous situation and will contribute to make the terminal facilities of a standard pleasing to the traveling and shipping public.

For the accommodation of those who have opposed the closing of Central avenue on the score that they will thereby be forced to cross a network of tracks of Fourth street in order to reach the industrial district beyond Alameda street, a 400-foot viaduct from Central avenue to Alameda street, about on the north line of the avenue, has been lately worked into the plans. Access to this viaduct, which will swing well above the tracks, will be through a door to the north of the public concourse, then up a flight of stairs or by elevator to a corridor, and thence across onto the viaduct. Steps will lead down from this viaduct, which will be of light steel construction, to the street level in the rear of the station, while two downward flights will lead to Alameda street.

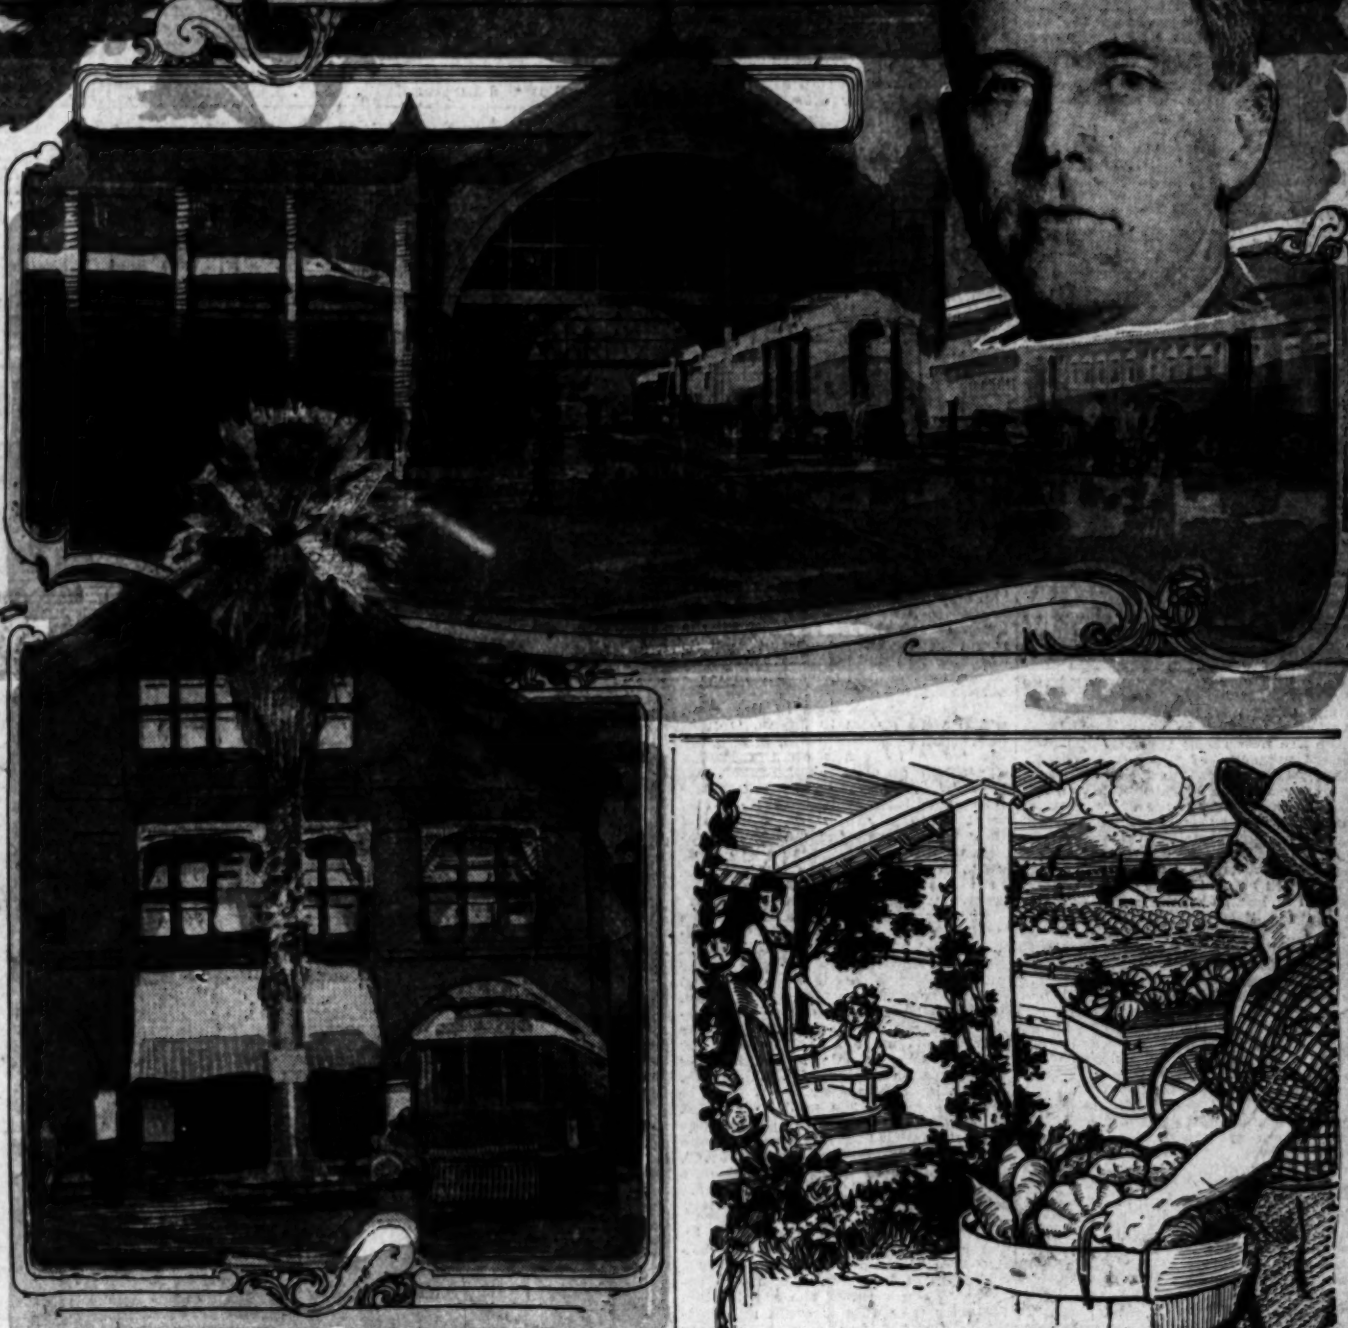

USE ARCADE TEMPORARILY.

Quite naturally the old Arcade will be used throughout the construction of the new station. Even the greatest width of the new station, eighty feet, and the twenty feet that will separate it from the depot and yards will cover the old station. The new station, will leave a rather commodious passageway in front of the old Arcade. It will be along this that passengers will reach the old station and provisions will be made so that street cars will stop in such locations that the old station may be easily reached. The changes in terminal layout will be carried along simultaneously with the erection of the new depot and the loose ends will be gathered up following its occupancy and the rule of the Arcade. Among these will be the laying of additional tracks on the present station site.

Of classic design, the station building proper and its approaches will occupy an area of 110 by 600 feet, while the depot and yards will cover fifteen acres. The station will be a through station, that is, trains will arrive from the station and depart the other, with fourteen tracks, or double the present number, each designed to hold fifteen passenger-cars and two locomotives. Umbrella sheds will cover the area between each pair of tracks.

SUBWAY TO TRAINS.

Access to the trains will be gained by means of a subway running under the main passenger tracks and connected with each platform by an incline on an easy grade. This subway opens into a public exit concourse fifty by seventy feet in area. Adjacent to this will be the main concourse and waiting-room, eighty by 210 feet, reached by four main entrances from Central avenue. Mezzanine floors provided with lounging chairs, writing tables, and current magazines will be located at either end of the main concourse. Other facilities, including information bureau, baggage and checkrooms, and news stand, will be provided. The ticket office will front Central avenue on the line of Fifth street.

The handsome new and the ugly old. Above is a picture of the station to be built at once, and below end and front (main entrance) views of the quarter-century old which it will replace. The venerable palm in the foreground will be transplanted on the railroad grounds and preserved. The portrait is of District Engineer H. B. Titcomb of the Southern Pacific, who will direct construction.

The south wing will house the dining-room, kitchen, and lunch counter, a space seventy by eighty feet being given over to their use. Beyond will be the parking space, paved, for automobiles and hotel buses. The Pacific Electric is to enter the station grounds on the Central-avenue side of this parking space.

The north wing, 225 by seventy feet in area, will be given up throughout both stories, to the baggage department. Service between the two floors will be by large freight elevators.

The second floor space of the south wing, comprising upward of 25,000 square feet, will be given over to the division offices, which will be for the first time assembled under one roof.

CLASSIC THROUGHOUT.

As for material, a brick which gives the effect of concrete will be used for outward facing. The central or concourse structure will be of class A construction, fifty feet in height. Red tile roofs will give a touch of color to the building, though the purpose throughout is to carry the classic idea even to chasteness in appearance. Within marble wainscoting will be used, while the floors will be of mosaic tile. An indirect lighting system will be installed.

Not the least interesting feature in connection with the work is that the completed terminals will represent the efforts throughout of Los Angeles men. The general plan for the terminals was evolved in the office of District Engineer Titcomb; the architects of the building are Parkinson and Bergstrom; the erection work will be performed by artisans and laborers hired here by the Alta Planing Mill Company. Naturally the labor cost alone on work which will represent the expenditure of $615,000 will be large.

As for the Central-avenue facilities, a fourteen-foot sidewalk will flank the station, while a refuge-platform will be provided just to the south.

Regarding the time that will be actually required for construction work, District Engineer Titcomb, who will direct operations, stated yesterday that 260 working days will be allowed from the time the contract is let to actual occupancy of the station. President Sprule supplemented this by stating that the station must be ready for 1915.

An interesting feature in connection with the early starting of work on the new station is that the Arcade was occupied twenty-five years ago this month. It is understood in Southern Pacific circles that it cost in the neighborhood of $119,000. The palm in front of the station is even older, though it does not look it, than the station. It will be transplanted on the grounds.

San Vicente-Santa Monica Topography
Rivets that of the RIVIERA

SANTA MONICA'S RUGGED SHORE LINE.

BIARRITZ - FAMOUS EUROPEAN RESORT -

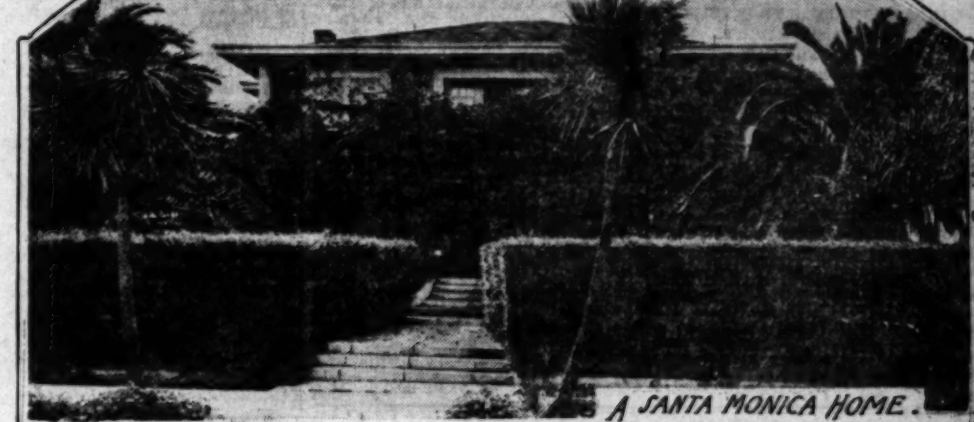

Events during the past year mark the beginning of a period of development activity for the San Vicente-Santa Monica section, the wide scope and future effect of which cannot be comprehended at the present time.

Los Angeles with its crushing tidal wave of subdivision development and building activity presents a very significant sign. More people or either buying or starting to become owners of their own homes in Los Angeles and vicinity than in any other city or section, in proportion to the population. There is something in the air and climate which produces an all pervading desire to own a home with grounds of fair size and revel in the luxurious freedom of life close to nature.

In a region where everything seems an invitation to stay out of doors, where abounding health is the rule and where the area fit for development and home building is so accessible, the wonder is that even a few will confine themselves to city life.

Hundreds of Americans journey yearly to the Mediterranean resorts along the coasts of France, Italy and Spain. They see beautiful localities with artistic landscape effects which appeal to them beyond measure. After a visit to San Vicente-Santa Monica where the balmy breezes blow throughout the year and the natural contour of the land is even superior to the far famed Riviera, their yearly pilgrimage takes on a different aspect. More and more converts are being made to the belief that here in Southern California is a year-round resort destined to be known far and wide.

A birdseye view of San Vicente-Santa Monica would be a revelation to many old inhabitants of Los Angeles. There are large numbers in this immediate vicinity who are almost as unfamiliar with their own Riviera as with its European prototype. The handsome homes in San Vicente-Santa Monica are typically south of Europe in architecture and coloring. Of simple lines, with tile roofs and beautiful kept lawns, the sparkling ocean in the foreground and purple mountains and canyons in a great semi-circle in the background—the whole effect is of contrast and vividness, reminding travelers of the sunny skies and shining sands along the shores of the Mediterranean.

Next to an airship flight over the rolling foothills, the picturesque Palisades and the beaches with their numerous attractions, is an auto trip over the many fine boulevards leading to the San Vicente-Santa Monica district. The Wilshire boulevard section has long been known as the high-class residential section of Los Angeles. The autoist will find that San Vicente boulevard, that beautiful winding thoroughfare having both a double track electric railway and a macadamized county boulevard, is really a continuation of Wilshire and in only a few years building and developing will close up the gap and make Los Angeles solid to the sea.

points are especially taken with the overwhelming wish to obtain a home-site in this choice region where almost invariable sunshine, perfect drainage and magnificent view provide such ideal surroundings.

Signs of development are visible on all sides. Whispers of vast projects to benefit this region are in the air. Capital is ready to step in and create a resort here which will have no equal. Investors and home-seekers, realizing that there is little of this property on the semi-foothills near the sea, are rapidly acquiring lots, half-acres and estates of varying size where homes can be built along distinctive lines with lawns and gardens which landscape gardeners and artists would approve.

Magnificent improvements and wise restrictions are providing here a suburban residence section equal to the best in any of the large eastern cities. What the North Shore is to Chicago and Riverside Drive to New York, the San Vicente-Santa Monica section will be to Los Angeles. With its many added advantages of climate and view, its proximity to so many open air pleasures as well as to city life and advantages, San Vicente-Santa Monica is plainly destined to be the home of a discriminating and well-to-do class of people.

The city of Santa Monica has made a wonderful record during the past few years. Its many elegant homes and fine mercantile and financial institutions mark its progressive spirit. Its educational facilities are especially satisfactory. Many tracts in the environs of Santa Monica have been offered to investors and in a brief period of time after their first opening they have been sold out. When capital realizes the possibilities of a city, its future is assured. The San Vicente boulevard section is the cream of all Santa Monica. Many new subdivisions facing this wide thoroughfare have been opened and the majority of the buyers intend to place their homes here.

Antelope are enjoying rides through historic Santa Monica Canyon since it was improved. Many people have been taken by the beauties of Brentwood Place and Gillette's Regent Square. These fine home-site subdivisions have moved rapidly under the sales management of the L. D. Loomis Co., in fact, the sales have reached stupendous figures.

BIG PROFIT ON SITE.

Whittier Business Lot Sold at Large Advance Over Price Paid for It Two Months Ago.
WHITTIER, Nov. 22.—An exchange of business property was made this week in which John Gales acquired from Jacob Bickel a fifty-foot lot on South Greenleaf avenue, close to the center of the business section. The price of the lot is announced as $7000. Bickel had purchased the site a couple of months ago at $2000. The acquisition of this lot by Gales gives him a total frontage of 100 feet in this fine location.

Another deal in dirt just announced is the purchase of the full-bearing, ten-acre walnut grove of C. A. Landreth by Walter J. Wildman for a considerable sum of $11,000. The grove is one of the best-known in the Whittier district.

The new business block of J. Howard Johnson on North Greenleaf avenue, now nearing completion, will be one of the ornate and substantial improvements on that rapidly developing thoroughfare. While the present structure is only one story high, the foundation is of sufficient strength for the addition of other stories as needed.

The building has a frontage of fifty feet, and a depth of seventy feet, and is divided into three rooms. The front of the structure is of white pressed brick.

W. P. Whitsett, handling Van Nuy's lots and acreage, reports the following sales during the past ten days in the lively San Fernando Valley community. In Van Nuy's townsite, Edith Crosby, one lot, $450; Mary Baldwin, six lots, $2500; and Mrs. L. V. Fowler, three lots, $1350.

In North Van Nuy's acreage, reports the following sales during the past ten days: John W. McElroy, two and one-half acres, $1000; S. Elliott Woods, five acres, $1000; J. A. McAdam, two and one-half acres, $1875; A. Stark, two acres, $1400; Carl Soderberg, five acres, $2251; Ida Soderberg, three and one-half acres, $1400; Minnie L. Hufford, seven acres, $2463; and Gus Mosberg, two and one-half acres, $1875.

Practically all of these acreage buyers, it is stated, intend to build at once on their property.

SEAL BEACH, Nov. 22.—A land dredger, one of the first ever used in Southern California, started this week at Seal Beach and is rapidly grading from the map of that place the sand dunes that have been piled up by the action of the sea for the past twenty-five years. A large electric pump is in operation and the sand is being pumped through the town and across the railroad track, where it is being used to fill in swales and low places. All of the property of the new addition is to be brought up to grade preparatory to the installation of cement curbs, sidewalks, water pipes, parking and ornamental shade trees. The Guy M. Rush Company, which is handling Seal Beach property, reports that this work is preliminary to the improvement of the beach front where a twenty-foot, and possibly a seventy-foot cement bulkhead and promenade are to take the place of the sand dunes.

SYNDICATE BUYS LOTS.
WEST NEWPORT, Nov. 22.—Among the buyers of the past week this place was C. F. Cook of Hollywood, who purchased two slightly lots on the heights, on which he intends to build a handsome villa home. S. L. Porter of Pasadena is having plans drawn for a six-room bungalow to be built on his recent purchase overlooking the bay. A syndicate, recently formed, has purchased from the Dam-Russell Company twenty-five lots on Newport Heights which they intend to develop in the immediate future. Other purchasers were Lucius Colburn, Mrs. Nora E. Jewett, Miss Catherine Tobie, Mrs. E. M. Banks, Mrs. Allen Gilmore and the Rev. John Oliver of Ontario. These buyers bought in all eight lots.

FOOTHILL SALES.
L. A. McCray reports the following sales in his Roseland acre tract in the foothills of Hollywood: Eight acres to Fred E. Engstrom, who has already begun the construction of a fine home; two acres to Louis C. Hill, who has started a ten-room house; three acres to E. A. McCray, and two acres to Dr. B. A. McBurney of Chicago.

APARTMENT LEASES.

Brokers Report Transfers of Four Properties to New Tenants—Furnishings Sold With Houses.
F. B. Hopkins and C. B. Widner report the following sales: The Bergen apartments, No. 1223 South Main street, from Allen C. Kelley, to H. T. Weaver and wife, consideration of $7500, for furniture and of $5000 for unexpired term of lease.

The Arlington Grand apartments, No. 2421 South Grand avenue, from C. H. Morris to A. D. Sandell, consideration of $10,000 for furniture, and of $1500 for unexpired term of lease. Apartment-house at No. 434 Lake street, from Mrs. A. McCusker to M. L. Barnes, $2500 for furniture, and of $1500 for lease.

Apartment-house at No. 706 California street, from C. W. Kelley to Ira H. Stubbs, $2500 for furnishings and of $500 for lease.

ADD DEPARTMENT.
Rule & Sons, Inc., one of the large insurance agencies in Los Angeles, has been acquired by Robert Marsh & Co., and is now a department of that company. The Marsh-Stronach building at Ninth and Spring and Main streets, O. Rey Rule will continue to act as head of the agency as manager of the insurance department of the Marsh company. Rule & Sons was established seven years ago by Berd K. Rule, now deceased, who was one of the city's active business men, having served as president of the Chamber of Commerce.

TO SEVEN BUILDERS.
The James Investment Company reports sales in the Huntington boulevard district to the following buyers: Mary M. Earhart, lot, $800; lot on Fairview street, Miriam Wendle, $250; lot on Francis street and lot on Edna street, Harold Stamford, $700; V. G. Woodman, lot, $700; John Edmondson, lot, $700; Leonard A. Lewis, lot, $700; and C. L. Lobb, lot, $700. Several of the purchasers, it is announced, plan to build at once.

OFFICIALLY ON MAP.
Tickets have been ordered printed by the Pacific Electric Railway for Culver City and that thriving new townsite is, therefore, now officially on the map. All local cars of the Pacific Electric on the Venice Short Line, Santa Monica and the Del Rey line now stop at the new seaward way.

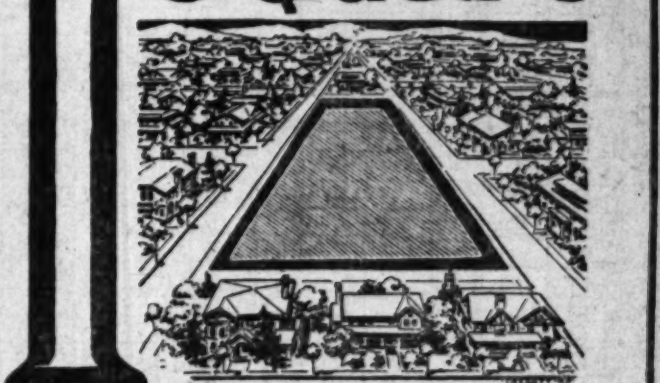

Work on the boulevards and streets in Culver City is nearing completion and many improvements are under way.

HOLLYWOOD TRANSFERS.
Rank & Rodgers report recent sales in Hollywood as follows: Nine-room house on Grand drive to Dr. George F. Johnson of Moline, Ill.; lot on Russell avenue to William T. Hubbard; lot on North Cahuenga avenue to C. E. Turner, formerly of Milwaukee; lot on Martel avenue to Mrs. Rose Wilson, formerly of Ft. Wayne, and bungalow on North Tamarind avenue to Gilbert H. Heesmyer.

INNER HARBOR SALES.
Koster & Parker report inner harbor section sales in the district bounded by Third, P and D streets, as follows: To Charles H. Porter, one-fourth of a block, $9000; Clara M. Darlington, corner, 80x114 feet in size, $2000; R. B. Butler, 20x100 feet, $1000; exception of two lots, $45,000; Mariana D. Maxwell, alley corner, 80x115 feet, $4200; Harry Baldwin, 40x115 feet, $2250; Follows & Cushman, one-fourth of a block, $15,000; and L. A. Stahl, 40x115 feet, $1500.

OVERLY CONSERVATIVE?
Architects and Engineers Often Hesitate to Try Out New Materials and Ideas for First Time.

For Commanding Hilltop Site.

Residence of H. N. Mabery, Mabery Heights, Needham &amp; Cline, architects.

OVERLOOKING PARKWAY.

Owner of Mabery Heights Building Fine Chalet Home on Commanding Site in Northwest Hill Tract.

The twentieth house to be started in the slightly Mabery Heights tract on Sunset boulevard is a California chalet that is being built by H. N. Mabery, owner and subdivisor of the northwest hill subdivision, for his own occupancy. The dwelling, planned by Needham & Cline, has for its site a large lot on one of the commanding hillside slopes of the tract. It will have a magnificent view of Sunset boulevard and of Silver Lake Parkway, the right of way for which skiffs Mabery Heights on the east.

The house has been designed to suit its setting and will have many distinctive features. The garage will be excavated into the hillside. The grounds are to be artistically landscaped.

The exterior of the dwelling will be of natural redwood, finished with shakes and stucco. There will be ten rooms, with five porches and three baths. The floors will be of hardwood throughout. A large tile mantel will be an attractive feature.

CASH AND EXCHANGE.

Hollywood Apartment-House Transferred to New Ownership—Average and City Lots Involved in Trade.

Koster & Parker report the sale of the Vine apartments in Hollywood for Sadie E. Winslow to W. S. Helmsman and T. A. Rippey. The place is a thirty-five-room structure occupying a lot 80x200 feet in size, and is situated on the east side of Vine street just north of Hollywood boulevard. The furnishings were included in the transaction and the house will be run by the owners. The consideration is given at $20,000. As part payment Miss Winslow took title to 180 acres of land at Pedley station and a lot 131x125 feet in size at the southwest corner of Ninth street and Kingsley drive, this city.

The same firm reports the sale for Sadie E. Winslow of eighty acres of land just south of the town of Thermal, J. S. and Evelyn E. Bacon being the buyers and the price is given at $4000. The firm also reports the sale of a seven-room house at No. 1870 Park Grove avenue, the lot being 50x125 feet in size, for Arthur L. Hutchinson, to Carl Oswald Blener, who paid $2200 for the place. The sale for $4000 of property at No. 1348 Channing street, comprising a lot 40x120 feet in size, improved with bungalows, to Sadie E. Winslow, is also announced. A lot at Seal Beach was sold to the same buyer.

REALTY MORE ACTIVE.

Building and Market Outlook Reported Excellent in South Pasadena. Ground Broken for Apartments.

SOUTH PASADENA, Nov. 22.—That real estate is becoming more active, that building is progressing on a satisfactory scale, and that the general outlook is for a good winter, is the report of a number of realty men, who also state that inquiries are becoming more numerous for houses. The largest sale reported this week was that of a business building known as the Taylor block, and located on Mission street, between Fremont and Fairview avenues. The building is a two-story brick structure and is occupied by the South Pasadena Pharmacy. The seller was John White of Glendora, and the buyer, H. P. Oates of Los Angeles. The consideration is not named.

Gilbert & Co. report the sale for M. E. Albbe of Wisconsin, to T. L. Spelman of San Diego, 50x145 feet, on Cawston street, between El Centro and Railroad, in the Lincoln Park section, the consideration being given at $850. The property is to be improved with a six-room bungalow.

In keeping with his pre-election promise, Jonathan S. Dodge has broken ground on his double lot at Bank street and Fremont avenue for the erection of a large apartment-house. There will be three buildings, forming a court, the architecture to be of mission style. The construction work will be started so soon as possible.

Paul Mahorney is building a ten-room flat at No. 715 Mission street. The property will have all modern conveniences, and will contain three apartments.

SURVEYS COMPLETED.

Preliminary surveys have been completed for the subdivision of a portion of a tract of 465 acres just north of La Jolla, recently purchased from the Richards estate of San Diego by a syndicate represented by

is not recognized. A Grievance Committee has been selected. The strikers got back their former positions, except the men who came to the city and got employment on the cars for the sole purpose of inaugurating the strike. The settlement agreement is to run for three years.

Richmond, Ind., has a street car strike, following the organization of a union. The men want 18 to 22 cents an hour (according to years of service.) The same as is paid on the rest of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern street car system. In Richmond the tie-up is complete. The butchers of New York have decided not to strike as the employers are said to be ready to grant the increase of wages "demanded." Why is it that union labor is always so tyrannical, demanding, not asking? "Demanding" prejudices their case always. They should use more justice and less violence. Argument and diplomacy wins far more victories than force. The butchers' idea and purpose was a general strike for one year.

The striking taxi drivers of New York have voted to compromise on an eleven-hour day. They have been working twelve hours and demanded a day of ten hours, with the same pay. About 2000 men are affected. The Indian (Hindoo) miners in the Natal (Africa) coal fields, are on strike for less work and more wages. In spite of their signed indentures of hiring, Union labor breaks its agreements quite readily.

Five hundred Milwaukee shoemakers have struck for more wages and more time to wash up after work. They also want to be paid on Wednesday before closing time.

Dynamite is being used by the Michigan copper strikers for blowing up the boarding-houses of the mine guards. MacNamara-Ryanism is not yet dead. Clarence Darrow may again be called upon to do some more dynamite defending (so-called.) That will be another chance for decent union labor to waste its wages money at the call of Gomers. On his side they did waste $250,000 of it in the MacNamara case, to the benefit of Darrow, Harriman, Scott & Co.

LEASE ENTIRE BLOCK.

Large Wholesale Electrical Supply Company to Occupy Los Angeles Street Building for Ten-Year Term.

One of the most important deals concluded in the wholesale district this year has just been closed through the agency of Richard C. Willis of the leasing department of the W. Ross Campbell Company. The Pacific Electric Company, a corporation nationally known, has leased the entire four-story and basement building at Nos. 236-24 South Los Angeles street. The building is owned by the Commonwealth Company, principally composed of heirs of the late C. B. Booth.

The firm will occupy the entire premises, comprising about 50,000 square feet of floor space. The company operates in all the larger cities of the Coast, and has large establishments in San Francisco, Portland and Seattle. In the new local quarters the company will have practically double the space of its present Los Angeles branch.

Willis reports the leasing consideration at $75,000 for a term of ten years.

MR. TWEE DEEDLE.

1—"Hello!" said Mr. Twee Deedle one day, as he came upon Dickie under the weeping willow tree. "Why did you bring your umbrella with you on such a beautiful, sunshiny day?" "I thought maybe we could use it for a tent and have some fun!" Dickie replied.

2—Just as Dickie answered, he and Twee Deedle heard a loud sob and turned to see the old willow tree with wrinkled face beginning to weep.

3—"Dear me!" exclaimed Dickie, "Why do you cry?" but the old weeping willow wrinkled his face more and the tears fell from his branches.

4—The weeping willow wept in such quantities that Dickie had to raise his umbrella and the sun shining through the willow's tears made a beautiful rainbow. "I've had such a pain in my stomach!" the old tree wept, "and I do not know what is the matter!"

5—"Perhaps he means there is something in that hole which bothers him," suggested Dickie as he reached his arm into the hole in the trunk of the tree.

6—"Dickie pulled out a chipmunk. 'Shame on you,' he said, 'to make the poor old tree cry like he does.' 'I did not know that I was making him cry,' the chipmunk answered.

7—Then Dickie reached in the hole again and pulled out three green apples. "No wonder!" he exclaimed, "that the poor old tree wept so hard; he had the stomach ache from the green apples." So Mr. Twee Deedle plastered up the hole with magic plaster and they left the old tree with his face wreathed in smiles.

8—Then Mr. Twee Deedle and Dickie took the chipmunk and his three apples to an old oak tree who didn't mind having chipmunks living in his trunk, and the chipmunk was very glad to get such a nice warm home and the acorns so handy that he would have no trouble in laying up his winter supply.

MAZIE THE MOTOR MAID

Verses by Paul West ☒ Illustrations by J. Norman Lynd

- 1—THANKSGIVING DAY with Mazie was a family affair,
Which meant a trip to Grandpa's and an old-time dinner there.
With kith and kindred by the score whose names she never knew,
And wouldn't meet the whole year long (and never wanted to!)
- 2—Said Pa and Ma:—"It is a pest, but still we have to go!"
So Mazie brought her car around with spirits rather low;
But as they whizzed along the roads, all in the crispy air,
She almost felt elated by the time they'd motored there.
- 3—"A Happy, Bright Thanksgiving!" Mazie cried, as in she went;
But Grandpa seemed to have a grouch, expressing discontent
With everything in general, while Grandma, too, was sad,
And all the Aunts and Uncles moaned about the year they'd had!
- 4—When dinner came, all round the board their hard-luck stories flew.
Instead of gay and jolly, why the feast more doleful grew, Till Mazie cried:—"For goodness' sake! what thankless things you are!
You need a spin to cheer you up! Come on! My motor car!"
- 5—She picked out Uncle Zebulon, Grandpa and Grandma, too, Aunt Phoebe with the mournful face, sour-visaged Cousin Sue—
All those who seemed most thankless and most eager to complain.
"They'll all give thanks," thought Mazie, "e'er I bring them back again!"

Off through the brisk November air she whizzed her gloomy kin,
But though she tried to cheer them up she couldn't raise a grin.
"Laugh! Laugh!" she cried, "Give thanks for life!" But Grandpa voiced the cry:
Wide—"What's the use o' givin' thanks when everything looks blue!"

"Ungrateful ones!" cried Mazie, as she gave a scornful sniff,
And gave the wheel a careless turn—a whench! a crash, and biff!
Over they went! On every side the grouchy family flew,
And landed in the road unhurt, but mad, yes mad clear through!

"You wretch!" they howled at Mazie. "You and all your motor cars!
That we're not killed and smashed to bits we thank our lucky stars!"
Then out she took her little book, and wrote, her laughs to smother—
"WE ALL HAVE CAUSE FOR THANKS TO-DAY FOR ONE THING OR ANOTHER!"

AM writing to you about a matter on which I sorely need advice. I am a woman with a talent and it is the greatest trouble I have. I have married my future husband and of it-I compose music and play piano—but now it seems to bore him. I don't see I neglect my home, but of course I have a duty towards my God-given talent and that this comes first. I don't like him to be a husband and a composer, but the reputation it wins me, and I can see he is not pleased when I spend hours a day at my practicing, and he is bored when I talk of my work my success. I feel it would be a sin to neglect my God-given talent, and to bring peace into the family. Won't you advise me? THE MUSICAL.

does not yearn to know how she has progressed with the story she is writing, what difficulties she has met in finishing the portrait she is painting, or the bust she is modeling, how she has practiced her playing, singing or so many hours with such and such results.

BILL does desire to be called upon to admire the work of her hands and brain, to listen to her story, to look after painting or modeling, to submit to her performance of the latest piece of music she has learned to command. He is a stolid and worried about business, and the thing he needs in a wife is a woman that is a poetess.

This masculine attitude is naturally intensified if the wife's attention to the world is so much more than his, and her care for her husband's comfort. With all the sympathy that one woman can feel for another, there is not a wife among us who will not admit that it is pretty hard on one to come home from work to an ill-lit house which has been neglected while the husband should have been housekeeper has been writing, or painting, or "sewing," or playing, or singing. I think you will all agree with me in the statement that if she is not a fool, she is a woman who will be weary of her devotion to her art or craft she would have done better to remain single.

If Places Were Reversed.

It does not forget your statement that you do not neglect your home, but you may also that you feel your talent should come first. In that case do you blame your husband for feeling a lack of enthusiasm for the work like it yourself if the positions were reversed? Perhaps you would not mind his having a celebrity which made you obscure in comparison, but that man is a marvel who enjoys being scheduled as his wife's consort and not possessing a reputation of whose generosity or devotion or sense of humor was sufficient to allow them to flourish.

What, then, are you or other women like you to do with a talent they are sure they

No specific answer can be given which will cover all cases. Circumstances modify the individual decision.

The first point you must make sure to yourself is that you actually have a talent. One dictionary defines the word as "mental power of a superior order," "su-making a general topic of it but dwelling on the question as to whether it is a real or an imagined talent. Does that make any difference?

It surely does, and the cause for this applies to all women with talents as well as to the correspondent whose query started the discussion.

For two reasons. The first is that if a gift has really been bestowed upon you, it is your bounden duty to make the best of it.

This does not mean that you are to neglect everything else to exercise it unless you are in conditions where this can be done without any one suffering by it. Certainly, as a married woman, you have claims upon you which cannot be ignored, and your duty is to study how to meet those responsibilities squarely and yet not to let them interfere with the workings of your talent.

This is difficult, but not impossible. I have the honor of knowing women who have followed their art or their craft stead-follows her talent I can say that she is of those who will have trouble in the flesh. For no talent can be fulfilled in the best way among countless interruptions and calls upon the time and energies—and yet these are what you with an unmistakable talent assume when you marry and raise a family. You must resign yourself to have to listen to the baby when you are striving to write immortal prose; to be willing to leave your paints to dry while you

For Thanksgiving Day

"SMALL cheer and great welcome make a merry feast." And to this may be added "smart attire," for it contributes much to the success of the holiday feast. Clothing which is unattractive is not in keeping with the joyous spirit permeating Thanksgiving and kindred holidays. Every woman desires to appear at her best, and this is impossible when we don the "shabby gent."

Here is a collection of smart frocks from which each member of the family can choose her holiday costume.

Suitable for the debutante daughter is the charming frock of dull-green mirror velvet trimmed with bands of skunk fur. The bodice is a modified Russian jacket, with an inset vest of heavy white lace. About the raised waist line is drawn a circle of geranium-red ribbon velvet tied in an obi bow directly in front. The V-shaped opening at the neck is finished with a frill of fine net. A band of skunk finishes the hem of the draped skirt. Particularly lovely is the afternoon gown of soft green crêpe de china, which makes a becoming gown for the home to wear when entertaining. The bodice has a turned-down collar of yellow brocade silk, and the long sleeves are set in a dropped shoulder seam. A skirt with long, soft, wide folds to the waist line, and the skirt has a stashed tunic, which falls gracefully over a slightly draped undershirt.

The young schoolgirl desires to wear her party frock on holiday occasions, and the charming model pictured here is of simple lines. Two strips of lace are used in surprise fashion to trim the bodice. The three-tiered skirt is especially becoming to the girl of 14 or 16. Dull-green velvet is used for the main, and the lace is a soft pink.

Another handsome afternoon gown is developed of green silk crêpe. The vest of which extends into the skirt forms a panel, is of yellow velvet. Long, closely fitted sleeves are attached to the dropped shoulder seam. A simple collar of panne velvet and white mouseline de soie trim the bodice. Modified yoke draperies are arranged over the undershirt.

Grandma always provides an attractive frock for festive occasions, and this one is of a soft, throat-colored silk. The neck line is finished with an arrangement of three rows of lace. From beneath the upper row of lace material extend full draperies of the white net.

The children should wear pretty frocks, but not elaborate ones, which have a tendency to spoil good times.

Delight and simple is the mother's frock of almost white linen smocked with blue and red.
